PREFACE

THIS Spanish Grammar for Colleges may serve a two-fold purpose. It may be used to advantage in beginners' classes where the desire is to move forward rapidly and prepare the students to read and write Spanish with the least possible delay. And it may be used as a second-year review grammar.

Experience has shown that in examinations the average student is more likely to fail in the use of (1) personal pronoun objects and (2) the subjunctive mood, than in other parts of Spanish grammar. With this in view, the personal pronoun objects and the subjunctive mood have been introduced early, and their use has been stressed with much repetition throughout all the following lessons.

There are thirty lessons. In the first fifteen lessons the full inflection of all common verbs, both regular and irregular, and the rules for the use of moods and tenses, are given, together with the more common and elementary rules for the inflection and use of articles, nouns, pronouns, and adjectives. Beginning with Lesson XVI, the parts of speech are taken up separately and treated fully, one at a time. Thus Lesson XVI is devoted to the Articles, Lesson XVII is devoted to Nouns, Lesson XVIII to Adjectives, etc. There is also a short verb review in each of the last fifteen lessons.

In beginners' classes the Spanish Grammar for Colleges may be used in accordance with any one of several methods. Each lesson, including the rules of grammar and the English-Spanish exercise, may be done intensively and thoroughly.

If the instructor teaches by the direct method, the English-Spanish exercises may be omitted and the rest of the exercise material may be done without the use of English. The rules of grammar may be obtained from the exercises by deduction.

Or, if the instructor plans to do a large amount of reading the first year and postpone till later the study of grammar as such, the rules of grammar in the first fifteen lessons may be treated as recognition material and the emphasis be put on comprehension and vocabulary. After thus completing the first fifteen lessons, college students should be able to read ordinary Spanish prose understandingly with the aid of a special vocabulary or a dictionary.

We wish to express our gratitude to Professor G. Rivera of Harvard University for help in preparing some of the exercise material and in reading the proofs.

SPANISH GRAMMAR FOR COLLEGES

PRONUNCIATION

THE ALPHABET

1. The Spanish alphabet has twenty-nine different signs:

a, b, c, ch, d, e, f, g, h, i, j, k, l, ll, m, n, ñ, o, p, q, r, s, t, u, v, w, x, y, z.

NOTE. — The Castilian pronunciation of these is taken as the norm by cultured speakers in Spain. It is therefore the pronunciation adopted here. It is fair to state, however, that certain dialect peculiarities (especially Andalusian) have passed over to the former Spanish colonies in America and the Philippines and now represent the pronunciation of the larger proportion of the Spanish-speaking peoples. The signs k and w occur mainly in words from foreign languages, and in them receive their foreign values.

2. Vowels. — The vowel sounds are denoted by a, e, i, o, u, and occasionally y (which is a vowel in the conjunction y, and, as well as at the end of a word, as in rey, king). The vowel y has the same sound as Spanish i. There is in English a tendency to convert all long vowels into diphthongs; that is, to add a final glide sound to the original vowel. This tendency must be avoided in Spanish, where the individual vowel denotes a simple vocalic sound.

a is approximate to English a in far, as in ala, cama, cada, vaca, canta, etc. But it is a front a, between the a of far and that of fad, before ll, ñ and y, as in calla, caña, mayo. It is a back a before u, g or j, and before l in a closed syllable (that is, before an l in the same syllable), as in causa, pago, bajo, igual. This a is not nearly so "broad" as the English a in all. The three sounds of Spanish a do not differ greatly, and may be illustrated by the stressed vowels of caña, carta, causa.

e has two sounds, that may be described as "close" and "open." The e is open in (1) closed syllables, except in those closed by m, n, or s, (2) in contact with trilled r, (3) before j, and (4) in the diphthong ei (ey). Thus: (1) papel, valer; (2) perro, regla; (3) dejo, mejor; (4) aceite, ley.

In all other positions e is close; thus: mete, seda, cena, siempre, desdén. Spanish close e resembles a in mate, but is without the English diphthongal glide. The English a in mate really approximates the Spanish diphthong ei. The e of Spanish meto, for instance, should be free from the diphthongal glide. Spanish open e approximates English e in met.

i usually resembles English i in machine, as in mira, pido, sitio. It is slightly more open in closed syllables, and especially before l, r, or s, but it is never quite so open as the English i in ill. The Spanish open i is midway between English ee in eel and i in ill. Thus: ferrocarril, salir, desisto.

o has two sounds, close and open. Spanish o is open (1) in all closed syllables, (2) in contact with trilled r, (3) before j, and (4) in the diphthong oi (oy). Thus (1) con, dos, mayor, hombre; (2) corro, rojo; (3) cojo; (4) estoy, soy, oigo. In all other positions o is close; thus: bote, cosa, moda, toda.

Close o resembles English o in note, but is without the English diphthongal glide. The English o in note really approximates the Spanish diphthong ou. The o of Spanish moda, for instance, should be free from the diphthongal glide. Open o resembles the English o in north.

It should be noted that while e is usually and o is always open in a closed syllable, as in papel and mejor, this e and this o become close if the syllable becomes open. Thus e and o are close, and not open, in papeles and mayores.

u is usually pronounced like English oo in moon, as in luna, mudo. Spanish u is slightly more open in a closed syllable, as in mundo, burla, but it is not quite so open as English u in put. It never has the sound of English u in cup. Nor does Spanish u ever have the sound of English u in cube.

3. (1) Quantity. — In Castilian there are no long vowels, properly speaking, all being short or of medium length. English-speaking students must avoid prolonging vowels, especially final vowels, as occurs so generally in English when the vowel is stressed.

(2) Elision. — Elision is common in spoken Spanish, where a vowel is repeated, as in de él (pronounced d'el), la altura (l'altura), de este (d'este), ya lo oigo (ya l'oigo).

(3) Synalepha. — Within a phrase or breath group, and within a verse-line, the final vowel or diphthong of one word and the initial vowel or diphthong of the immediately following word usually combine to form one syllable, as in:

Ese hombre no está aquí (6 syllables).

La ofrenda ignoran que les da la fuente (11 syllables).

La muerte implora allí, la muerte airada (11 syllables).

a. A or ha (but no other vowel) may come between the words without interfering with synalepha, as in:

Salva a esta sociedad desventurada (11 syllables).

Huye el monstruo a exhalar su acerba pena (11 syllables).

b. But if one of the syllables involved is stressed, there may be hiatus instead of synalepha, and if the second of the syllables bears the rhythmic accent of a verse-line (if, for instance, it is in the rhyming syllable), hiatus is the rule, (but these exceptions are relatively infrequent).

¿Quién calmará ; oh España ! tus pesares? (11 syllables).

Porque es para el ser que ama (8 syllables).

4. Diphthongs and Triphthongs. — The vowels may be divided into two chief classes: the strong, a, e, o; and the weak, i (y) and u.

A combination of two or three adjacent vowels may form a single syllable in pronunciation; such a combination constitutes a diphthong or a triphthong. The individual elements of a diphthong or a triphthong are all to be pronounced, but more rapidly than when they stand outside such a combination.

(1) Diphthongs. — A Spanish diphthong, properly so called, consists of a combination into a single syllable of one of the strong vowels (a, e, o) with one of the weak vowels (i or y, u), or of one (i) of the weak vowels with the other (u). The stress, if the syllable be the accented one of the word, will fall upon the strong vowel, or upon the second of the weak vowels where the diphthong consists of two of these latter.

The possible combinations, governed by the relative position of the vowels, are given in the following list. The vowel of the diphthong that may bear the stress is the one in heavy type.

ai (ay) as in baile, dance (hay, there is , there are)	ia as in estudiar, to study
au as in flauta, flute	ua as in cuatro, four
ei (ey) as in reina, queen (rey, king)	ie as in sien, temple
eu as in deuda, debt	ue as in fuerte, strong
oi (oy) as in oigo, I hear (doy, I give)	io as in naciones, nations
ou as in bou, fishing-boat (a rare diphthong)	uo as in cuota, quota
iu as in triunfo, triumph	ui as in cuita, grief

a. The vowels of these combinations are of approximately equal force in a diphthong not bearing the accent of the word, as in bailar, to dance; flautero, flute-player; reinar, to reign; deudor, debtor; oigamos, let us hear; triunfar, to triumph; fiaremos, we shall trust, etc.

b. Two adjacent strong vowels are normally regarded as forming two distinct syllables, and not a diphthong; as in faena, labor; caoba, mahogany; loa, prologue; reo, defendant; leer, to read; roer, to gnaw, etc. So also a combination of two weak vowels with the stress on the first of them (as in flúido, fluid), or of a strong and a weak vowel with the stress on the weak vowel (as in traído, brought; roído, gnawed), forms not a diphthong, but two separate syllables. In these two latter cases the stress is usually indicated by a written accent. For metrical purposes even these adjacent vowels may occasionally count as a single syllable. And in popular speech flúido is now usually pronounced fluído.

c. The accent mark is now usually placed on the i of the past participle of -uir verbs, as huído, construída, etc., to indicate that the u and the i are in separate syllables (as are u and y in huyo).

(2) Triphthongs. — A triphthong consists of a combination of a stressed strong vowel with two weak vowels, between which it is always placed. There are but four possible combinations, all of which end in i (written y in the final position or before the vowel of another syllable).

iai	as in estudiáis, you study
iei	as in principiéis, you may begin
uai (uay)	as in fraguáis, you forge ; guay, woe
uei (uey)	as in continuéis, may you continue ; buey, ox

NOTE. — Spanish words do not begin with the i or u of a diphthong or a triphthong. Where the normal development of a Latin word into Spanish involved the passage of initial stressed ē to ie, or of initial stressed ō to ue (for Spanish usually broke up the short Latin vowels into these diphthongs), the i was changed to y and a silent h was prefixed to the u: e.g., Latin errat, Spanish yerra (for ierra), 'he errs' (cf. Latin erra're, Spanish errar, 'to err'); Latin ovum, Spanish huevo, 'egg.'

5. Consonants.¹ — For the sake of convenience the consonants will be considered in several groups, determined, in the main, by the kind of organs that produce the sounds in question.

¹ The Spanish names of the consonants are these: be, ce, che, de, e, efe, ge, hache, jota, ka, ele, elle, eme, ene, eñe, pe, cu, ere, ese, te, ve (also called u consonante, or ve corta to distinguish it from be larga since v and b are pronounced alike), ve doble, equis, ye (also called y griega), zeta. To the consonants and vowels of these names are, of course, to be given their Spanish value. The rr may be called erre, although the combination rr is no longer considered a single letter.

6. Labials and labio-dentals, that is, sounds produced by the action, upon a current of air, of the lips alone or of the upper teeth and the lower lip working together: b, v, p, f, m, w (u in hiatus).

b and v denote the same sound. This (a voiced¹ bilabial fricative) is ordinarily one not used in English, but is akin to the German (bilabial) w. It is most easily pronounced by seeking to utter the English b without closing the lips entirely (as is requisite in the true English b), and permitting the air to pass out constantly through a narrow slit between the lips; as in cabo, end, cape; lobo, wolf; clavo, nail; tuve, I had. The sound of the English v (labio-dental) does not exist in Castilian.

After m or n (whether n be in the same word or at the end of the preceding word) both the b and the v receive a sound like that of the English b (a voiced labial stop); as in también, as well, also; envidia, envy (often spelled embidia in Old Spanish); con valor, with courage. In such cases the n, though retained in spelling, receives the value of m. Moreover, the English sound of b is often given to both b and v when initial and emphatic, as in ¡ basta ! enough ! ¡ villano ! villain ! Before s, a b is slighted entirely in popular speech, as in substancia, obscuro,² etc.

p. Approximately the English sound (a voiceless bilabial stop); as in papel, paper.

f. Usually like the English f (a voiceless labio-dental fricative); as in favor, favor.

m resembles the English m (a voiced labial nasal); as in mimar, to fondle. But final m is pronounced n, as in álbum (pronounced a'lbun).

w occurs usually in words from foreign languages, and in them it has the foreign pronunciation; thus it has the English sound in Wellington and the German sound in Wagner. Unaccented u in hiatus, as in fuerte, strong, or cuando, when, is, in Castilian pronunciation, only a semi-vowel; that is, it is partly a consonant, and as such it approximates in value to the English w.

² The b of obscuro, substancia, etc., is sometimes omitted in writing, and is pronounced only by the pedantic.

W is found in Spanish in a few proper names that are by no means recent importations, but go back to the period of Visigothic dominion in Spain: Wamba, Witiza. In these it receives the usual value of Spanish b and v; cf. the spellings Vamba, Bamba, and Vitiza sometimes found.

7. Dentals or lingua-dentals, that is, sounds produced by the united action of the tongue and the teeth upon a current of air: t, d, c (followed by e or i), z, l, n. Along with these may be considered ll, ñ, and a variety of n occurring before "hard" c, qu, or "hard" g, etc., although these l and n sounds are not properly dentals.

t. Not unlike English t, except that it, as well as all the Spanish dentals, is produced farther forward in the mouth than the English dentals.

In Spanish the point of the tongue often touches the upper teeth when the t and other dentals are produced, whereas in English the tongue is allowed to touch the roof of the mouth somewhat back of the roots of the upper teeth. There is, therefore, a very appreciable difference between the sounds of t and n in English ten and those in Spanish ten, hold.

d. There is a marked difference between the sound of English d and the common sound of Spanish d. The latter may be compared to an English d prolonged, and uttered softly: the tongue approaches but may not touch the upper teeth. Ex.: seda, nadie, todo.

The English d (a voiced dental stop) is produced by the escape of air from the mouth after the passage of the air has first been stopped by contact between the tongue and the roof of the mouth near the upper teeth. The common Spanish sound (a voiced dental fricative) is produced without contact between the tongue and the teeth, and the passage of the air is not wholly cut off.

At the beginning of a breath-group, or after l or n, d resembles the English d, as in ; diablo! the deuce!; espalda, shoulder; andando, walking. At the end of a word d is fricative in careful speech, while in colloquial speech it tends to disappear entirely, as in usted, you, which is usually pronounced usté. Between vowels, d has disappeared largely in the pronunciation of untrained speakers, and even those who pronounce carefully show a decided tendency to suppress this intervocalic d, especially in -ado, saying, for example, amao for amado, loved. Moreover, both the written and the spoken language have already accepted the loss of the intervocalic d of the reflexive imperative second person plural: e.g., amaos, love one another (for amad, love, + os, you, each other).

c followed by e or i; } These have a common value (a voiceless dental fricative) in Castilian speech, viz., a lisp sound approximate to that of th in English thin, as in cielo, heaven; cena, supper; zapato, shoe. In Southern Spain and in Spanish America and the Philippines, both c (e, i) and z are pronounced like s.

If z is followed by a voiced consonant (i.e., such a consonant as n, l, g, etc.), it may itself become voiced and have approximately the value of English th in with; as in portazgo, toll; hazlo, do it; gozne, hinge.

l and n have usually values resembling the English values (l, a voiced lateral fricative; n, a voiced dental nasal), but they are produced farther forward in the mouth than the English sounds, so that there is a perceptible difference between the sounds of l and n in English lance and those in its Spanish equivalent lanza, as there is between the n of English ten and that of Spanish ten, hold.

When followed by the so-called "hard" g or k sound, by g (before e or i), by j, or by hue-, as in vengo, I come; blanco, white; banquero, banker; rengífero, reindeer; naranja, orange; un hueso, a bone, n ceases to be dental, and acquires a value similar to that of ng in English sing, i.e., a velar nasal value.

ll has a sound most nearly represented in English by that of lli in million (i. e., it is a palatalized form of l, not a doubled l, in sound).

It should be noted that while the English sound of lli in million is that of l followed by that of y, the Spanish sound is that of l infected by y throughout the duration of its enunciation; i. e., it is l no longer dental, but produced with the tongue in the y position, or, in other words, with the middle of the tongue touching the hard palate, and with the tip of the tongue against the lower teeth. There is, therefore, a marked difference between the pronunciation of lli in million and that of ll in its Spanish equivalent millón. In some parts of Spain and Spanish America, ll has become y in sound, e. g., caballo, horse, is pronounced cabayo. In the vulgar speech of certain regions, this y has disappeared entirely when immediately following stressed e or i: e. g., se-o for sello, si-a for silla, etc. (but si-yita for sillita, etc.). This omission of y is everywhere considered as vulgar. In Argentina there is a tendency to pronounce ll like English s in pleasure.

ñ. This (a palatalized form of n) is similarly n produced with the tongue in the y position (see ll). It is only approximately rendered by the ni of onion or the ny of canyon; this latter expresses in a measure, but yet not perfectly, the ñ of the Spanish original cañón. The mark over the n is termed the tilde.

8. Palatals, that is, sounds formed by bringing the tongue into contact with the palate: c (1) followed by a, o, or u, (2) followed by any consonant except h, (3) at the end of a word; qu always followed by e or i; k in foreign words; g (1) followed by a, o, or u, (2) followed by a consonant; gu when followed by e or i.

The first three of these, i. e., c in the positions indicated, qu, and k, have approximately the sound of English k or "hard" c (a voiceless palatal stop); as in carro, cart; conde, count; culto, cult; creador, creator; frac, evening coat; quedo, quiet; quilla, keel; kiosko, kiosk.

The last two in the list, i. e., g before a, o, u, or a consonant, and gu before e or i, have approximately the sound of the “hard” English g (a voiced palatal stop) of got or get; as in galante, gallant; golfo, gulf; gutural, guttural; gruta, grotto; guarda, guard; guerilla, guerilla; guía, guide.

In such cases as these last two (guerilla, guía) the u is not itself pronounced, but is merely a sign that the g has the “hard” sound before the following e or i. Where the gu is followed by another vowel than these, the g has its “hard” sound, but the u is pronounced, having to some degree the value of English w, as in guano, guano. Occasionally, even before e or i, the u has a pronounceable value, but in such cases it must be written with a diæresis, as in antigüedad, antiquity; lingüístico, linguistic.

Intervocalic “hard” g becomes fricative (i.e., a soft g without complete contact of tongue and palate: cf. b and d), as in hago, I make; hormiga, ant; droga, drug, etc. In some parts of southern Spain and Spanish America, g before u + vowel, and gu before i + vowel, tend to disappear in the vulgar speech, as awa for agua, water; siyendo for siguiendo, following, etc.

9. Sibilants, that is, hissing sounds. In Castilian s is the only simple sign denoting a sibilant value, but there are two signs denoting a compound sound into which an s value enters, viz., ch and x.

s. The Spanish s commonly has a sound similar to that of English initial s, as in sing, and of English ss, as in kiss, but it is uttered more softly than English s; thus, saco, sack; sal, salt; pasar, to pass; notas, notes.

Caution must be taken not to give to Spanish s between vowels the sound of English z (a voiced sibilant) or of intervocalic English s as in rose.

S before a voiced consonant becomes voiced in normal colloquial speech (= English z), as in desde, since; sesgo, slope; mismo, same, self, etc.

In parts of Spain and Spanish America, s before a consonant and final becomes in the vulgar speech a soft aspirate, approximating to but softer than German ch in ich. Ex.: las bonitas muchachas becomes la' bonita' muchacha'; el compás, el compa'; dos niños, do' niño', etc. This pronunciation is rather widespread, but should be avoided.

ch, a compound sound (a voiceless stop plus a voiceless palatal sibilant), like the ch of church; as in mucho, much.

x, a compound sound (a voiceless palatal stop plus a voiceless sibilant s), usually quite like the x of English six or lax. It consists of a k sound followed by the sibilant s sound, as in axioma, axiom. When the x stands before a consonant, the Spanish Academy insists that it be still pronounced as ks; but the generality of speakers pronounce it there as s simply; thus, in extranjero, stranger; sexto, sixth. In such cases there is a manifest tendency to write s instead of x, i.e., estranjero, sesto, etc.

Between vowels x is sometimes pronounced like a soft English gs (i.e., as a voiced guttural stop plus a sibilant), so that the x of Spanish examen may resemble the x of its English equivalent examination. In exacto, exact, x is usually pronounced as s. The Mexican government keeps, as the official spelling, the old forms, México and mexicanc, but the x is pronounced as j.

10. Aspirates, or well-breathed sounds: j in all positions; g followed by e or i.

j in all positions and g before e or i denote the one sound (a voiceless guttural or velar fricative) which is most closely approximated in English by pronouncing the h of hot very far back in the mouth and in a very forcible way; as in jamás, never; gente, people; girar, to turn. The sound of the German ch in nach, doch, etc., affords a still closer parallel to the Spanish sound.

In the production of this Spanish sound, the velar (or soft) palate vibrates against the back of the tongue, which is withdrawn as much as possible into the rear of the mouth. The Castilian sound is a harsh one, but it is softened in Andalusia and Spanish America to the value of a strong English h or the German ch of ich.

h is always silent, as in hora, hour, hacer, to do, etc. In vulgar speech hue— is often pronounced as güe— (with a faint fricative g), but this initial consonant is a constricted u rather than an h. Thus, güeso for hueso, bone; güevo for huevo, egg, etc. The same sound is heard for bue-, vue-, as in güeno for bueno, good; güelvo for vuelvo, I return.

11. Tongue-trilled Consonants: r and rr. These denote a sound not very unlike that of the English r carefully pronounced, and, upon occasion, having a well-prolonged trill.

The sound is produced by making the forward part of the tongue vibrate against the palate, just back of the upper teeth. The point of contact between the tongue and the palate is farther forward than in English.

It is made approximately in the position of English d. If students of Spanish use in their English the "back r" heard in parts of the Middle West of the United States and Canada, they must learn to move the tongue forward to the d position.

Final r in Spanish never has the semivocalic glide sound of final English r. Compare English ther(e) and Spanish ser.

There are two varieties of the sound:

a. A weaker variety, i.e., one in which the tongue goes to the r position only once. This is denoted in Spanish by a single r (1) between vowels, as in pero, but; (2) immediately before and after consonants (except l, n, s), as in carne, meat; corto, short; bravo, wild; ladrón, robber; fresno, ash tree; grano, grain; prado, meadow; trato, behavior; (3) final in a word, as in amar, to love. It is to be carefully uttered, and not slurred as it so often is in English; cf. paper, mother, etc., in which the r sound is barely discernible.

b. A reënforced variety, i.e., one with a well-prolonged trill. It is not a doubled consonant, but rather a prolongation of the other variety. It is denoted by rr between vowels, as in perro, dog; parra, vine (cf. pero, but, and para, for, in which the weaker variety occurs); by single r at the beginning of a word, as in roble, oak; and by single r after l, n or s, as in alrededor, around; enredo, entanglement; israelita, Israelite. Within a word, after b marking the end of a prefix, this same strong r occurs, as in subrayar, to underline.

(cf. raya, line, with initial strong r). The fact that initial single r denotes the same reënforced variety as intervocalic rr is shown by words like rota, rout, and the derivative derrota. In colloquial speech, s may be absorbed by an immediately following r, so that dos reales becomes dorreales with a strongly trilled r.

12. Spirant y (a voiced palatal fricative), not much unlike English y in sound, except that its enunciation is stronger, as in ya, already; yo, I; yeso, gypsum.

When initial in a sentence and emphatic, or after l or n, y may sound like English j in joy, as in ; yo sí lo creo ! I do believe it; cónyuge, spouse; un yugo, a yoke; con hierro, with iron (note that hie- is equal to ye-).

Unaccented i in hiatus is often but a semivowel; i.e., it is partly consonantal and tends to become y. This is especially so in the case of the diphthong ie: cf. yerra, he errs, for ierra, and the spelling yerba, herb, and hierba, side by side. As already stated, y is a vowel in the conjunction y, and; it is a vowel (or at least a semivowel) whenever it occurs in a diphthong or triphthong, as in bocoy, hogshead; buey, ox.

13. Non-phonetic Orthography. — Spanish orthography is not consistently phonetic, though much more so than English orthography. According to the rules of the Spanish Academy, only two letters are ever mute, viz., h and u, as follows:

h is regularly silent, as in hado, fate; hilo, thread. In the digraph ch it has no individual value.

u is silent, or at least has no individual value, in the combination qu. It is also not pronounced in the combination gu followed by e or i; it is there but a sign of "hard" g: cf. sigue, he follows, siguió, he followed, with sigo, I follow, sigu, I may follow. If it happens that the u of the combination gue or gui is actually pronounced, a diæresis is written over it; e.g., argüir, to argue; averigüé, I ascertained (cf. the infinitive averiguar, in which the u is, of course, pronounced).

In addition to h and u, there are several letters that, in certain combinations, are usually not pronounced in colloquial Spanish, viz.:

b is mute in obscuro, subscripción, substancia, etc.; that is, b before s plus a consonant is usually silent. In written Spanish also this b is often omitted, as in oscuro, sustancia, etc.

c, before a consonant, is often mute, as in diccionario, lección, afectísimo, etc. Students are advised to pronounce this c.

d is often silent in the final position, and between vowels when it follows stressed a, o, or u (less often after e or i), as in Madrid, amado, nada, todo, toda, a menudo, etc.; also before s, as in adscribir, adstringir, etc. The student should pronounce fricative d. As to final d, see § 7.

g, before a consonant, is often mute, as in digno, magnánimo, etc. The student should pronounce this as a very soft fricative g.

j is mute only in reloj (occasionally written reló). In the plural, relojes, j is pronounced.

n is usually mute in the prefix trans- before a consonant, as in transcribir, transmitir, etc.; but it is often pronounced in transatlántico, etc.

p is mute usually in subscripción, séptimo, septiembre, pseudo, psicología, etc. (i.e., before t or s, p is usually silent). In written Spanish also this p is sometimes omitted, as in sétimo, setiembre, etc.

Some other non-phonetic peculiarities of Spanish orthography are as follows:

n, before p or v, has the sound of m, as in un perro, un vaso, etc.; cf. § 7.

v = b. See § 6.

x, before a consonant, is usually pronounced as s, as in extremo, exposición, etc.; and in exacto, x = s.

NOTE. — The Spanish Academy has attempted of late years to put back into Spanish many sounds that had disappeared or changed, as the x of experiencia in place of s, the b of obscuro, the p of séptimo, the d of adscribir, the t of istmo, etc., and the Academy has asked the Spanish people to use these restored sounds in their speech. To some extent the sounds have been adopted, and they may be heard on the stage and in the pulpit, but practically never in colloquial Spanish (except x, which is making headway).

14. Doubled Letters. — The general statement may be made that the doubling of consonants is not favored in Spanish. ll does not represent a double sound, and it figures in the alphabet as a distinct sign, for ll denotes a peculiar quality of l (the palatalized l). Three consonants, however, may be written double, viz., r, c, and n. For the pronunciation of rr, see § 11. In the refined pronunciation of Castile each of the two c's or two n's is carefully articulated: as in accidente, accident (of which the first c sounds like k, and the second like th of thin), and in innoble, ignoble.

No other consonant is doubled in writing or pronunciation in modern Spanish. To the frequent mm of English (mostly in words of Latin and Romance origin) there corresponds the Spanish nm, as in inmenso, immense. Of the vowels only e occurs doubled with any frequency, and each e is pronounced in a distinct syllable; as in creer, to believe; leer, to read. Some of the double e's of early Spanish are now reduced to single e; cf. ser, to be, for the older seer; ver, to see, for the older veer. We occasionally find a and o doubled and pronounced accordingly; the first a or o usually belongs to a prefix, as in contraalmirante, rear admiral; cooperar, to coöperate.

ACCENTUATION

15. For certain words it is necessary to indicate the place for the stress of the voice by a written accent put over the vowel of the syllable bearing it; for many others this written accent is not necessary, as, in accordance with rules laid down by the Spanish Academy, the mere aspect of the word clearly indicates the place of the chief stress. The leading rules are these:

(1) Words ending in a vowel, or in the consonants n or s, normally stress the second last syllable (the penult), and they require no written accent, as in:

carta letter	respiro I breathe	hablan they speak
palabra word	sollozo sob	cartas letters dulce sweet	tribu tribe	naciones nations
hijo son

Words ending in n or s normally receive the same treatment as those ending in a vowel, because the n or s is often but a sign of pluralization, or of verbal inflection, and is added to forms that regularly end in a vowel: cf. carta, letter, and cartas, letters; ama, he loves, and aman, they love.

(2) Words ending in a consonant except n or s normally stress the last syllable and need no written accent, as:

verdad truth

igual equal

For accentual purposes, final y may be regarded as a consonant: hence, bocoy, hogshead.

(3) All words stressed on a syllable preceding the second last, and all not obeying the two rules already given, must have a written accent over the vowel bearing the stress; e.g., ejército army

mamá mamma

interés interest

hígado liver

rubí ruby

lápiz lead pencil

telégrafo telegraph

nación nation

mármol marble

sofá sofa

amáis you love (cf. amas thou lovest)

As a result of the addition of the plural sign -es (but not -s), a word not bearing a written accent in the singular may now have to take one; as in crimen, crime (cf. rule 1), pl. crímenes (cf. rule 3); or, again, an accent written in the singular may not need to be written in the plural, as in nación (cf. rule 3), pl. naciones (cf. rule 1). It is the general principle that the addition of the plural sign should not affect the place of oral stress. This principle is violated in the case of carácter, character, and régimen, régime, which in the plural shift their accent one syllable farther on: caracteres and regímenes.

16. Diphthongs and Triphthongs. — If the stressed syllable of the word have a diphthong, this will bear the accent (written or unwritten) on the strong vowel, if there be one, or on the second of two weak vowels, as in:

baile dance

buitre vulture

estudió he studied amáis you love

viuda widow

A triphthong will always bear the accent (written or unwritten) on the strong vowel:

averiguáis you ascertain fieis may you trust

17. Monosyllables normally take no written accent:

no no, not plan plan

ruin vile

Occasionally, however, a written accent is found in monosyllables (or in some dissyllables), where its use is that of a diacritic, intended to distinguish the sense or the particular employment of words written and pronounced alike, as in cómo, how, as distinguished from como, as; in mí, me, as distinguished from mi, my; in éste, this one (a pronoun), as distinguished from este, this (an adjective); in quién, who (an interrogative), as distinguished from quien, who (a relative), etc. The analogy of other preterites explains the use of the accent in certain monosyllabic preterites, such as fuí, I was; fué, he was. When aun, still, yet, is emphatic, it may become a dissyllable, and will then stress its u, which (cf. § 15, rule 3) must bear a written accent, aún.

18. Compound words, felt as such, normally stress the proper syllable of each component part, especially in the case of adverbs in -mente (the equivalent of English -ly) and of compound numerals; any accent required in one of the parts standing alone will continue to be written in the compound:

fácilmente easily (cf. fácil easy) décimoséptimo seventeenth (cf. décimo tenth, and séptimo seventh) dulcemente sweetly

The addition of a pronoun-object to a verb form will not lead to the omission of any written accent that the verb form had when standing alone, as in déme, give me (cf. dé, give), even though without the writing of the accent its position is clear enough.

On the other hand, a verb form which does not normally need a written accent will take one if, by the addition of one or more object-pronouns, its stress is placed more than two syllables from the end of its whole combination, thus: diciedo, saying, but dicíéndomelo, saying it to me; haga, do (polite imperative), but hágallo, do it.

NOTE. -- The accent of the stressed syllable of a word is nearly as strong as in English; but the unstressed vowels must not be slurred in pronunciation, as they so often are in English.

SYLLABIFICATION

19. A single consonantal character and the digraphs ch and ll (these two being inseparable combinations) are, in a syllabic division, passed over to the following vowel; so, also, are most combinations of a consonant with an ensuing l or r (including rr; but not rl, sl, tl, and sr, which are separable):

la-bio lip	cu-brir to cover	no-ble noble
ja-ca pony	su-frir to suffer	mo-fle-tu-do chubby-la-do side	re-pri-mir to repress	cheeked
ne-xo knot	la-cre sealing-wax	su-plir to supply mu-cho much	ma-gro meagre	te-cla key bu-llir to boil	ma-dre mother	si-glo century
pa-rra vine	cua-tro four

Cf.	mer-lu-za cod	es-la-bón link
	At-lán-ti-co Atlantic	is-ra-e-li-ta Israelite

20. With the exception of the inseparable combinations mentioned in the foregoing rule, two consonants between vowels are so divided that one remains with the preceding, the other goes to the following vowel:

ap-to fit	más-til mast	in-no-ble ignoble, etc.
cor-te court		ac-ci-den-te accident

Where the combination of consonants between vowels is of more than two, there is a tendency to pass over to the second vowel only a single consonant or one of the inseparable combinations mentioned in § 19; e.g.:

par-che plaster	cons-truc-ción construction pers-pi-ca-cia perspicacity

21. Prefixes felt as such are usually kept intact, contrary to the rule in § 19; e.g.:

des-es-pe-rar to despair (cf. esperar to hope) sub-le-var-se to rebel (cf. levar to raise) ab-ro-ga-ción abrogation (cf. rogar to ask)

PUNCTUATION

22. The only notable points here are the double use of question marks and exclamation points, which not only end their clause, but in an inverted form usually precede it (e.g., ¿Cómo está Vd.? How are you? ¡Qué hermosa mujer! What a beautiful woman!), and the frequency of suspension points (. . .) in narrative or dramatic style.

CAPITALIZATION

23. Capitals are less commonly used in Spanish than in English. Unless they begin a sentence, a line of verse, or a quotation, proper adjectives, the pronoun yo, and the names of days of the week and of months, are not capitalized.

LESSON I

24. Gender of Nouns. — All Spanish nouns are either masculine or feminine; thus, grammatically speaking, árbol, tree, is masculine, and casa, house, is feminine.

(1) Names of male beings are masculine, and names of female beings are feminine, as in English.

(2) Names of things are masculine if they end in -o, and feminine if they end in -a. If they end otherwise, it is usually best to learn the gender of each noun separately.

libro masc. book
plato masc. plate

pluma fem. pen
taza fem. cup

a. But mano, hand, is feminine; and día, day, mapa, map, and several words of Greek origin ending in -ta and -ma are masculine.¹

25. Many names of living beings have both a masculine and a feminine form, the latter ending in -a.

hijo son
hermano brother
gato cat (male) monje monk huésped guest (male) hija daughter hermana sister gata cat (female) monja nun

huésped guest (female)

26. Indefinite Article. — The Spanish indefinite article is un before a masculine, una before a feminine noun.

un hombre a man
un árbol a tree

una mujer a woman una casa a house

a. In Spanish the indefinite article must be repeated before each noun to which it refers: una casa y un jardín, a house and garden.

¹ E.g., cometa, comet; planeta, planet; idioma, language; poema, poem; programa, programme; sistema, system.

27. The Regular Conjugations. — Spanish verbs are conveniently divided, according to the infinitive endings -ar, -er, and -ir, into three conjugations:

I	II	III
hablar (to) speak	temer (to) fear	vivir (to) live

Like these are inflected all regular verbs with corresponding infinitive endings.

28. Indicative: Present Tense

Hablar

SINGULAR

- | | |
|-------------------|--|
| 1. habl o | I speak, I do speak, I am speaking |
| 2. habl as | you speak, do speak, are speaking |
| 3. habl a | he, she, or it speaks, does speak, is speaking |

- | | |
|---------------------|------------------------------------|
| 1. habl amos | we speak, do speak, are speaking |
| 2. habl áis | you speak, do speak, are speaking |
| 3. habl an | they speak, do speak, are speaking |

Temer

- | | |
|------------------|-----------------------|
| 1. tem o | I fear, do fear, etc. |
| 2. tem es | |
| 3. tem e | |

- | |
|--------------------|
| 1. tem emos |
| 2. tem éis |
| 3. tem en |

Vivir

- | | |
|------------------|-----------------------|
| 1. viv o | I live, do live, etc. |
| 2. viv es | |
| 3. viv e | |

- | |
|--------------------|
| 1. viv imos |
| 2. viv ís |
| 3. viv en |

Note that the Spanish verb may be expressed in English in three different ways; thus, hablo means I speak, I do speak, or I am speaking. Note also that the subject-pronouns may be omitted in Spanish though required in English.

EXERCISES

A. Study: 1. Compro un libro. Leo un libro. Leo mucho. Gompro papel. Compro tinta. Compro una pluma. Escribo mucho. Escribo en papel. Escribo con pluma y tinta. Escribo en papel con pluma y tinta. Compro también un lápiz. Escribo con lápiz. Escribo en papel con lápiz. Escribo un libro. Escribo un libro en español.¹

2. Estudiamos mucho. Estudiamos para aprender. Hablamos inglés y español. Aprendemos a² escribir en inglés y en español. Carlos compra una pluma y tinta. Escribe con pluma y tinta en papel. Escribe una carta en español. Escribe a un amigo. María estudia un idioma. Estudia mucho para aprender un idioma. Aprende a leer un libro en español. Carlos y María compran una casa con jardín.

B. *Answer in Spanish (see A, 2). In the answers use the subject — if there is one — and the verb: ¿Qué compra Carlos?*³ ¿Qué escribe Carlos? ¿Con qué escribe? ¿En qué escribe? ¿Qué estudia María? ¿Qué aprende? ¿Qué compran Carlos y María?

C. 1. Continue: Compro papel (compras papel, compra papel, etc.). Leo un libro. Escribo con pluma y tinta. Hablo español.

2. Repeat all the sentences of A, 1, in the first person plural and in the third person plural. (Compramos un libro, etc.; compran un libro, etc.)

3. Give the following nouns with the corresponding form of the indefinite article: libro, monje, gato, pluma, idioma, casa, jardín, árbol, hermano, mano, mujer, día, hija, huésped, mapa, taza.

D. Write in Spanish: 1. A man speaks Spanish. 2. A woman speaks Spanish. 3. [They]⁴ speak Spanish. 4. [They] read a book in Spanish. 5. A man buys a book. 6. [He] reads a book. 7. [He]

¹ Note that a Spanish name of a language, like a Spanish proper adjective, is written with a small initial letter.

² After certain verbs such as aprender the preposition a is required in Spanish before an infinitive.

³ Note that an inverted interrogation mark is required in Spanish at the beginning of an interrogative sentence or clause.

⁴ Words enclosed in [] are not to be translated.

buys paper, a pen and ink. 8. [He] writes with pen and ink. 9. [He] writes to a friend. 10. A woman buys paper. 11. [She] buys a pencil also. 12. [She] writes on paper with [a] pencil. 13. Charles speaks Spanish. 14. Mary also speaks Spanish. 15. Mary and Charles speak Spanish. 16. Do [they] speak English? 17. [They] speak English also. 18. [We] study a language. 19. [We] study in order to learn. 20. [We] learn to speak Spanish. 21. [We] learn to read a book in Spanish.

Vocabulary

a to	inglés English
el amigo, la amiga friend	el lápiz pencil
aprender (to) learn	leer (to) read
Carlos Charles	María Mary
la carta letter	mucho much, a great deal comprar (to) buy	el papel paper
con with	para in order to, to de of	qué what (interrog.) en in, on	también also escribir (to) write	la tinta ink
español Spanish	y and estudiar (to) study

LESSON II

29. Plural of Nouns. — The plural of nouns is formed by adding -s or -es to the singular.

(1) If the noun ends in an unstressed vowel or diphthong, -s is added.

amigo friend	amigos friends
rosa rose	rosas roses
labio lip	labios lips
especie species sg.	especies species pl.

(2) If the noun ends in a consonant or in a stressed vowel or diphthong, -es is added.¹

¹ In pluralizing, y final may be regarded as a consonant: it is really the last element of a stressed diphthong or triphthong, as in bocoy, hogshead, and buey, ox.

flor f. flower	flores flowers
mes m. month	meses months
rubí m. ruby	rubíes rubies
bajá m. pashaw	bajaes pashaws
rey m. king	reyes kings

EXCEPTIONS. — a. Nouns ending in stressed -e add -s to form the plural: pie, m. foot; pies, feet.

b. Nouns ending in unstressed -es or -is have the same form in the plural as in the singular: lunes, m. Monday; lunes, Mondays; but inglés, Englishman; ingleses, Englishmen; crisis, f. crisis; crisis, crises. Family names, especially those ending in -z, generally remain unchanged in the plural; e.g., González, los González.

c. Some nouns ending in stressed -o or -u take either -s or -es. Papá and mamá add -s. There are a few other exceptions, which are best learned by observation.

NOTE. — Final z is changed to c before -es: cruz, f. cross; cruces, crosses; voz, f. voice; voces, voices.

30. Definite Article. — In Spanish the definite article changes its form according to the gender and number of the noun it modifies.

	SINGULAR	PLURAL
Masculine	el	los
Feminine	la (el)	las el hombre the man		los hombres the men
la mujer the woman		las mujeres the women
el plato the plate		los platos the plates
la taza the cup		las tazas the cups

(1) When el is preceded by de, of, or by a, to, the preposition and the article are contracted into one word: de and el become del, and a and el become al: del padre, of the father; al padre, to the father.

(2) El is used instead of the form la before a feminine singular noun beginning with stressed a or ha: el agua, water; el hacha, the axe (but las aguas, las hachas, etc.).

NOTE. — Observe that el is not used before a feminine noun beginning with a or ha unless the first syllable is stressed, nor is it used before a feminine adjective: la hacienda, the estate; la alta montaña, the high mountain.

31. Negation. — A sentence is made negative by placing no, not, before the verb.

No hablo. I do not speak, or I am not speaking.

No vendo flores. I do not sell flowers, or I am not selling flowers.

32. The English auxiliary do, which is usual in negative or interrogative constructions, is ordinarily not translated into Spanish. Compare hablas, you speak; no hablas, you do not speak; ¿hablas? do you speak? In past tenses, did is similarly not expressed in Spanish.

33. Numerals. — Un(o), —a (1), dos (2), tres (3), cuatro (4), cinco (5), seis (6), siete (7), ocho (8), nueve (9), diez (10).

a. Uno is masculine and una is feminine. Before a noun uno loses the final —o and becomes un: compro un lápiz, I buy one pencil or a pencil; compro uno, I buy one; compro una pluma, I buy one pen or a pen; compro una, I buy one.

34. Idiomatic Expressions

buenos días, good morning, or good day.

buenas tardes, good afternoon, or good evening (until dark) buenas noches, good evening (after dark), or good night.

EXERCISES

A. Study: 1. En la escuela estudio mucho. Llevo a la escuela libros, lápices y papel. Leo los libros. Escribo en el papel con lápiz. Escribo también con pluma y tinta. Escribo cartas a un amigo. Hablo inglés. No hablo español.

2. Llevamos a la escuela pan y mantequilla, queso y manzanas. Comemos el pan, la mantequilla, el queso y las manzanas. Bebemos agua o leche. Llevamos a la escuela vasos y tazas. Bebo agua en un vaso. Bebo leche en una taza. No llevamos platos a la escuela.

3. En la escuela Juan estudia español, matemáticas, historia y química. Ana estudia español, historia y química. No estudia matemáticas. Juan estudia mucho en la escuela. Desea viajar por España. Desea viajar por Inglaterra también. En España hablan español; en Inglaterra hablan inglés.

B. Answer in Spanish (see A). Use sí señor or sí señora, no señor or no señora, whenever possible, and make complete sentences: 1. ¿Estudia usted mucho? ¿Qué lleva usted a la escuela? ¿Lee usted los libros? ¿Con qué escribe usted? ¿Escribe usted a un amigo? ¿Habla usted español? ¿Habla usted inglés?

2. ¿Qué comen ustedes? ¿Beben ustedes agua? ¿Beben ustedes leche? ¿En qué beben ustedes agua? ¿En qué beben ustedes leche? ¿No llevan ustedes platos a la escuela?

¹ In the vocabularies the definite article is not translated.

² Or manteca.

³ Usted (sing.) and ustedes (pl.) take the verb in the third person: usted estudia, you (sing.) study; ustedes estudian, you (pl.) study. Usted and ustedes are usually not omitted (see § 46).

LESSON III

35. Feminine of Adjectives. — Many Spanish adjectives change their form according as the noun they modify is masculine or feminine, singular or plural.

(1) Adjectives ending in -o in the masculine singular change -o to -a to form the feminine.

un caballo blanco a white horse una vaca blanca a white cow

(2) But adjectives ending in a consonant or in a vowel other than -o have the same form for the masculine and the feminine.

Un libro azul.	A blue book.
Una casa azul.	A blue house.
Un hombre cortés.	A polite man.
Una mujer cortés.	A polite woman.
Un muchacho inteligente.	An intelligent boy.
Una muchacha inteligente.	An intelligent girl.

EXCEPTIONS. — a. Adjectives of nationality ending in a consonant add -a to form the feminine: inglés, inglesa, English; español, española, Spanish.

b. Adjectives ending in -án, -ón, or -or (except comparatives in -or) add -a to form the feminine: holgazán, holgazana, lazy; burlón, burlona, roguish; traidor, traidora, treacherous.

Note that in Spanish a qualifying adjective follows its noun.

36. Apocopation of Adjectives. — A few adjectives lose the final -o of the masculine singular when they precede their noun. Among these are buen(o), -a, good; un(o), -a, one; ningun(o), -a, no, none; primer(o), -a, first; tercer(o), -a, third: un buen hombre, a good man; ningún libro, no book; el primer ejercicio, the first exercise, etc.

37. Plural of Adjectives. — The plural of adjectives, like the plural of nouns, is formed by adding -s or -es to the singular.

blanco, blancos, blanca, blancas white azul, azules blue

38. Radical-changing e and o Verbs.¹ — Many verbs of the first and second conjugations, while otherwise regular, change the radical vowels e and o to ie and ue respectively, whenever the stress falls on the stem. The following will serve as models of these verbs:

Present Indicative

Temblar (to) tremble

SINGULAR

1. tiemblo
2. tiembras
3. tiembla

PLURAL

1. temblamos
2. tembláis
3. tiemblan

Perder (to) lose

1. pierdo
2. pierdes
3. pierde

1. perdemos
2. perdéis
3. pierden

Contar (to) count

1. cuento
2. cuentas
3. cuenta

1. contamos
2. contáis
3. cuentan

Volver (to) return

1. vuelvo
2. vuelves
3. vuelve

1. volvemos
2. volvéis
3. vuelven

Note that e becomes ie and o becomes ue only in the singular and the third person plural, since the stress falls on the inflectional endings of the first and second persons plural, and not on the stem.

¹ All verbs that make these phonetic changes will be found in the list of verbs, § 293.

39. The Personal Pronoun Subjects are used if they are needed for clearness or emphasis.

yo hablo	I speak	usted habla	} you speak
nosotros ¹ hablamos	we speak	ustedes hablan yo soy	} I am	usted es	} you are yo estoy		usted está
nosotros somos	} we are	ustedes son	} you are nosotros estamos		ustedes están

a. The forms es and está mean is when they are used with nouns or pronouns of the third person: la mujer es cortés, the woman is polite.

b. The forms estoy, está, estamos, están, must be used when referring to position, as in ¿dónde está usted? where are you?, and also in such expressions as ¿cómo está usted? how are you? (see § 52); but la casa es blanca, the house is white; María es inteligente, Mary is intelligent.

EXERCISES

A. Study: 1. ¿Dónde está Carlos? — Aquí estoy, señor profesor. — ¿Cómo está usted hoy? — Muy bien, gracias. — Carlos, ¿escribe usted mucho con el lápiz azul? — Sí, señor; yo escribo mucho con el lápiz azul. — María, ¿escribe usted también con el lápiz azul? — No, señor; yo escribo con pluma y tinta. — ¿En qué escribe usted? — Escribo en papel blanco. — ¿Quiere usted escribir en papel negro también? — No, señor; no quiero escribir en papel negro.

2. Ana escribe con una pluma pequeña y Juan escribe con una pluma grande. Juan estudia mucho, pero no aprende la lección. Cuando el profesor de español habla, nosotros escuchamos para aprender las palabras. Escribimos los ejercicios con tinta negra en el cuaderno, pero el profesor señala los errores con tinta roja.

3. Los españoles y los hispanoamericanos hablan español. Los ingleses y los norteamericanos hablan inglés. Los españoles y los hispanoamericanos aprenden el inglés para viajar por Inglaterra y los Estados Unidos. Los ingleses y los norteamericanos aprenden el español para viajar por España y la América española.

¹ There is also a feminine form, nosotras, which is used if all present are women.

4. Pablo vive con su madre y su hermana. Pablo es inteligente y cortés. Teresa es la hermana de Pablo. Es muy burlona, pero es inteligente y cortés también. El padre de Pablo y Teresa tiene muchos caballos. Tiene dos caballos blancos. Tiene también muchas vacas. Las vacas no son blancas. Teresa cuenta los caballos. Cuando ve (she sees) las vacas, tiembla de miedo y vuelve a casa.

B. Answer in Spanish (see A, 2, 3, and 4): 1. ¿Es pequeña o grande la pluma de Ana? ¿Es pequeña o grande la pluma de Juan? ¿Cuándo escuchan ustedes? ¿Para qué (why) escuchan ustedes? ¿Qué escriben ustedes? ¿Con qué escriben ustedes? ¿Qué señala el profesor? ¿Con qué señala los errores?

2. ¿Qué idioma hablan los españoles? ¿Qué idioma hablan los hispanoamericanos? ¿Qué idioma hablan los ingleses? ¿Qué idioma hablan los norteamericanos? ¿Para qué aprenden el inglés los españoles? ¿Para qué aprenden el español los ingleses?

3. ¿Con quién vive Pablo? ¿Quién es la hermana de Pablo? ¿Quién es burlón? ¿Quién tiene muchos caballos? ¿Quién cuenta los caballos? ¿Cuenta las vacas también? ¿Cuándo tiembla de miedo?

C. 1. Continue: Tiemblo de miedo. No quiero temblar de miedo. Cuento los caballos. No puedo contar las vacas. Vuelvo a casa.

2. Put the correct ending of the adjective in place of the dash: el buen pan blanc-, una casa blanc-, una casa grand-, dos hombres cortes-, las mujeres cortes-, caballos negr-, cinco vacas negr-, diez caballos ingles-, diez vacas ingles-, un lápiz negr-, papel blanc-, los hombres inteligent-, las mujeres inteligent-, lápices azul-, la tinta negr-, las palabras español-.

3. Put in place of the dash the correct form of estoy, etc. or soy, etc.: yo — aquí, yo — inglés, usted — español, ¿dónde — España? ¿dónde — nosotros? ustedes — aquí, ustedes no — españoles, nosotros — norteamericanos.

D. Write in Spanish: 1. John, are you present? — Present, sir (señor profesor). — When I speak Spanish you (use usted) do not listen. 2. — Yes, I do listen, and I write the words in the notebook. 3. — Do you write with a blue pencil? 4. — No, sir; I do not write with a blue pencil. 5. — Do you write with a red pencil? 6. — No, sir; I write with a large pen. 7. — Do you learn the Spanish lessons? 8. — Yes, sir; I study a-great-deal, and I listen when you speak Spanish. 9. I write the exercises in the notebook and you mark the mistakes. 10. — With what do I mark the mistakes? 11. — You mark the mistakes with red ink. 12. And you count the mistakes too.

13. The (North) Americans¹ speak English and the Spanish Americans Spanish. 14. The (North) Americans learn Spanish in order to travel in (por) Spain and (the) Spanish America. 15. The Spanish Americans learn English in order to travel in England and the United States. 16. They desire also to read books in English.

17. The father of Charles and Mary has many horses and many cows. 18. He has a good white horse and many black horses. 19. Does he have black cows also? 20. No, ma'am; he does not have [any] black cows, but he has two white cows. 21. Mary trembles with fear when she sees the cows.

LESSON IV

40. Radical-changing Verbs. — Some verbs of the third conjugation change the radical e to ie or to i, and o to ue, whenever the stress falls on the stem.² The following will serve as models of these verbs:

Present Indicative

Sentir (to) feel, regret

SINGULAR	PLURAL
1. siento	1. sentimos
2. sientes	2. sentís
3. siente	3. sienten

Pedir (to) ask for

1. pido	1. pedimos
2. pides	2. pedís
3. pide	3. piden

² Cf. §§ 251, 252.

Dormir (to) sleep

- | | |

| 1. he | 1. hemos |
| 2. has | 2. habéis |
| 3. ha (hay) | 3. han |

42. Meaning and Use of Tener and Haber

(1) Tener means (to) have in the sense of (to) possess; tengo una pluma, I have a pen.

(2) Haber is chiefly used as an auxiliary verb with past participles in the formation of compound tenses. Thus, the present perfect tense of hablar is:

I have spoken, or I have been speaking

|-----------------------|--------------------------|
| 1. he hablado | 1. hemos hablado |
| 2. has hablado | 2. habéis hablado |
| 3. ha hablado | 3. han hablado |

a. Hay¹ means there is, or there are; hay uno, there is one; hay dos, there are two. The form hay is used only as an impersonal verb; ha, not hay, is used in the formation of compound tenses, as ha habido, there has been, and in temporal expressions, as mucho tiempo ha, there is much time, i.e., long ago.

¹ Composed of ha, it has, and y, an old adverb meaning there. Cf. French il y a.

(lit., 'how many years have you?')

A. Study: 1. Juan, ¿está usted detrás de la mesa? — No, señor; estoy delante de la mesa. — ¿Está el libro azul debajo de la mesa? — No, señor; está sobre la mesa. — ¿Dónde están el papel y la tinta? — Aquí están, señor. — ¿Tiene usted papel negro y tinta blanca? — No, señor; tengo papel blanco y tinta negra. — ¿Tiene usted papel verde también? — No, señor; no tengo papel verde, pero tengo papel azul, papel rojo y papel amarillo. Cuando escribo con tinta negra, prefiero papel blanco o amarillo. — ¿Qué papel prefiere usted cuando escribe con tinta roja? — Cuando escribo con tinta roja, prefiero papel azul. — ¿Tiene usted también libros rojos, azules, blancos y negros? — Tengo libros rojos y azules, pero no tengo libros blancos ni negros.

¹ Or, I have to, not indicating external obligation. ² hambre and sed are feminine.

2. Nosotros hemos vivido un año en Madrid. Hemos tenido mucho frío a causa de los vientos fríos. Hemos tenido ganas de volver a los Estados Unidos. Pero hay también vientos fríos en los Estados Unidos. Pablo y Teresa han aprendido a hablar español en una escuela española. Teresa habla muy bien, pero Pablo habla mal. El muchacho nunca tiene cuidado. Siempre tiene prisa. Escribe muy mal en español, pero escribe bastante bien en inglés. No tiene ganas de estudiar. Siempre tiene sueño y quiere dormir.

3. ¿Duerme Carlos? — No, Carlos no duerme. No tiene sueño. Pero no ha comido y tiene mucha hambre. Pide pan, jamón y huevos. — ¿No tiene sed también? — Sí, quiere beber agua. Ana trae agua y leche. Carlos no bebe la leche porque no está fría. — ¿Tiene Ana también hambre y sed? — No, Ana no tiene hambre ni sed, pero tiene sueño. Ha estudiado mucho y tiene los ojos cansados.

B. Answer in Spanish: 1. ¿Tiene Juan papel blanco o papel negro? ¿Tiene Juan tinta negra o tinta blanca? Cuando Juan escribe con tinta negra, ¿qué papel prefiere? Cuando escribe con tinta roja, ¿qué papel prefiere? ¿Tiene usted libros rojos y blancos?

2. ¿Cuántos años han vivido ustedes en Madrid? ¿Por qué han tenido ganas de volver a los Estados Unidos?

¿ Quiénes han aprendido a hablar español? ¿ Quién habla muy bien y quién habla mal? ¿ Qué tiene Pablo? ¿ Qué quiere Pablo?

C. Continue: 1. No tengo prisa. Tengo mucha hambre. He aprendido la lección. Pido pan. Duermo mucho.

2. Put in place of the dash the correct ending of the adjective or verb: viento frí-, viento calient-, agua frí-, agua calient-, papel roj-, tinta roj-, muchachos inteligent-, muchachas inteligent-, muchachos burlon-, muchachas burlon-, Juan escrib- la lección, Juan y María escrib- bien, ¿ qué idioma habl- usted? ¿ qué prefier- ustedes?

LESSON V

45.

Personal Pronouns

(1) Subject-Pronouns

yo	I	nosotros (-as)	we
tú	you, thou	vosotros (-as)	you, ye él	he	ellos (-as)	they ella	she

a. Note that nosotros, vosotros, and ellos have the feminine forms nosotras, vosotras, and ellas.

¹ For the word order, see B, 2, first sentence.

b. Él and ella may also mean it when referring to things; but English it, when the subject of a verb, is not expressed in Spanish.

c. In Spanish, the subject-pronouns may usually be omitted.

(2) Object-Pronouns

me me, to me	nos us, to us
te you (thee), to you (thee)	os you, to you le him }	los them m. lo it }
la her, it	las them f.
le to him, to her, to it	les to them m. and f.

a. It, as the direct object of a verb, is la when it refers to a feminine noun; otherwise it is lo: ¿ tiene usted la pluma? have you the pen? — sí, la tengo, yes, I have it; ¿ tiene usted el libro? have you the book? — sí, lo tengo, yes, I have it.

46. Usted. — In familiar address, you is tú (sing.), or vosotros (pl.); but in formal address, you is usted (sing.), or ustedes (pl.), used with the third person singular or plural of the verb. Thus, in the singular, you have is tú tienes, or usted tiene, and in the plural it is vosotros tenéis, or ustedes tienen. Usted is usually not omitted, although with a series of verbs of address it occurs only at intervals.

a. The object-pronouns of the third person also mean you, referring to usted or ustedes.¹ It is often more explicit and more courteous to add a usted or a ustedes: no le ama a usted, or no los (las) ama a ustedes, he doesn't love you; le (les) escribe una carta a usted (a ustedes), he writes a letter to you.

47. Possessive Adjectives

mi (mis) my	nuestro (—a, —os, —as) our tu (tus) your	vuestro (—a, —os, —as) your su (sus) his, her, its, your	su (sus) their, your

a. Your: tu corresponds to tú, vuestro to vosotros(—as), and su to usted or ustedes. Instead of su (sus) meaning your, el, la (los, las) de usted (or ustedes) may be used.

¹ Le, la, etc., are the object-pronouns corresponding to usted, since the original meaning of usted was your grace (usted is an abbreviation of vuestra merced).

48. Demonstrative Adjectives

este (-a, -os, -as) this, these (near to or appertaining to the speaker or writer), this . . . of mine, etc.

ese (-a, -os, -as) that, those (near to or appertaining to the person addressed), that . . . of yours, etc.

aquel (aquella, -os, -as) that, those (remote from the person addressed) that . . . of his, hers, etc., or that . . . over there.

a. The possessive and demonstrative adjectives are usually repeated before each noun to which they refer.

Mi padre y mi madre. My father and mother.
Este hombre y esta mujer. This man and woman.

49. Irregular Verbs: Decir, Ir, and Venir

Indicative: Present tense

Decir (to) say, tell

SINGULAR	PLURAL
1. digo	1. decimos
2. dices	2. decís
3. dice	3. dicen

Ir (to) go

1. voy	1. vamos
2. vas	2. vais
3. va	3. van

Venir (to) come

1. vengo	1. venimos
2. vienes	2. venís
3. viene	3. vienen

a. The participles of these verbs are:

Decir: diciendo, dicho
Ir: yendo, ido
Venir: viniendo, venido

EXERCISES

A. Study: 1. Juan, yo tengo su libro y usted tiene mi pluma. — No, señor; yo no tengo su pluma; tengo su lápiz. — Señor profesor, ¿ha leído usted mi ejercicio?

— Sí, lo he leído; he leído todos los ejercicios. — ¿Ha tenido muchos errores mi ejercicio? — Algunos. Los he señalado con tinta roja. — Muchas gracias, señor profesor. — No hay de que, Juan.

2. Todo el mundo está ocupado. Yo estoy escribiendo los ejercicios. Tú estudias la lección de historia. Él estudia en la biblioteca. Ella lee los periódicos. Usted toca el piano. Nosotros aprendemos a leer el español. Vosotros jugáis a la pelota. Sí, todos están muy ocupados.

3. ¿Quién es Juan? — Es el primo de Pablo y María. Me dice que ha vivido tres años en Méjico. Habla bien dos idiomas, el inglés y el español. Vive con nuestro profesor en la casa amarilla. Toca bien el piano y juega a la pelota. — ¿Toca usted el piano? — No, señor; no toco el piano, ni juego a la pelota. Pero estudio mucho y aprendo todas las lecciones. — ¿Estudia Juan mucho también y aprende todas las lecciones? — No, señor; prefiere tocar el piano o jugar a la pelota.

4. Carlos me dice que ha escrito una carta a su padre. ¿Quiere usted leer la carta? — Gracias; ahora no, porque tengo prisa. Voy a comprar flores para mi madre. — Hay muchas flores en nuestro jardín. ¿No quiere usted entrar a coger algunas? — Bueno, muchas gracias. — Pase usted.

5. ¿Tiene usted mi libro? — No, señor; no lo tengo. — ¿Tiene usted mi pluma? — Sí, señor; la tengo aquí. — ¿Ha estudiado usted la lección? — Sí, señor; la he estudiado mucho. — ¿Ha escrito usted los ejercicios? — Sí, señor; los he escrito todos. — ¿Juan le ha escrito a usted una carta en español? — No, señor; me ha escrito una carta en inglés.

B. Answer in Spanish (See A, 3): ¿Quién es Juan? ¿Con quién vive? ¿Dónde viven ellos? ¿Dónde ha vivido Juan? ¿Qué idiomas habla bien? ¿Qué toca bien? ¿A qué juega él?

(See A, 4) ¿A quién ha escrito Carlos la carta? ¿Qué va a comprar usted? ¿Para quién? ¿Dónde hay muchas flores?

C. 1. Continue: La señora es mi madre (la señora es tu madre, etc.). Juan me busca (Juan te busca, etc.). No lo digo. Yo voy a Madrid. Yo vengo de Sevilla.

2. Put the correct ending in place of the dash: est— hombre, est— mujer, est— libros, est— plumas, es— palabras, es— pan, aquell— idiomas, aquell— muchachos, aquell— manzanas, nuestr— casa, nuestr— papel, mi— cartas, su— amigos, nuestr— madres.

3. Substitute for the noun in each sentence the corresponding personal pronoun: Yo no tengo el lápiz (no lo tengo). ¿Tiene usted la pelota? Nosotros cogemos las flores. Comemos las manzanas. Bebemos la leche. Llevamos los vasos. No llevamos las tazas. Yo pido pan. No pido agua. Usted escribe la carta. Yo escribo el ejercicio. Aprendemos la lección.

4. Change the verb from singular to plural: Yo llevo manzanas a la escuela. Usted las come. Él aprende las lecciones. Ella aprende las lecciones también. Yo voy a la escuela. Él viene de Madrid.

D. Write in Spanish: 1. Are you (usted) very busy? 2. — Yes, ma'am; now I am going to study the Spanish lesson. 3. I prefer to play the piano or to play ball. 4. — Do you write the exercise in Spanish? 5. — Yes, ma'am; I write it in Spanish. 6. — Does the professor mark the mistakes with a blue pencil? 7. — No, he marks them with a red pencil. 8. — Do you read Spanish newspapers? 9. — Yes, ma'am; but I do not read them in the class. 10. — Do you study in the school library (= the library of the school)? 11. — Yes, ma'am; I study in the library every day (= all the days). 12. The school library has many books written in English and in Spanish. 13. John prefers the English books, but I¹ prefer the Spanish books.

¹ This emphatic pronoun should be expressed, but in the preceding sentences the personal pronouns (except usted or ustedes) may be omitted.

14. We have many flowers in our garden. 15. We pick them every day. 16. We do not have to buy flowers for our mother. 17. We go-into (en) the garden through (por) the gate (door). 18. We gather red, blue, yellow and white flowers (flowers red, blue, etc.). 19. Are there many flowers in Cuba? 20. — Yes, sir; and there are many flowers also in the United States. 21. — Do you (usted) prefer the red and blue flowers to the white ones¹? 22. — No, sir; in school and at home I prefer the white flowers. 23. But my mother prefers the red ones.¹ 24. — Who lives in the large house? 25. — It is a cousin (fem.) of Paul; she has lived three years in Cuba. 26. She says that she prefers Cuba to the United States. 27. She has traveled in (por) Mexico too. 28. She comes here (aquí) every year (= all the years).

Vocabulary

ahora now	ocupado, -a busy alguno, -a some	para for, in order to la biblioteca library	la pelota ball buscar (to) seek, look for	el periódico newspaper
la clase class	el primo, la prima cousin
coger (to) gather, pick	pronto soon entrar (en or a) (to) enter, go into	que that escrito, -a written	quinto, -a fifth gracias thanks	tocar (to) play (a musical instrument) jugar (ue) ² (to) play (a game)	todo, -a all todo el mundo everybody (lit., all the world); no hay de que you are welcome or don't mention it; jugar a la pelota (to) play ball; en casa at home.

² In jugar the u becomes ue when stressed: juego, juegas, etc. See § 249.

LESSON VI

50. Personal Pronouns. — (1) Me, te, nos and os may be used as reflexive pronouns. The reflexive pronoun of the third person, singular and plural, is se.

yo me engaño I deceive myself, or I am mistaken nos engañamos we deceive ourselves

se engaña he (she) deceives himself (herself), or you deceive yourself

se engañan they (you) deceive themselves (yourselves)

(2) When a verb has two personal pronoun-objects, the indirect precedes the direct object: me lo da, he gives it to me; nos la da, he gives it to us.

If both pronoun-objects are in the third person, se is used as the indirect object instead of le or les: se lo da, he gives it to him (to her, to them, to you). Although alike in form this se and the reflexive are different words.

51. Irregular Verbs

(1) Present Indicative of Ser and Oír

Ser (to) be
SINGULAR	PLURAL
1. soy	1. somos
2. eres	2. sois
3. es	3. son

Oír (to) hear
1. oigo	1. oímos
2. oyes	2. oís
3. oye	3. oyen

(2) In the present indicative, the following verbs are regular except in the first person singular:

Dar (to) give: doy, das, da, damos, dais, dan

Estar (to) be: estoy, estás, está, estamos, estáis, están

Ver (to) see: veo, ves, ve, vemos, veis, ven

Caber (to) be contained: quepo, cabes, cabe, cabemos, cabéis, caben

Saber (to) know: sé, sabes, sabe, sabemos, sabéis, saben

Conocer (to) know: conozco, conoces, conoce, conocemos, conocéis, conocen

Traducir (to) translate: traduzco, traduces, traduce, traducimos, traducís, traducen

Hacer (to) do: hago, haces, hace, hacemos, hacéis, hacen

Caer (to) fall: caigo, caes, cae, caemos, caéis, caen

Traer (to) bring: traigo, traes, trae, traemos, traéis, traen

Poner (to) put: pongo, pones, pone, ponemos, ponéis, ponen

Salir (to) go out: salgo, sales, sale, salimos, salís, salen

Valer (to) be worth: valgo, vales, vale, valem, valem, valéis, valen

a. Conocer means (to) know in the sense of (to) become acquainted with.

(3) Participles: The participles of all these verbs are regular except the past participles of hacer (hecho), poner (puesto), ver (visto). But, note the substitution of y for i between vowels in the present participles of caer (cayendo), oír (oyendo), traer (trayendo), and the use of the accent mark on the weak vowel of the past participles of caer (caído), oír (oído), and traer (traído).

52. Meaning of Ser and Estar

(1) Ser and estar both mean (to) be. Ser expresses what is inherent, characteristic, or permanent.

Soy libre.	I am free (a free man).
Es cojo.	He is (permanently) lame (a cripple).
Soy viejo.	I am old (an old man).
Su hermano es médico.	His brother is a physician.

It is used also to denote time, possession, origin, or material, and in most impersonal expressions.

Es la una.	It is one o'clock.
Este libro es de Juan.	This book is John's.
Soy de España.	I am from Spain.
La taza es de oro.	The cup is of gold.
No es posible.	It isn't possible.

(2) Estar expresses what is accidental or temporary, and is always used for position (or location) whether permanent or temporary. It denotes how, in what condition or where a person or thing is.

Estoy libre.	I am free (now disengaged).
Hoy está cojo.	He is lame (limping) today.
Estoy enfermo.	I am ill.
Mi hermano está en Méjico.	My brother is in Mexico.
Méjico está en la América del Norte.	Mexico is in North America.

a. Ser alone permits of a predicate noun with it: su hermano es soldado, his brother is a soldier.

b. Some adjectives have one meaning when used with ser and another meaning when used with estar.

ser bueno (to) be good	estar bueno (to) be well
ser malo (to) be bad	estar malo (to) be ill
ser cansado (to) be tiresome	estar cansado (to) be tired

c. Progressive action may be expressed by estar and the present participle (see § 98, b): estoy estudiando la lección, I am studying the lesson; ¿está usted escribiendo una carta a María? are you writing a letter to Mary? The progressive forms, estoy estudiando, etc., indicate clearly that the act is now in progress.

LESSON VII

54. Possessive Case (Genitive). — In Spanish possession is denoted by the preposition de, of.

El lápiz del niño.	The boy's pencil (lit., 'The pencil of the boy').
La pluma de Ana.	Anna's pen (lit., 'The pen of Anna').

55. Indirect Object (Dative). — A noun that is the indirect object of a verb requires the preposition a, whether to is expressed in English or not.

Ana dió un libro a Juan.	Mary gave John a book, or Mary gave a book to John.
--------------------------	--

56. Direct Object (Accusative). — A noun that is the direct object of a verb also requires the preposition a, if the direct object is a specific person or thing personified.

Busco a Pedro.	I am looking for Peter.
No hallo al niño.	I do not find the boy.
But:
Busco mi libro.	I am looking for my book.
No hallo el libro.	I do not find the book.

a. Querer a, referring to a person, means to be fond of, to love: mi hermano quiere a Sofía, my brother loves Sophia.

57. Negation. — Negative pronouns such as nada, nothing; ningun(o), -a, none, and negative adverbs such as nunca, never, require the verb to be negative when they follow the verb.

No tengo nada.	I have nothing, or I haven't anything.
No tenemos ninguno.	We have none, or we haven't any.
No estudia nunca.	He never studies, or he doesn't ever study.

a. Ninguno, like uno, loses the final -o before a noun: no tengo ningún libro, I haven't any book.

58. (1) Commands. — The following subjunctive forms of verbs¹ are used in commands, with usted or ustedes as subject:

Escuchar (to) listen: escuche usted, escuchen ustedes listen
Aprender (to) learn: aprenda usted, aprendan ustedes learn Escribir (to) write: escriba usted, escriban ustedes write

(2) The radical-changing verbs change e to ie or i, and o to ue, as in the third person of the present indicative.

Temblar (to) tremble: tiemble(n) usted(es) tremble
Contar (to) count: cuenta(n) usted(es) count
Perder (to) lose: pierda(n) usted(es) lose Volver (to) return: vuelva(n) usted(es) return Sentir (to) feel: sienta(n) usted(es) feel Pedir (to) ask: pida(n) usted(es) ask Dormir (to) sleep: duerma(n) usted(es) sleep

(3) In most irregular verbs the -o of the first person singular of the present indicative is changed to -a, singular, and -an, plural, in commands.

Caer (to) fall: caigo I fall; caiga(n) usted(es) fall
Conocer (to) know: conozco I know; conozca(n) usted(es) know Decir (to) say, tell: digo I say, tell; diga(n) usted(es) say, tell Hacer (to) do: hago I do; haga(n) usted(es) do
Oír (to) hear: oigo I hear; oiga(n) usted(es) hear

¹ The subjunctive forms are also used commonly in such expressions as quiero que usted aprenda la lección, I want you to learn the lesson; siento que Juan esté enfermo, I am sorry that John is ill. Note the similarity of the command: aprenda la lección, learn the lesson; and of the wish: (quiero que) aprenda la lección, (I want you to) learn the lesson. See § 82 ff.

Poner (to) put: pongo I put; ponga(n) usted(es) put Salir (to) go out: salgo I go out; salga(n) usted(es) go out Tener (to) have: tengo I have; tenga(n) usted(es) have Traducir (to) translate: traduzco I translate; traduzca(n) usted(es) translate Traer (to) bring: traigo I bring; traiga(n) usted(es) bring Venir (to) come: vengo I come; venga(n) usted(es) come Ver (to) see: veo I see; vea(n) usted(es) see

a. The following are exceptions:

Dar (to) give: doy I give; dé(n)¹ usted(es) give Estar (to) be: estoy I am; esté(n) usted(es) be Ser (to) be: soy I am; sea(n) usted(es) be Ir (to) go: voy I go; vaya(n) usted(es) go Saber (to) know: sé I know; sepa(n) usted(es) know

59. In affirmative — but not in negative — commands, the personal pronoun-object follows the verb, and verb and pronoun are written as one word: escríbalo (§ 18) usted, write it, but no lo escriba usted, do not write it; apréndanla ustedes, learn it, but no la aprendan ustedes, do not learn it.

a. Similarly the pronoun object follows the infinitive and the present participle: ¿quiere usted escribirlo? do you wish to write it?; escribiéndolo (§ 18), writing it.

60. Interrogative Sentences.— In an interrogative sentence the subject, if expressed, usually follows the verb, and if a compound tense is used, the subject usually follows the past participle.

Ex. ¿Habla Carlos?

Does Charles speak? Is

Charles speaking?

¿Habló Pablo?

Did Paul speak?

¿Ha vendido usted su caballo?

Have you sold your horse?

a. But in an interrogative sentence the subject may precede the verb. Interrogation is then expressed by the inverted question mark in writing, and by the inflection of the voice when speaking.

¿Juan estudia mucho y aprende las lecciones? Does John study much and learn the lessons?

¹ The plural den does not have the accent.

EXERCISES

A. 1. ¿No tiene usted ningún libro? — Sí; he hallado dos libros en la biblioteca. — ¿Son nuevos? — No, están muy usados. — Entonces no son mis libros. — ¿Quiere usted prestarme uno? — Aquí está. — Muchas gracias. ¿Dónde compra usted sus libros? — Compró libros y papel en la tienda de García. 62. Use of the Imperfect and Preterite Indicative. —

The imperfect indicative is used (1) to describe the conditions or circumstances which prevailed when something happened, or (2) to represent a state or action as protracted or habitual. The preterite is used to tell what happened on one or more occasions in the past without involving duration or extension of time.

Yo escribía cuando Juan entró.	I was writing when John entered.
Mi padre tenía dos hermosos perros, pero los vendió.	My father had two handsome dogs, but he sold them.
Era la una cuando llegó.	It was one o'clock when he arrived.
Llovía, y los caminos estaban malos.	It was raining, and the roads were bad.
El año pasado fumaba mucho.	Last year I used to smoke a great deal.
No fumé ayer.	I did not smoke yesterday.
Vendí mi casa y compré otra.	I sold my house and bought another.

a. Sometimes I spoke, I did speak, or I would speak, mean I used to speak. They are then to be expressed in Spanish by the imperfect: hablaba español todos los días cuando estaba en Cuba, I spoke (did speak, would speak, or used to speak) Spanish every day when I was in Cuba.

b. In Spanish the perfect indicative is sometimes used instead of the preterite to express an act that occurred recently: ayer he matado un lobo, I killed a wolf yesterday; ha partido anteayer, he left day before yesterday; he creído que usted era francés, I thought that you were French. This construction is not so common in Spanish America as it is in Spain.

63. Personal Pronouns. — Those governed by a preposition are the same in form as the subject pronouns, with the exception of mí, ti, and sí; para él (ella), for him (her); para nosotros (-as), for us; para vosotros (-as), for you (fam. pl.); para usted(es), for you; para ellos (-as), for them; but para mí (ti), for me (you, fam.); para sí, for himself, herself, yourself, themselves, yourselves. See § 133.

EXERCISES

A. 1. Ayer recibí una carta de mi amigo Pedro Arenas. Está ahora en Méjico. El mes pasado estaba en Cuba. No me escribió de Cuba. Dice en su carta que estaba muy ocupado. Cuando estaba allí llovía mucho. Pero viajó por todas las provincias. Visitó a Santiago, la Habana y otras ciudades de la isla.

2. Pedro estudiaba en nuestro colegio. Era (He was) muy inteligente. Cuando terminó sus estudios empezó a trabajar en una fábrica. Allí trabajó un año. En este corto tiempo aprendió mucho. Ahora es agente de la compañía y viaja por los países hispanoamericanos. Habla bien el español. Estudió este idioma mucho en el colegio.

3. Cuando estaba aquí tenía dos hermosos perros. Uno era muy grande. Ladraba mucho. Pero como dice el refrán, perro que ladra no muerde. El otro era pequeño y no ladraba mucho. Un día mordió a un niño. Entonces Pedro lo vendió a su primo.

4. Carlos, ¿va a llover? — Creo que no, pero llovió mucho ayer. — Dígale¹ a Juan que empieza ahora la lección. — Juan, el profesor dice que empieza ahora la lección. — Está bien. Dígale al profesor que voy en un momento. — Señor profesor, yo no sé por qué no viene Juan. Me dice que viene en un momento. — Está bien. Siéntese usted. No se siente en ese banco cerca de Pedro. Siéntese aquí delante de mí. — Señor profesor, traigo para usted algunas rosas que cogí en nuestro jardín. — Muchas gracias, María. Póngalas en ese florero que está sobre la mesa. Ahora vamos a empezar la lección.

B. ¿Quién le escribió a usted una carta? ¿Dónde está Pedro Arenas? ¿Dónde estaba el mes pasado? ¿Qué le dice en la carta? ¿Dónde llovía? ¿Por dónde viajó Pedro?

¹ Frequently, one uses in Spanish the equivalent of 'tell to him to John,' instead of 'tell John.' See § 139.

¿Qué ciudades visitó? ¿Dónde trabajaba Pedro? ¿Qué es Pedro ahora? ¿Por dónde viaja? ¿Qué tenía cuando estaba aquí? ¿A quién mordió el perro de Pedro? ¿Cuál de los perros vendió Pedro? ¿Tiene usted un perro?

C. 1. Continue: Yo terminé mis estudios. Yo le escribí una carta. Yo le enseñaba el español. Yo lo sentía mucho. Tiene una rosa para mí (para ti, etc.). Juan se sentó cerca de mí.

2. Change verb forms to the imperfect: Tengo (tenía) algunas rosas para ti. Él compra las rosas aquí. Pablo la quiere mucho. Le escribe todos los días. ¿Dónde trabajan ellos? ¿A quién buscan ustedes? Estamos cansados. Tenemos mucha hambre.

3. Change verb forms to preterite: Me escribe una carta. ¿Vende usted la casa? Yo gano mucho dinero. Lo gasto todo. Compramos muchos libros. Los vendemos todos. Ellos nos visitan. El perro ladra. No llueve. Empieza la lección. Los perros no muerden.

D. 1. Last year I traveled through Cuba and Mexico. 2. When I lived in Cuba, I used-to-visit my friends every day. 3. I would-speak Spanish with them. 4. I wished to learn to speak Spanish well (to speak well the Spanish). 5. One of my friends, John Ávila, had (tenía) a shop (store). 6. Another (Otro) friend, Charles Mora, was the agent of an American company. 7. Another, Peter Rojas, had a factory. 8. I liked (use gustar) these men [very] much and they liked me (me querían a mí). 9. They were very attractive (simpáticos). 10. Peter was intelligent. 11. He spoke English and Spanish well. 12. He lived one year in the United States. 13. He studied in an academy, and also in a factory. 14. In the factory he did not learn a great deal. 15. Then he returned to his country. 16. Now he is making a great deal of money.

17. John took (use llevar) me yesterday to his uncle's house. 18. The house is large and comfortable. 19. When we entered a dog barked. 20. We weren't afraid. 21. The proverb says [a] barking dog (= dog that barks) does not bite. 22. But this dog bit me. 23. It did not bite John. 24. I do not know why it did

LESSON IX

64. Irregular Verbs

(1) Imperfect Indicative. — Most irregular verbs form the imperfect indicative regularly, thus:

Estar (to) be: estaba, estabas, estaba, estábamos, estabais, estaban

Tener (to) have: tenía, tenías, tenía, teníamos, teníais, tenían

Decir (to) say, tell: decía, decías, decía, decíamos, decíais, decían etc.

a. But the three following verbs form the imperfect indicative irregularly:

Ir (to) go: iba, ibas, iba, íbamos, ibais, iban

Ser (to) be: era, eras, era, éramos, erais, eran

Ver (to) see: veía, veías, veía, veíamos, veíais, veían

(2) Preterite Indicative. — The following verbs form the preterite indicative irregularly:

Dar (to) give: di, diste, dió, dimos, disteis, dieron

Ser (to) be } Ir (to) go } fuí, fuiste, fué, fuimos, fuisteis, fueron ¹

Hacer (to) do: hice, hiciste, hizo, hicimos, hicisteis, hicieron

Querer (to) wish: quise, quisiste, quiso, quisimos, quisisteis, quisieron

Venir (to) come: vine, viniste, vino, vinimos, vinisteis, vinieron

Andar (to) go: anduve, anduviste, anduvo, anduvimos, anduvisteis, anduvieron

Estar (to) be: estuve, estuviste, estuvo, estuvimos, estuvisteis, estuvieron

Tener (to) have: tuve, tuviste, tuvo, tuvimos, tuvisteis, tuvieron

Haber (to) have: hube, hubiste, hubo, hubimos, hubisteis, hubieron

Caber (to) be contained: cupe, cupiste, cupo, cupimos, cupisteis, cupieron

Saber (to) know: supe, supiste, supo, supimos, supisteis, supieron

Poder (to) be able: pude, pudiste, pudo, pudimos, pudisteis, pudieron

Poner (to) put: puse, pusiste, puso, pusimos, pusisteis, pusieron

Traer (to) bring: traje, trajiste, trajo, trajimos, trajisteis, trajeron

Decir (to) say, tell: dije, dijiste, dijo, dijimos, dijisteis, dijeron

-ducir ²: -duje, -dujiste, -dujo, -dujimos, -dujisteis, -dujeron

65. The Pluperfect and Preterite Perfect

(1) The pluperfect tense is formed with the imperfect tense of haber.

Hablar

PLUPERFECT TENSE

- | | | |
|--------------------------|---|----------------------------|
| 1. había hablado | { I had spoken, or had been speaking | 1. habíamos hablado |
| 2. habías hablado | | 2. habíais hablado |
| 3. había hablado | | 3. habían hablado |

² Thus are inflected all verbs that end in -ducir, as conducir, to lead, conduct; traducir, to translate.

(2) The Preterite Perfect is formed with the preterite of haber: hube hablado, I had spoken, etc. This tense is used only after expressions meaning as soon as, after, etc. In colloquial Spanish the preterite usually replaces the preterite perfect.

Luego que hube leído (or luego que leí) la carta, la devolví. As soon as I had read the letter, I returned it.

Note also the following idiom:

Llegado que hubo a la costa. As soon as he had arrived at the coast.

Terminado que hubo su discurso. As soon as he had finished his speech, etc.

a. Había also means there was, there were, or there used to be; hubo, there was or there were; había (hubo) habido, there had been.

66. In order to denote an act or state that continues from one period into another, the present and imperfect tenses are used in Spanish; while in English the perfect and pluperfect tenses are used. Ex.:

¿Cuánto tiempo hace que ustedes viven en Madrid?	How long have you been living in Madrid?
Hace quince años que vivimos en Madrid.	We have been living in Madrid for fifteen years.
Hacía seis meses que vivíamos en Madrid.	We had been living in Madrid for six months.
Mucho tiempo ha que vivimos en Madrid.	We have been living in Madrid for a long time.
Desde entonces vivimos en Madrid.	We have been living in Madrid since then.

Compare these sentences with the following:

Hace un mes que partieron.	It is a month since they left, or they left a month ago.
Hacía ocho días que habían partido.	It was a week since they had left.
Poco ha que partieron.	They left a little while ago.

a. In expressions of time ha is generally used as an impersonal verb instead of hay; but hace is used much oftener than ha. As a rule, ha follows and hace precedes the noun (or adjective) denoting time. Ha is generally used in indefinite expressions of time, as poco ha, a short time ago; while hace is more usual in definite expressions, as hace ocho días, a week ago.

67. Idiomatic Expressions

- | | |
|---|-----------------------------------|
| (1) hace calor , it is warm. | hace frío , it is cold. |
| hace mucho calor , it is very warm. | hace fresco , it is cool. |
| | hace viento , it is windy. |
| (2) hay sol (or hace sol), it is sunny; the sun is shining. | hay neblina , it is foggy. |
| hay luna , the moon is shining. | hay polvo , it is dusty. |
| | hay lodo , it is muddy. |

Note that these expressions have to do with the state of the weather.

68. Numerals. — Learn the Cardinal Numerals, § 192; and the Ordinal Numerals from 'first' to 'twelfth,' § 193.

EXERCISES

A. — Hacía tres meses que me hallaba en este país.¹ Estudiaba con mucho ahinco el idioma inglés porque quería aprenderlo pronto y bien. Mi profesor era norteamericano, pero había estado en la América española. Le gustaba mucho el español, pero decía que el inglés era más fácil. Yo no convenía en ello.² Le decía que no era más fácil. Me daba traducciones difíciles y yo cometía muchos errores. Un día, además de la lección de gramática, tuve que traducir estos dos chistes al inglés:

1. Unos jóvenes comían juntos en una fonda, y uno de ellos habló tanto de los prodigios que sabía hacer que, cansado de oírle, uno de los concurrentes le dijo:

— Mire, amigo, ya basta; tenga la bondad de contarnos ahora una cosa que no pueda (you can) hacer.

— ¡Ay! Eso es muy fácil — contestó el joven; — no puedo pagar la parte de la cuenta que me corresponde.

¹ The new words of this and the following lessons are given in the general vocabulary.

² Lit., 'it': translate that or that opinion.

2. Un caballero fué a visitar a una señora y, aunque la criada le dijo que estaba ausente, él pudo verle la cabeza ¹ en un espejo que estaba opuesto a la puerta de la sala. Una hora después, el caballero se encontró con la señora en la casa de un amigo y le dijo:

— Precisamente acabo de llegar de su casa y sentí mucho no haber tenido el gusto de verla.

— Lo siento, buen amigo, pero tuve que salir muy de prisa.

— Muy de prisa sería (it must have been), pues se dejó usted la cabeza en el espejo.

— Es muy posible, soy tan distraída.

B. 1. ¿Cuánto tiempo hacía que estudiaba usted el español? 2. ¿De dónde era su profesor? 3. ¿Por dónde había viajado él? 4. ¿Es más fácil el español que el inglés? 5. ¿Dónde comían los jóvenes? 6. ¿De qué hablaba uno? 7. ¿Qué le dijo uno de los concurrentes? 8. ¿Qué no podía hacer el primero? 9. ¿Adónde fué el caballero? 10. ¿Qué le dijo la criada? 11. ¿Qué vió el caballero en el espejo? 12. ¿Dónde se encontró con la señora? 13. ¿Qué le dijo a la señora? 14. ¿Qué respondió la señora? 15. ¿Cuál fué la contestación final de la señora?

C. 1. Continue: No me gusta el café (no te gusta el café, etc.). Precisamente acabo de llegar de su casa. Hace tres meses que me hallo en este país. Dije que sí. Fuí a visitar a una señora. Pude verle la cabeza en un espejo.

2. Give the three irregular imperfect tenses of the indicative.

3. Give the preterite of contestar and estar, comer and tener, escribir and decir.

4. Give the first person singular of the present and of the preterite indicative of hablar, dar, estar; aprender, volver, ser, traer, querer, tener, caber, saber, haber, poner, poder; vivir, sentir, pedir, traducir, decir, venir, ir.

5. Give the third person singular of the present and of the preterite indicative of the verbs in 4.

6. The final vowels of hablé, habló, are accented. The final vowels of quise, quiso, are not accented. Which verbs do not accent the final -e and -o of the preterite? Give the forms.

D. 1. Can you translate this story into Spanish? 2. A lady went to call on a friend (fem.). 3. The servant (fem.) came to the door. 4. When the lady asked if her friend was at home, the servant answered (her) that she had gone out. 5. There was a mirror opposite the door of the drawing room, and in it she could (pret.) see her friend's head. 6. The following day the lady met her friend at the house of another friend. 7. She told her that she had gone to call on her, and was very sorry not to have had the pleasure of seeing (ver) her. 8. Her friend replied (to her) that she was sorry to have been absent, but she had to go out in a great hurry. 9. The lady said ironically that it must have been (= it-was-probably) in a great hurry, as she had left her (la) head. 10. 'The truth is' — she said — 'that I saw it in the mirror that is opposite the door of the drawing room.' 11. Her friend replied: — 'It is possible, as I am very absent-minded. 12. I leave many things when I go out in a hurry.'

13. How long have you been (use hallarse) in the United States? 14. — I have lived in this country six months. 15. — Do you like the English language? 16. — Yes, I like.[it], but it is very difficult. 17. (The) Spanish is easier (= more easy) than (the) English, is it not? 18. — I think not. (The) Spanish spelling is easier, but (the) Spanish grammar is difficult. 19. In order to speak Spanish correctly, one (uno) must study it a-great-deal. 20. — It-is-quite (Será) possible, but it seems to me that the English language is more difficult. 21. — I have studied (the) English for two months, and I speak it very badly. 22. I can translate from (the) English into (the) Spanish, but I cannot translate correctly from (the) Spanish into (the) English.

LESSON X

69. Indicative: Future and Conditional ¹Hablar

FUTURE TENSE

SINGULAR

1. hablar é I shall speak, or shall be speaking

2. vivir ías
3. vivir ía

1. vivir íamos
2. vivir íais
3. vivir ían

¹ The Spanish indicative future tense is formed by postfixing to the infinitive the indicative present tense of haber, the conditional by postfixing the imperfect tense.

hablar(h)é	hablar(h)emos	hablar(hab)ía	hablar(hab)íamos
hablar(h)ás	hablar(hab)éis	hablar(hab)ías	hablar(hab)íais
hablar(h)á	hablar(h)án	hablar(hab)ía	hablar(hab)ían

Note the disappearance of hab-

All radical-changing verbs form the future indicative and the conditional tenses regularly.

70. Irregular Verbs. — Most irregular verbs form the future indicative and the conditional tenses regularly. Thus:

Estar (to) be: estaré, estarás, estará, estaremos, estaréis, estarán estaría, estarías, estaría, estaríamos, estaríais, estarían Ser (to) be: seré, serás, será, seremos, seréis, serán
sería, serías, sería, seríamos, seríais, serían Ir (to) go: iré, irás, irá, iremos, iréis, irán
iría, irías, iría, iríamos, iríais, irían Etc.

a. But there are twelve verbs that modify the form of the infinitive (by dropping the e or i of the infinitive ending, and by adding d after l or n, or by using a shorter form of the infinitive now obsolete) in the future indicative and conditional tenses.

Caber (to) be contained: cabré, cabrás, etc.; cabría, cabrías, etc.
Haber (to) have: habré, habrás, etc.; habría, habrías, etc.
Saber (to) know: sabré, sabrás, etc.; sabría, sabrías, etc.
Poder (to) be able: podré, podrás, etc.; podría, podrías, etc.
Querer (to) wish: querré, querrás, etc.; querría, querrías, etc.
Salir (to) go out: saldré, saldrás, etc.; saldría, saldrías, etc.
Valer (to) be worth: valdré, valdrás, etc.; valdría, valdrías, etc.
Poner (to) put: pondré, pondrás, etc.; pondría, pondrías, etc.
Tener (to) have: tendré, tendrás, etc.; tendría, tendrías, etc.
Venir (to) come: vendré, vendrás, etc.; vendría, vendrías, etc.
Decir (to) say, tell: diré, dirás, etc.; diría, dirías, etc.
Hacer (to) do: haré, harás, etc.; haría, harías, etc.

71. Indicative: Future Perfect

Hablar

I shall have spoken, or I shall have been speaking

SINGULAR

1. habré hablado
2. habrás hablado
3. habrá hablado

PLURAL

1. habremos hablado
2. habréis hablado
3. habrán hablado

a. Habrá also means, there will be; habrá habido, there will have been.

72. Will and Should. — (1) The English auxiliary verb will may denote future time, as in he will go tomorrow, or it may express willingness, as in I will go if you wish. When will means to be willing, it is generally to be translated into Spanish by the proper form of querer:

¿ Quiere usted venir con nosotros?	Will you come with us?
Compraré la casa si quieres venderla.	I shall buy the house if you will sell it.

(2) The auxiliary verb should may be merely conditional, as in I should speak if I knew what to say, or it may mean ought to, as in I realize that I should (= ought to) speak, but I do not wish to do so. When should means ought to, it is usually expressed in Spanish by the proper form of deber:

Yo debo (debiera) hablar.	I should, or ought to speak.
---------------------------	------------------------------

73. The future may be used instead of the present, and the conditional instead of the imperfect, to denote probability or conjecture.

¿ Qué hora es? — Serán las once.	What time is it? It is probably (about) eleven o'clock.
¿ Qué hora era? — Serían las doce.	What time was it? It was probably (about) twelve o'clock.

a. Similarly the future perfect may be used instead of the perfect:

¿ Quién ha abierto la puerta? — Habrá sido José.	Who opened the door? It was probably Joseph.

74. Hours of the Day

es temprano, it is early.	son las cuatro y cuarto, it is a quarter-past four.
es tarde, it is late.
es la una, ¹ it is one o'clock.	son las cinco menos cuarto, it is a quarter to five.
son las dos, it is two o'clock.
son las tres y media, it is half-past three.	a la una, at one o'clock.
	a las dos, at two o'clock.

a las seis y diez (minutos), at ten minutes past six.	en ocho días, in a week.
a las siete de la mañana, at seven o'clock in the morning.	hace quince días, two weeks (a fortnight) ago.
a las dos de la tarde, at two o'clock in the afternoon.	el primero de enero, the first of January.
a las once de la noche, at eleven o'clock at night.	el dos (tres, cuatro, etc.) de febrero, the second (third, fourth, etc.) of February.
¿ qué hora es? what time is it?

Note that, except the first, the cardinal numbers are used to denote the days of the month.

EXERCISES

A. 1. ¿ A qué hora llegará el tren? — Tomás dijo que llegaría a las tres y diez y ya son las cuatro menos cuarto. Parece que ya viene. La gente mira hacia el andén. — Me alegro. Estoy cansado. Hace ya casi una hora que estamos aquí. — ¿ No es Tomás aquel que trae un periódico en la mano? — Él mismo. ¡ Tomás! — ¡ Hola, amigos! ¿ Qué tal? ¿ Cansados de esperar (waiting)? Tuvimos un pequeño accidente al pasar (on passing) debajo de un puente. — ¿ Qué fué? Cuenta (tell us). — Después de almorzar (eating lunch) volvía yo a mi asiento cuando el tren se paró (stopped) de repente. El vendedor de periódicos y dulces dijo que había un obstáculo en la vía. Pero no era eso. La locomotora estaba inservible. El maquinista me lo explicó con muchos detalles, pero no comprendí. Hacía veinte o veinte y cinco minutos que esperábamos cuando llegó otra locomotora. — Pero ¿ y Juan? ¿ Dónde está Juan? — Él y Carlos llegarán el sábado. Irán directamente a casa de sus tíos y nosotros iremos allá a verlos.

Charlando y riendo salieron los tres amigos de la estación, y se dirigieron a la escuela. Tomás llegaba tarde, pues el curso se había inaugurado el día anterior. Tomás era gran futbolista y muy popular entre sus compañeros.

B. 1. ¿Hacia dónde mira la gente? ¿Cuánto tiempo hace que estamos aquí? ¿Qué trae Tomás? ¿Qué tuvieron al pasar debajo de un puente? ¿A dónde volvía usted después de almorzar? ¿Qué hizo de repente el tren? ¿Qué dijo el vendedor de periódicos? ¿Cuánto tiempo esperaban ustedes? ¿Quiénes llegarán el sábado? ¿A dónde irán directamente? ¿De dónde salieron los tres amigos? ¿A dónde se dirigieron?

C. 1. Continue: Venderé la casa. Venderé mañana. Se lo diré. No lo compraré. No lo haré. Yo querría hacerlo. Dije que estaría (both verbs) aquí a las diez.

2. Which verbs drop the e of -er and the i of -ir in the future and conditional? Which verbs insert d between the stem and the r (note that veniré became venré, and this became vendré)? Which verbs form these tenses on a shorter form of the infinitive now obsolete?

3. Give the first person singular (and later, the third person plural) of the indicative present, imperfect, preterite, future and conditional of: hablar, contar, dar, estar, comer, perder, ser, hacer, caber, tener, valer, haber, poner, saber, querer, poder, escribir, sentir, corregir, ir, decir, venir, salir.

4. Translate (for A.M., use de la mañana; and for P.M., use de la tarde or de la noche). 1. We arrive at 8:45 A.M. 2. The classes begin at 9 A.M. 3. We have-lunch at 12:15. 4. At 3 P.M. we play football. 5. At 6:30 we dine (comemos). 6. At 10 P.M. we go to bed (nos acostamos).

5. In Spain and in some Spanish-American countries, the time-tables of public conveyances count the hours, beginning at midnight, up to 24. Change the following hours to the 24-hour system: Este tren llegará a la una de la tarde (. . . a las trece). Otro tren llegará de Guadalajara a las diez de la noche. El primer tren de la mañana llegará a las cinco. El último tren de la noche llegará a las once y media. Este vapor saldrá de Cádiz a las tres de la tarde. Otro llegará a las ocho y media de la noche y saldrá a las diez.

D. 1. Do you speak Spanish? 2. — I have spoken Spanish for many years. 3. — How long have you lived here? 4. — I have lived here (aquí) in Cádiz for ten years. 5. Don't you speak Spanish also? 6. — No, I have not learned to (a) speak Spanish, but I shall begin to (a) study it at once. 7. — I am glad. In one year you should (debiera) speak it well if you take lessons every day. 8. — I shall take lessons nearly every day and I shall study hard (mucho). 9. When did you begin to study Spanish? 10. — I began fifteen years ago, and since then I have spoken Spanish every day.

11. Thomas said (that) the train would arrive at 3 P.M., but it arrived late. 12. It was 4:54 when the train arrived. 13. The vendor of newspapers and sweets explained to me with many details that the engine (locomotive) was out of order. 14. He said that the train stopped suddenly and he thought (that) there was an obstruction on the track (line), but it wasn't that (eso). 15. The engineer (driver) told him that the engine was old and out of order. 16. We had waited almost two hours when the train arrived; we were tired and we were hungry. 17. The train left at 5:10 and we arrived at Salamanca at 11 P.M.

18. What time is it? 19. — It is probably nine o'clock. 20. Where is my hat? 21. — It is probably on the table. 22. I shall go and get (= go to look-for) it. 23. When will the train come (use llegar)? 24. — They told me that it would come at two (o'clock). 25. — Will Charles come (use venir) today? 26. — He will come if he can. 27. He wrote me that he would come today. 28. Shall you go to the station? 29. — I shall not be-able to go to the station as I shall be busy at that (esa) time (= hour). 30. — I shall tell him that you are busy and can't come. 31. — Give him my regards and tell him that I shall see him tomorrow.

LESSON XI

75. Imperative Mood(1) Regular Verbs

Hablar
SINGULAR	PLURAL
2. habla	2. hablad
Temer
2. teme	2. temed
Vivir
2. vive	2. vivid

With habla, teme, and vive, tú is understood; while vosotros (-as) is understood with hablad, temed, and vivid.

(2) Radical-Changing Verbs

Temblar: tiembla, temblad	Sentir: siente, sentid
Perder: pierde, perded	Pedir: pide, pedid
Contar: cuenta, contad	Dormir: duerme, dormid
Volver: vuelve, volved

76. The Imperative Mood is limited to the second person singular and plural. It is also limited to affirmative commands or entreaties. See § 78.

a. The final -d of the plural imperative is lost before the object-pronoun os, you, yourselves (cf. § 130): preparaos (for preparad-os), prepare yourselves; except in idos, go away, from irse, to go away.

77. Subjunctive: Present Tense(1) Regular Verbs

Hablar
SINGULAR	PLURAL
1. habl e	1. habl emos
2. habl es	2. habl éis
3. habl e	3. habl en
Temer
1. tem a	1. tem amos
2. tem as	2. tem áis
3. tem a	3. tem an

Vivir
SINGULAR		PLURAL
1. viv a		1. viv amos
2. viv as		2. viv áis
3. viv a		3. viv an

(2) Radical-Changing Verbs

Temblar: tiemble, tiembles, tiemble, temblemos, tembléis, tiemblen

Perder: pierda, pierdas, pierda, perdamos, perdáis, pierdan

Contar: cuente, cuentes, cuente, contemos, contéis, cuenten

Volver: vuelva, vuelvas, vuelva, volvamos, volváis, vuelvan

Sentir: sienta, sientas, sienta, sintamos, sintáis, sientan

Pedir: pida, pidas, pida, pidamos, pidáis, pidan

Dormir: duerma, duermas, duerma, durmamos, durmáis, duerman

Note that the radical-changing verbs of the third conjugation change e to i, and o to u, in the first and second persons plural of the present subjunctive, even though the syllables in question are not accented.

78. The Present Subjunctive is often used in Spanish to express command or entreaty. In the third person singular and plural, it is then usually introduced by que.

Que él hable. Let him speak. Que ellos hablen. Let them speak.

Que Juan hable. Let John speak. Hablemos. Let us speak.

Note that the present subjunctive in these expressions is usually to be translated into English by let and the infinitive; but, when used with usted or ustedes (as in hable usted), it is translated by the English imperative.

Hable usted. Speak.

Abra usted la puerta. Open the door.

a. In the second person, singular and plural, the present subjunctive is used to express a negative command or entreaty, while in an affirmative command or entreaty the imperative is used; thus:

Habla, or Hablad. Speak.

No hables, or No habléis. Do not speak.

b. The final -s of the first person plural of the present subjunctive is omitted before the object-pronoun nos, us, ourselves: sentémonos (for sentemos-nos), let us seat ourselves.

79. Subjunctive: Present Perfect Tense

Hablar

SINGULAR

1. haya hablado
2. hayas hablado
3. haya hablado

PLURAL

1. hayamos hablado
2. hayáis hablado
3. hayan hablado

a. Haya, used as an impersonal verb, means there may be, let there be, etc.; haya habido, there may have been.

EXERCISES

A. — Esta lección no me parece difícil.

— Yo creo que es fácil. No contiene muchas reglas y el ejercicio de escritura es corto.

— Pero ¿te olvidas de (about) las formas de los verbos y de la tarea impuesta por el profesor?

— No, no me olvido. El imperativo tiene pocas formas, aunque su uso no es sencillo. El subjuntivo se asemeja bastante al indicativo. Las formas no son difíciles. La tarea es hallar muchas formas del imperativo o subjuntivo ¿no es verdad?

— Sí, yo no he podido hallar muchas.

— Pues, mira. ¿No conoces el libro de lectura titulado Tesoro de las Escuelas?

— Sí, lo tengo.

— Pues, léelo. En él hay muchos ejemplos. Escucha éstos: « Doña Julia se agravó y, temiendo por su vida, llamó a sus hijos a la cabecera de su cama y, con voz débil y pausada, habló así: « Ésta será la última vez que me oigáis (may hear), queridos hijos: obedeced a vuestro padre y a vuestros maestros y superiores; agradeced los buenos consejos que os den (give); amaos y amad al prójimo; sed honrados y seréis felices.» »

— Aquí hay otros. El padre de Faustino le dice:

« Yo también quiero premiarte, Faustino: pídeme lo que quieras (whatever you may wish), y te lo concederé.»

— Y la madre le dice:

« Bendito seas (Bless you: lit., 'May you be blessed'), hijo mío. »

Así hablaban dos jóvenes estudiantes. Otro que los escuchaba, sonriéndose, dijo:

— Los dos estáis perdiendo tiempo. Esos ejemplos son difíciles. Yo he hallado una edición antigua de este texto con estas frases:

« No tiemble usted, no hay peligro. Sentémonos debajo de este árbol y hablemos. Pierda usted cuidado. Cierre usted la ventana, no cierre la puerta. Cuenta los lápices, no cuentes las plumas. No vuelvan ustedes antes del lunes. No pidas dinero a ese hombre. »

B. 1. ¿ Es difícil esta lección? 2. ¿ Cuántas reglas de gramática contiene? 3. ¿ Ha escrito usted los ejercicios? 4. ¿ Cuáles son las formas del imperativo de estudiar, empezar,¹ contar, aprender, perder, volver, escribir, sentir, pedir, dormir? . . . del subjuntivo de los mismos verbos? 5. ¿Cuál es la tarea para hoy? 6. ¿ Ha podido usted hallar muchas formas del subjuntivo en esta lección? 7. ¿ Conoce usted el libro de lectura Tesoro de las Escuelas? 8. ¿ Cuántos libros de lectura tiene usted? 9. ¿ Quién se agravó? 10. ¿ A quién deben obedecer los niños? 11. ¿ A quién deben amar? 12. ¿ Qué dijo el padre de Faustino? 13. ¿ Quiénes hablaban? 14. ¿ Cómo son los ejemplos? 15. ¿ Dónde halló ejemplos el otro estudiante?

C. 1. Substitute for the dash the correct form of the imperative or subjunctive of the verb in the sentence: No hables alto; — bajo. Cierra la puerta; no — la ventana. Enciende la vela; no — la lámpara. No apagues la vela; — la lámpara. Temed a los traidores de la patria; no — a los enemigos. No bebáis café; — agua pura. No te sientes cerca de él; — aquí.

2. Repeat the sentences in 1, with usted(es) as subject.

3. Repeat them with the verbs in the first person singular of the present indicative. Then repeat in the first person singular of the preterite, and lastly in the first person singular of the future.

D. Use usted(es) if tú or vosotros, -as, is not specified: 1. Study (pl.) the lesson for (para) tomorrow, and write the exercises. Learn all the rules. 2. — But, Professor Ortega (say: Pero, señor profesor), there are many rules and some are very difficult. 3. Please (Háganos usted el favor de) explain the rules now. 4. If you explain them, we shall-be-able to learn them quickly. 5. — Very well. The use of the imperative is simple. 6. It is used (Se emplea or Se usa) only in the second person, singular or plural, and in affirmative sentences. 7. For example, “buy¹ (sing.) the house,” “buy (pl.) the house”; “sell¹ (sing.) it,” “sell (pl.) it”; “write¹ (sing.) me a letter,” “write (pl.) me a letter.” 8. We can add tú or vosotros, -as, for emphasis, as (como) in English: “you buy¹ it” (say: “buy it you”), etc. 9. If the expression is negative, we cannot use the imperative. 10. In that (ese) case we must use forms of the subjunctive to (para) express a command. 11. For example, “do not buy¹ (sing.) the house,” “do not buy (pl.) the house”; “do not sell¹ (sing.) it,” “do not sell (pl.) it”; “do not write¹ (sing.) me a letter,” “do not write (pl.) me a letter.”

12. If the subject is usted or ustedes, we must always use the subjunctive. 13. For example, “buy (usted) the house,” “do not buy the house”; “sell it,” “do not sell it”; “write me a letter,” “do not write me a letter.” 14. The rules are simple, are they not? 15. — Yes, sir; they are simple enough when you explain them to us. 16. — Now, look-for good examples of all the rules in your reader. 17. — Professor Ortega, I have found some in a book entitled Spanish Reader. 18. — I know the book. Please read the sentences. 19. — “Light¹ the lamp, do not light the candle.” 20. — That is a good example, but read louder and pronounce more distinctly. 21. — Yes, sir; I shall try to (de) do so (lo). 22. “Open¹ the window, but do not open the door.” 23. “Do not close¹ the window, open it.” 24. “Do not write¹ letters, write the exercises.” 25. “Speak¹ louder (= more loud), do not speak so low." 26. — I like the examples that you have found. 27. Now repeat all the sentences that you have read, using usted. 28–32. Repeat nos. 19, 22, 23, 24, 25, with usted and the corresponding forms of the verbs.

LESSON XII

80. Subjunctive in Dependent Clauses

The general difference between the Spanish indicative and subjunctive moods is that the indicative states or denies a fact, while the subjunctive expresses (1) a wish, (2) doubt or uncertainty, or (3) the cause of emotion.

81. The Spanish subjunctive may be used independently to express command or entreaty (as explained in Lesson XI), but it is used much oftener in dependent clauses. There is no mood (or but few survivals of one; cf. if I were) in English corresponding to the Spanish subjunctive. In cases where the Spanish language requires the subjunctive in subordinate clauses, the English has generally the indicative, but sometimes the infinitive, the present participle (verbal noun in -ing), or the compound forms with should, may, or might.

82. Some of the commoner uses of the dependent subjunctive are:

(1) After expressions of willing or forbidding:

Quiero que él escriba la carta.¹

I wish him to write the letter.

Prohibo que entres.²

I forbid your entering.

¹ But, yo quiero escribir la carta, I wish to write the letter; temo no llegar a tiempo, I fear that I shall not arrive on time, etc. Here the infinitive is used because the main and the dependent verbs have the same subject.

² One may also say te prohibo entrar.

(2) After expressions of doubting or fearing:

Dudo que seas feliz.

I doubt that (whether) you will be happy, or I doubt your being happy.

Temo que no llegue a tiempo.

I fear that he will not arrive in time.

A negative or an interrogative verb may express doubt: no creo que seas culpable, I do not believe that you are guilty; ¿Crees que yo sea culpable? Do you believe that I am guilty?

(3) After expressions of joy or sorrow:

Siento que usted esté enfermo.

I am sorry that you are ill.

Me alegro de que estudies el inglés.

I am glad that you are studying English.

(4) After expressions of necessity, and after impersonal expressions not stressing a fact:

Es necesario que usted estudie mucho.¹

It is necessary that you should study a great deal.

Es posible que él lo haga.

It is possible that he may do it.

Cf. es verdad que lo hizo, it is true that he did it.

(5) After certain conjunctions:

Cuando, when, hasta que, until, luego que, as soon as, mientras (que), as long as, while, and the like, if future time is implied; and after antes (de) que, before, whether the time be future or not.

Cuando venga a verme, le recibiré cordialmente.

When he comes to see me, I shall receive him cordially.

But:

Cuando viene a verme, le recibo cordialmente.

When he comes to see me, I receive him cordially.

No lo venda usted antes que yo lo vea.

Do not sell it before I see it.

Lo vendió antes que yo lo viera.

He sold it before I saw it.

¹ But, es necesario estudiar mucho, it is necessary to study much. The infinitive is used here because its subject is not expressed and the obligation is a general one.

Para que, in order that, de modo (manera) que, so as, so that, con tal que or siempre que, provided that, a menos que, unless, aunque, although, even if, dado que, granted that, and the like, if the subordinate verb does not state a fact.

Mientras dure la vida.

As long as life lasts.

Para que lo creas.

In order that you may believe it.

No aprenderé esta lección aunque estudie toda la noche.

I shall not learn this lesson although I study all night.

But:

No aprendí la lección aunque estudié toda la noche.

I did not learn the lesson although I studied all night.

(6) After a relative with a negative or an indefinite antecedent:

Busco un hombre que hable español.

I am looking for a man who speaks Spanish.

No encuentro a nadie que hable español.

I do not find any one who speaks Spanish.

Note also the following:

a. The present subjunctive may denote either present or future time.

b. Que is rarely omitted in Spanish: teme que no lleguemos a tiempo, he fears (that) we shall not arrive on time.

But it is sometimes omitted after verbs denoting request, permission, etc.

Te suplico tengas la bondad de decírmelo.

I beg you to be kind enough to tell me.

Permita le diga que no es verdad.

Let me tell you that it is not so.

83.

Idiomatic Expressions

por malo que sea, however bad he may be.

sea lo que sea, whatever it may be.

por más dinero que gane, lo gasta todo, whatever money he earns, he spends it all.

dure lo que dure, however long it may last.

EXERCISES

A. — No olvidaré nunca mi visita a la fábrica de alambre. Fuimos todos los de la clase con el profesor. Vimos primero los grandes hornos donde funden el metal. Tuvimos que usar espejuelos azules para protegernos la vista. Luego pasamos a un extenso cobertizo. Aquí los lingotes que salen de los moldes son reducidos a barras pequeñas. Estas barras pasan luego por canales. De estos canales sale el alambre. En varios edificios hay máquinas para convertir el alambre en diferentes objetos.

Al pasar por la oficina de uno de los talleres pude oír esta conversación entre el director y uno de los empleados.

— ¿Crees tú que Juan venga al taller hoy?

— No, me han dicho que no está bien todavía.

— Es lástima. Yo siento mucho que esté enfermo. Oye, escríbele una carta diciéndole que se cuide, que no venga hasta que se restablezca¹ completamente. Buscaré un hombre que haga su trabajo mientras él esté enfermo. Dile también que es posible que yo vaya a verle uno de estos días.

— Usted irá a ver a la sana, no al enfermo. ¡Cuidado!

— Déjate de chistes. Ya sabes que la hermana de Juan tiene novio.

— Ah, pero ¿no sabe usted lo que hay?

— No, ni quiero saberlo.

— De todas maneras voy a contárselo. Los padres de Isabel quieren que se case con Tomás, pero yo dudo que ella le quiera mucho. Los padres insisten porque Tomás gana bastante dinero y es buen muchacho. Juan me ha dicho que Isabel no se casará con Tomás por bueno que sea y por más dinero que gane.

— Ah ¿sí? ¿Es verdad eso?

— ¿Y lo duda usted? ¿No se ha fijado usted en que Isabel y Tomás no salen juntos tanto ahora?

— Mira . . . no escribas la carta. Yo hablaré con Juan hoy mismo. Es preciso que se cuide mucho.

— ¡ Ajá ! ¿ Qué le decía yo ?

— Mira, vete ¹ a tu trabajo y no me molestes más. Te prohibo hablar de Juan.

— Pero ¡ si ² yo no hablaba de Juan !

— No importa. Vete a tu trabajo.

B. 1. ¿ Ha visitado usted una fábrica de alambre ?
 2. ¿ En qué funden el metal ? 3. ¿ Para qué se usan los espejuelos azules ? 4. ¿ Quién está enfermo ? 5. ¿ Quién hará su trabajo ? 6. ¿ Quién quiere ir a ver a Juan ? 7. ¿ Por qué quiere ir a ver a Juan ? 8. ¿ Cuántas hermanas tiene Juan ? 9. ¿ Qué quieren los padres de Isabel ? 10. ¿ Cuánto gana Tomás ? 11. ¿ Qué ha dicho Juan ? 12. ¿ Qué duda el director del taller ? } 13. ¿ En qué no se ha fijado el director ?
 14. ¿ Quién debe cuidarse ? 15. ¿ Quién molesta al director ?

C. 1. Substitute for the dash the correct form of the verb in parenthesis: (estar) Siento que tú — enfermo. ¿ Sientes tú que Juan — enfermo ? (escribir) No quiero — la carta. Prefiero que usted la —. Hágame el favor de —la. No, señor; dígale a Juan que la —. (ser) ¿ Cree usted que ella — feliz ? Sí, creo que — feliz. (pagar) El sastre quiere que usted — la cuenta hoy. No puedo —la hoy ni mañana tampoco. (perder) Yo no deseo — un momento, y deseo que tú no — tampoco un momento. No — (tú) el tiempo. Si — el tiempo, vas a — tu dinero también. (llegar) ¿ Cuándo — el tren ? Debe — a las ocho, y es posible que — a tiempo. Yo dudo que — a tiempo. No — nunca a tiempo. (hablar y escribir) ¿ Conoce usted alguna persona que — y — bien el castellano ? Sí, señor; conozco a una mujer que — y — muy bien el castellano, y puede — y — el inglés también. (llevar) ¿ Quiere usted — esta carta al correo? No, señor; no puedo —la al correo, pero llamaré un criado y le diré que la — al correo en seguida. ¡ Está bien! No es necesario que usted la —. Llame al criado y dígame que — la carta al correo en seguida.

2. Give the first person plural of the present, imperfect, preterite, future, and conditional indicative, and the present subjunctive of comprar, temblar, contar, aprender, perder, volver, escribir, sentir, pedir, dormir.

3. Give the third person plural of the same tenses and verbs.

D. 1. Yesterday we went to see the wire factory. 2. — Where is the factory? I have never seen it. 3. — It is near the river, (at) five kilometers from here. 4. We went first to the office and asked for permission to (para) visit the factory. 5. The superintendent accompanied us and explained everything. 6. We had to wear blue glasses when we approached (a) the furnaces where they melt the metal. 7. The heat was terrible. 8. The superintendent explained to-us how the metal passes through little canals and is reduced to wire. 9. He showed us the machines that change the wire into different objects. 10. When we were in one of the buildings, the superintendent stopped (se detuvo) to (para) talk with one of the employees, and we heard this conversation:

11. — John is ill, and I fear that he will not come today to the (work)shop.

12. — I am sorry that he is ill. Telephone and tell him to take care of himself and not come until he gets-well. 13. Do you know a man that can do his work while he is ill?

14. — I shall look-for a man to do his work, but I fear that John may be ill [for] a long time.

15. — I hope not. Tell him (that) it is possible that I may go to see him tonight.

16. — Be careful! You know that John's sister is very pretty. You know her, do you not?

17. — Yes, I know her, but I shall go to see John and not his sister. 18. They tell me that Isabel has a fiancé, Thomas Morales.

19. — But Isabel's father does not want her to marry Thomas.

20. — Does Thomas make (earn) much money?

21. — Enough, and he is a good lad, but Isabel's father forbids her marrying Thomas without regard to the money he makes (= whatever money he earns).

22. — Well, I hope she will not marry him.

23. — What was I telling you?

24. — Look [here]. Go to work and do not speak [any] more of John or (ni) of his sister.

25. The superintendent begged our (nos pidió) pardon. We thanked him (= gave him the thanks), and took leave.

LESSON XIII

84. Imperative of Irregular Verbs. — Many irregular verbs form the imperative regularly. Thus:

Dar (to) give: da, dad give

Estar (to) be: está, estad be

Saber (to) know: sabe, sabed know

Traer (to) bring: trae, traed bring

Etc.

a. The plural of the imperative is regular in all verbs, but the following verbs form the singular of the imperative irregularly:

Huir¹ (to) flee: huye, huid flee

Oír (to) hear: oye, oíd hear

Decir (to) say, tell: di, decid say, tell

Ir (to) go: ve, id go

Hacer (to) do: haz, haced do

Poner (to) put: pon, poned put Tener (to) have: ten, tened have

Venir (to) come: ven, venid come

Salir (to) go out: sal, salid go out

85. Present Subjunctive of Irregular Verbs. — The stem of the present subjunctive of all verbs except four is the same as that of the first person singular of the present indicative.

Conocer²: conozco; — conozca, conozcas, conozca, conozcamos, conozcáis, conozcan

¹ And thus, all verbs in -uir, such as construir, destruir, etc.

² And thus, most verbs ending in vowel plus -cer or -cir (see § 242).

Huir (to) flee: huyo; - huya, huyas, huya, huyamos, huyáis, huyan

Hacer (to) do: hago; - haga, hagas, haga, hagamos, hagáis, hagan

Poner (to) put: pongo; - ponga, pongas, ponga, pongamos, pongáis, pongan

Decir (to) say, tell: digo; - diga, digas, diga, digamos, digáis, digan

Venir (to) come: vengo; - venga, vengas, venga, vengamos, vengáis, vengan

Dar (to) give: doy; - dé,¹ des, dé, demos, deis, den

Estar (to) be: estoy; - esté, estés, esté, estemos, estéis, estén

And thus: andar, asir, caber, caer, oír, poder, querer, salir, tener, traducir, traer, valer, ver (see § 51).

a. The four verbs that are the exceptions to this rule are ser, ir, haber, saber. Note that the present indicative, first person singular, of these verbs, and of dar and estar, does not end in -o.

Ser (to) be: soy; - sea, seas, sea, seamos, seáis, sean

Ir (to) go: voy; - vaya, vayas, vaya, vayamos,² vayáis, vayan

Haber (to) have: he; - haya, hayas, haya, hayamos, hayáis, hayan

Saber (to) know: sé; - sepa, sepas, sepa, sepamos, sepáis, sepan

b. The present perfect subjunctive is formed as follows:

SINGULAR	PLURAL
1. haya hablado	1. hayamos hablado
2. hayas hablado	2. hayáis hablado
3. haya hablado	3. hayan hablado

86. Orthographic Variations. — According to the Spanish system of orthography, it is sometimes necessary to change the spelling of the stem of an inflected word, to show that the consonant sound at the end of the stem does not ordinarily change.

(1) The rules for the more common changes are:

To express the sound of:	k	"hard" g	gw	jota	zeta
Before -a or -o, or final, write:	c	g	gu	j	z
Before -e or -i, write:	qu	gu	gü	g	c

² In commands, vamos, let us go, is used instead of vayamos: vamos a casa, let us go home; vamos a trabajar, let us go to work.

Sacar: saco I take out; saqué I took out; saque usted take out

Llegar: llego I arrive; llegué I arrived; llegue usted arrive

Coger: cojo I catch; coges you catch; coja usted catch

Empezar: empecé I began; empezaste you began; empiece usted begin

Luz light; luces lights

a. But verbs in -jar keep the j throughout; trabajar: trabajo, I work; trabajé, I worked.

(2) When the stem of a verb of the second or the third conjugation ends in a, e, or o, its preterite is written as follows:

Creer (to) believe: creí, creíste, creyó, creímos, creísteis, creyeron

a. Note the unusual accent marks in the second person singular and the first and second persons plural, and the change of -ió and -ie- to -yó and -ye- in the third person. This is because stressed i, standing next to a, e, or o, requires the written accent; and y takes the place of unstressed i between vowels.

EXERCISES

A. Anoche llamamos a la puerta de los señores de Vega. Una criada abrió la puerta y nos dijo: — Pasen ustedes. — Entramos en el (o al) comedor. Era una habitación agradable. Tenía muchas ventanas. En las paredes había algunos cuadros. Los muebles eran de caoba. En el centro estaba la mesa. Había además un aparador, una mesita de servicio y varias sillas.

Sentada a la mesa estaba una señora. Tenía los codos en la mesa y la cabeza entre las manos. No comía. A su lado estaba de pie un hombre que parecía muy triste. La consolaba diciéndole: — ¡ No llores, no llores, esposa mía ! — Cuando la señora de Vega nos vió, levantó la cabeza, se enjugó los ojos y nos dijo cortésmente: — Pasen ustedes y siéntense. — Entonces señaló un periódico que estaba sobre la mesa. Vimos un encabezamiento que decía: « Continúa la policía indagando el paradero de dos niños. » En otro periódico hallamos lo siguiente:

« Desaparición de dos niños

Ayer no regresaron de la escuela a casa los dos niños de los señores de Vega. Al principio la señora de Vega supuso que estaban jugando con algunos compañeros. Pero luego empezó a creer que habían sido secuestrados. Los padres han recurrido a la policía, a la prensa y a los vecinos. Anoche nos decía la madre con lágrimas en los ojos: — Serían las ocho y diez cuando salieron. Alegres, como siempre, se levantaron temprano, y entraron en (o a) mi habitación a darme los buenos días. Se desayunaron, salieron para la escuela, y no han vuelto más. »

Cuando nos despedimos de los señores de Vega y salimos de la casa, dije a mi amigo: — Yo dudo que los niños hayan sido secuestrados. Es posible que se hayan extraviado, y que vuelvan a casa mañana. — No lo creo, — me contestó. — Los niños eran muy formales y siempre volvían a casa temprano.

B. 1. ¿Qué había en las paredes? 2. ¿Qué muebles había en el comedor? 3. ¿Quién estaba sentada a la mesa? 4. ¿Qué hacía la señora? 5. ¿Quién estaba a su lado? 6. ¿Qué le decía él? 7. ¿Qué había en la mesa? 8. ¿Qué vimos en el periódico? 9. ¿Qué indagaba la policía? 10. ¿Quién ha desaparecido? 11. ¿Qué supuso la señora de Vega? 12. ¿A quién han recurrido los padres? 13. ¿Qué hora sería cuando los niños salieron? 14. ¿A qué hora volvieron a la habitación? 15. ¿Cree usted que los niños hayan sido secuestrados? 16. ¿Cree usted que se hayan extraviado?

C. 1. Substitute for the dash the correct form of the verb in parenthesis: (llegar) ¿Crees que nuestro padre — hoy? No, creo que — mañana. ¡Bueno! Me quedaré aquí hasta que — el tren. (querer) Pida usted lo que (what) — y se lo daré. (llover) Voy esta noche al teatro aunque —, pero creo que no va a —. Anoche — mucho y temo que — esta noche también. Pero ! hombre ! ya —. (decir) Permita usted que yo le — la verdad. Le suplico que me — la verdad. Si no me la —, no le perdonaré. (hacer) Prohibe que lo — nosotros. Pero no queremos —lo, y no lo — mientras dure la vida. (venir) Se lo diré todo a mi padre cuando —. ¿Sabe usted a qué hora —? No, señor, pero dudo que — antes de las diez. Yo sí creo que — antes de esa hora.

2. Give the first person singular — and later the third person plural — of the present indicative and the present subjunctive of the following infinitives. Use the subject pronouns, and put que before the subjunctive: comprarlo (yo lo compro, que yo lo compre), empezarlo, sentarse, pagarlo, creerlo, no caer, entenderlo, cogerlo, ponerla aquí, valer, conocerle, verlos, traerlas, tenerlo, hacerlo, quererle, vivir aquí, no dormir allí, venir, decirlo, oírlo, huir, saberlo todo, haberlo hecho, irse, ser bueno, dárselo, estar presente.

D. 1. Do you believe that the two children of the (señores) de Vegas have been kidnapped? 2. — No, I believe that they merely got lost and (that) they will return home tomorrow. 3. — Perhaps. My children are well trained, and they always return home early, but my wife is afraid that they may be kidnapped some day. 4. — Have you seen the de Vegas since the disappearance of the children? 5. — Yes, I went to their house this morning and the servant (fem.) introduced me into (al) the dining room where Mr. and Mrs. (los señores) de Vega were eating (tomando el) breakfast. 6. Mrs. (La señora) de Vega was weeping and her husband was trying to console her. 7. When they saw us, they said: — Come in and be-seated. 8. We are glad that you have come to see us. — 9. Then Mr. de Vega related to us that yesterday the children arose early as always, dressed, ate breakfast, and left for school at half-past eight. But they have not returned yet. 10. What a pity!

11. Do you wish to sell the automobile (motor car)? 12. — It is possible that I may sell it tomorrow. 13. — Do not sell it before I come. I wish to be present when you sell it. 14. — Even if I sell it, I doubt that you can buy it, but I shall wait until you come. 15. As soon as you arrive, I shall sell it if there is any one who wishes to buy it. I am sorry that you can not buy it now. 16. — I haven't enough money to buy it today, but as the proverb says, there is no evil that lasts a hundred years, and I hope to get (conseguir) the money tomorrow.

LESSON XIV

Subjunctive: Imperfect and Future Tenses

87. Imperfect Subjunctive of Regular Verbs

Hablar

First Form

SINGULAR	PLURAL
1. habl ase	1. habl ásemos
2. habl ases	2. habl aseis
3. habl ase	3. habl asen

Second Form

1. habl ara ¹	1. habl áramos
2. habl aras	2. habl arais
3. habl ara	3. habl aran

Temer

First Form

1. temi ese	1. temi ésemos
2. temi eses	2. temi eseis
3. temi ese	3. temi esen

Second Form

1. temi era	1. temi éramos
2. temi eras	2. temi erais
3. temi era	3. temi eran

¹ The imperfect subjunctive in -ra is derived from the Latin pluperfect indicative [ama(ve)ra(m) > amara], and it is sometimes still used in literary Spanish with the force of an indicative pluperfect or preterite.

Vivir*First Form*

SINGULAR	PLURAL
1. vivi ese	1. vivi ésemos
2. vivi eses	2. vivi eseis
3. vivi ese	3. vivi esen

Second Form

1. vivi era	1. vivi éramos
2. vivi eras	2. vivi erais
3. vivi era	3. vivi eran

Note that the imperfect subjunctive has two forms, that in -se and that in -ra. In dependent clauses there is usually little choice between the two. In most parts of Spanish America the form in -ra is the more common in colloquial speech.

a. The -ra subjunctive is sometimes called the Conditional Subjunctive. Note that the accent remains on the same vowel throughout the two imperfect subjunctives.

88. Future (or Hypothetical) Subjunctive of Regular Verbs

Hablar

3. temi ere	3. temi eren

Vivir

1. vivi ere	1. vivi éremos
2. vivi eres	2. vivi ereis
3. vivi ere	3. vivi eren

89. Imperfect and Future Subjunctive of Radical-Changing and Irregular Verbs. — The first person singular of the two imperfect tenses and the future (or hypothetical) tense of the subjunctive of all verbs, regular, radical-changing and irregular, may be formed by changing -ron of the third person plural of the preterite indicative to -se, -ra and -re respectively. To this rule there are no exceptions.

Sentir (to) feel: sintieron

sintiese, sintieses, sintiese, sintiésemos, sintieseis, sintiesen sintiera, sintieras, sintiera, sintiéramos, sintierais, sintieran sintiere, sintieres, sintiere, sintiéremos, sintiereis, sintieren

Pedir (to) ask: pidieron

pidiese, pidieses, pidiese, pidiésemos, pidieseis, pidiesen pidiera, pidieras, pidiera, pidiéramos, pidierais, pidieran pidiere, pidieres, pidiere, pidiéremos, pidiereis, pidieren

Estar (to) be: estuvieron

estuviese, estuvieses, estuviese, estuviésemos, estuvieseis, estuviesen estuviera, estuvieras, estuviera, estuviéramos, estuvierais, estuvieran estuviere, estuvieres, estuviere, estuviéremos, estuviereis, estuvieren

Ser (to) be: fueron

fuese, fueses, fuese, fuésemos, fueseis, fuesen fuera, fueras, fuera, fuéramos, fuerais, fueran fuere, fueres, fuere, fuéremos, fuereis, fueren

Haber (to) have: hubieron

hubiese, etc.; hubiera, etc.; hubiere, etc.

Tener (to) have: tuvieron

tuviese, etc.; tuviera, etc.; tuviere, etc.

Querer (to) wish: quisieron

quisiese, etc.; quisiera, etc.; quisiere, etc.

Decir (to) say, tell: dijeron

dijese, etc.; dijera, etc.; dijere, etc.

Huir (to) flee: huyeron

huyese, etc.; huyera, etc.; huyere, etc.

Etc.

90. Use of the Imperfect Subjunctive. — A present or future tense in the main clause is usually followed by the present subjunctive, and a past tense or the conditional by the imperfect:

Deseo que él escriba la carta.

I wish him to write the letter.

Desearé que él escriba la carta.

I shall wish him to write the letter.

Deseaba que él escribiese, or escribiera, la carta.

I wished (was wishing) him to write the letter.

Deseé que él escribiese, or escribiera, la carta.

I wished him to write the letter.

Desearía que el escribiese, or escribiera, la carta.	I should wish him to write the letter. ¹
Temo que usted no llegue a tiempo.	I fear that you will not arrive on time.
Temeré que usted no llegue a tiempo.	I shall fear that you will not arrive on time.
Temía que usted no llegase, or llegara, a tiempo.	I feared (was fearing) that you would not arrive on time.
Temí que usted no llegase, or llegara, a tiempo.	I feared that you would not arrive on time.
Temería que usted no llegase, or llegara, a tiempo.	I should fear that you would not arrive on time.
Prohibo que entres.	I forbid your entering .
Prohibiré que entres.	I shall forbid your entering .
Prohibía que entrases, or entraras.	I forbade (was forbidding) your entering .
Prohibí que entrases, or entraras.	I forbade your entering .
Prohibiría que entrases, or entraras.	I should forbid your entering .

a. After a present or a future tense the imperfect subjunctive is used to denote a past action: siento que usted no llegase, or llegara, a tiempo, I am sorry that you did not arrive on time.

b. The perfect is followed by the present or imperfect subjunctive according to the meaning of the sentence.

El general ha mandado que los prisioneros sean fusilados.	The general has commanded that the prisoners (should) be shot.
Ayer he escrito a Juan que volviese (volviera) a casa.	Yesterday I wrote to John to return home.

91. Use of the Future (or Hypothetical) Subjunctive —
The future subjunctive always denotes a condition or a present or future contingency. In the spoken Spanish of today the future subjunctive is rarely used except in proverbs, legal expressions, etc. Its place is regularly taken by the present subjunctive, or by the present indicative if used with si, if.

¹ Note quisiera que él escribiese, or escribiera, la carta, I wish he would write the letter.

Si tuviere (tengo) dinero, lo compraré.	If I have money, I shall buy it.
Mientras durare (dure) la vida, trabajaré.	As long as life lasts, I shall work.
Créelo si quisieres (quieres).	Believe it if you wish.
Es necesario aceptar lo que nos dieren (den).	It is necessary to accept what they give us.
Las leyes permiten que cada uno se defienda de quien quisiere (quiera) agraviarle.	The laws permit every one to defend himself against any one who may wish to injure him.

92. (1) Pluperfect Subjunctive

Hablar

2. hubieses hablado	2. hubieseis hablado
3. hubiese hablado	3. hubiesen hablado

Second Form

1. hubiera hablado	1. hubiéramos hablado
2. hubieras hablado	2. hubierais hablado
3. hubiera hablado	3. hubieran hablado

a. Hubiese and hubiera, used impersonally, mean there might be, etc.; hubiese, or hubiera, habido, there might have been.

(2) Future (or Hypothetical) Perfect Subjunctive

Hablar

SINGULAR	PLURAL
1. hubiere hablado	1. hubiéremos hablado
2. hubieres hablado	2. hubiereis hablado
3. hubiere hablado	3. hubieren hablado

a. Hubiere is also used as an impersonal verb.

EXERCISES

A. 1. Cuando yo vaya a Madrid me alojaré en una casa de huéspedes. Deseo perfeccionarme en el español. Es posible hacerlo en una casa donde no haya extranjeros. En un hotel casi siempre los hay. Por eso no hay tantas oportunidades de practicar el idioma. En un hotel, ya se sabe, el servicio es más completo. A mí, sin embargo, me parece muy mecánico. Cuando llega uno se inscribe en el registro. El cajero o contador le asigna una habitación. El « botones » le conduce al ascensor y luego a la habitación. Y para que no desmejore el servicio, es preciso repartir propinas entre los diferentes empleados. En una buena casa de huéspedes el ambiente es casi siempre de familia. Yo prefiero esto.

2. Mi amigo Diego Perales vive en un hotel. Hacía tiempo que no le veía, y temía que estuviese enfermo. Ayer cuando iba a mi oficina le encontré cerca del hotel. Con él estaba un empleado de su padre. Al principio Diego me miró fijamente, pero como si no me conociese. Esto me sorprendió. Entramos Diego y yo en el (o al) hotel para charlar un rato. Detrás de nosotros entró el empleado. Nos sentamos en una salita de donde podíamos ver el despacho del hotel. A los pocos minutos Diego me dijo:

— Quisiera dar un paseo en automóvil, pero Roberto no me deja solo ni un momento.

Al decir esto indicó al empleado que nos había seguido y que estaba de pie en la puerta de la salita. Me extrañó tanto esto como lo que había dicho Diego.

— Oye ¿ a qué viene ese hombre ? — le pregunté.

— Siento que te moleste, me dijo. Le diré que se marche, pero dudo que lo haga.

Diego se acercó al empleado y le dijo que se fuera de allí, que le esperase en la calle. Pero Roberto permaneció inmóvil. Entonces yo me acerqué y le pedí que nos dejara solos.

— No puedo, señor, — me dijo —. El papá de Diego quiere que le cuide. No está completamente restablecido.

— ¿ Pero Diego ha estado enfermo ? — pregunté.

— ¡ Ah ! ¿ Usted no sabe ? El mes pasado, por manejar su automóvil con mucha velocidad, chocó con otro. En el choque recibió un golpe terrible en la cabeza. Fíjese en el chichón que tiene detrás de la oreja.

Entonces lo comprendí todo.

B. 1. ¿Dónde está Madrid? 2. ¿Le gusta a usted vivir en un hotel? 3. ¿Quién estaba con Diego? 4. ¿Cómo miró Diego a su amigo? 5. ¿Quién entró detrás de los dos amigos? 6. ¿Dónde se sentaron? 7. ¿Qué se podía ver desde la salita? 8. ¿Dónde estaba el empleado? 9. ¿Qué le dijo Diego al empleado? 10. ¿Por qué no quería irse Diego? 11. ¿Qué quería el papá de Diego? 12. ¿Cómo manejaba Diego su automóvil? 13. ¿Qué tenía Diego detrás de la oreja?

C. 1. Change the verbs from present to past time: El tren debe llegar a las diez, y es posible que llegue a tiempo. Yo dudo que llegue a tiempo. Deseo que él escriba la carta. Y yo prohíbo que la escriba. Yo no quiero escribir la carta; prefiero que él la escriba. Le aconsejo que la escriba en seguida. Quiere que paguemos la cuenta pero no podemos pagarla. Le digo que la pagaremos mañana cuando venga a casa. Temo que usted no lo haga antes que yo parta para España. Yo dudo que los niños hayan sido secuestrados. Es posible que se hayan extraviado y que vuelvan a casa mañana.

2. Substitute for the dash the proper form of the verb in parenthesis: (comprar) Hoy vendí el automóvil y siento muchísimo que usted no lo —. (llegar) No pude comprarlo porque usted lo vendió antes que yo —.¹ (vender) Le escribí a usted que no lo — antes que yo llegara, pero lo — ayer. (perdonar) Nos suplicó que le —, pero nos negamos a —le. Temía que nosotros no le —. (fumar) Yo prohibí que tú — tabaco ¿no es verdad? Sí, señor, usted prohibió que yo — tabaco. Me gusta —, pero no — más. (estudiar) Nos aconsejó que — más, y vamos a — todos los días. Si — el español, podremos ir a España. Sí, pero a mí no me gusta —. (acompañar) ¿Las señoras le permitieron a usted que las —? Sí, señor, y anoche yo las — al teatro. (perder) Nuestro padre no deseaba — el tiempo y no deseaba que nosotros lo — tampoco. (partir) Le pregunté si — mañana, y me respondió que era posible que — hoy.

D. 1. It is a pity that Diego was ill. 2. — He wasn't ill. He was driving his car very rapidly and collided with another car. 3. Have you seen the bump he has on his (1a) forehead? 4. — Yes, I saw it, and now I understand why his father wished one of his employees to look-after Diego. 5. He feared that he was not fully recovered. 6. This morning I went to the hotel and chatted a while with Diego. 7. At first he looked-at me as if he didn't know me. 8. This surprised me, but I went-up to him and said to him: Hello, Diego! How goes it? (¿Qué tal?) 9. Then he pointed at one of his father's employees who was standing by (en) the door. 10. He said to me in a low voice that he wished (that) the man would leave. 11. Tell him, — he said, — to go away from there and wait-for me in the street —. 12. I went up to the man and asked him to go away (use salir) and wait-for us outside, but he told me that he couldn't leave Diego until he was fully recovered. 13. I told Diego (that) I was very sorry (that) the man troubled him and I advised him to go home at once. 14. But Diego refused to do so, and when I left (= went out), Diego was seated on a sofa near the window and the man was standing by the door. 15. As soon as I reach (= arrive at) home, I shall telephone to his father. 16. I was surprised (= It surprised me) that Diego should live in a hotel. 17. He told me that he preferred a hotel to a boarding house. 18. He wasn't willing to live in his father's house. 19. I doubt that father and son agree [very] well. 20. Do you know Diego's father? 21. — Yes, I know him, and he is a distinguished attorney. 22. He is very fond-of Diego, but he treats him with great severity. 23. — Well (Pues), I am not surprised that he doesn't want to live in his father's house.

LESSON XV

Conditional Sentences

93. A present condition "contrary to fact" may be expressed in either one of the following ways:

Si tuviese, or tuviera, dinero, lo compraría.	} If I had money, I should Si tuviese, or tuviera, dinero, lo comprara.

Note that the form in -ra may occur in the result clause (apodosis) as well as in the condition (protasis), while the form in -se occurs only in the condition, and the form in -ría occurs only in the result clause.

a. The condition may, of course, either precede or follow the result: si tuviese tiempo, iría, if I had time, I should go, or iría si tuviese tiempo, I should go if I had time.

b. The conjunction si is sometimes followed by a conditional indicative, and si then means whether: no supe si vendría, I did not know whether he would come.

94. A past condition contrary to fact may be expressed as follows:

Si hubiera (hubiese) tenido dinero,	} If I had had money, I should have lo habría (hubiera) comprado.

a. In colloquial speech, the present indicative is often used in the result clause of a past condition contrary to fact: si la culebra me hubiera picado, me mata, if the serpent had bitten me, it would have killed me.

95. When the verb of the result clause (apodosis) is thrown into the subjunctive, the present and future indicative become the present subjunctive; the imperfect, preterite, and conditional indicative become the imperfect subjunctive; and the perfect and pluperfect indicative become the perfect and pluperfect subjunctive respectively.

Teme que yo gaste mucho si gano mucho.	He fears that I spend (or shall spend) much if I earn much.
Teme que yo gastara (gastase) mucho si ganase (ganara) mucho.	He fears that I should spend much if I earned much.

Teme que yo hubiera (hubiese)	He fears that I should have spent gastado mucho si hubiese (hubiera) ganado mucho.	much if I had earned much.

Note that an indicative verb of the condition (protasis) is not attracted into the subjunctive.

96. Idiomatic Expressions

¡ ojalá (que) viva mil años ! oh, that he may, or I hope he will, live a thousand years !

¡ ojalá (que) viviese, or viviera, mil años ! oh, that he might, or I wish he would, live a thousand years !

quisiera estudiar el francés, I should like, or I should be glad, to study French.

quisiera que tú estudiases, or estudiaras, el francés, I should like you to, or I wish you would, study French.

yo debiera hacerlo, I ought to, or I should, do it.

¡ quién supiera escribir ! oh, if I (or if one) could only write !

97. Use of Infinitive

(1) To before an infinitive is either not expressed in Spanish, or it is usually expressed by a or de.

Quiero hablar con usted.	I wish to speak with you.
Espero llegar a tiempo.	I hope to arrive on time.
Aprende a escribir.	He is learning to write.
Estoy obligado a trabajar mucho.	I am obliged to work a great deal.
Trataré de hacerlo.	I shall try to do so.
Tengo vergüenza de pedirlo.	I am ashamed to ask it.

a. Many verbs (especially the "modal auxiliaries," deber, querer, etc.) take no preposition before a following infinitive; a is required after a verb of beginning, teaching, and learning, and after most verbs of motion, before a following infinitive; de is often used to connect a noun or adjective with a following infinitive, and is found occasionally between verbs (tratar de ver, alegrarse de ir, etc.).

b. But to, meaning in order to, is para: como para vivir; no vivo para comer, I eat to live; I do not live to eat.

c. The following are some of the commoner verbs that require a preposition before a following infinitive (for a full list, see § 294):

aprender (a) to learn (to)	acordarse (de) to remember (to) atreverse (a) to dare (to)	alegrarse (de) to be glad (to) decidirse (a) to decide (to)	dejar (de) to cease (to) empezar (a) to begin (to)	tratar (de) to try (to) enseñar (a) to teach (to)	soñar (con) to dream (of) ir (a) to go (to)	consentir (en) to consent (to) negarse (a) to refuse (to)	insistir (en) to insist (on) venir (a) to come (to)	pugnar (por) to strive (to)

d. Note also the use of que in no tengo nada que hacer, I haven't anything to do.

(2) After a preposition, the English present participle ¹ is to be translated usually by the Spanish infinitive.

Antes de comer.	Before eating.
Partió sin decir adiós.	He left without saying good-bye.
Estoy cansado de trabajar.	I am tired of working.
Al leer (yo) la carta.	Upon (my) reading the letter.

(3) Used as a noun, the infinitive usually takes the definite article.

El comer es indispensable.	To eat (or Eating) is indispensable.
El saber es útil.	Knowledge is useful.

98. Present Participle. — The present participle is invariable; that is, it may agree, without changing its form, with a masculine or feminine, a singular or plural, noun.

Hablando así las niñas . . .	The girls speaking thus . . .
Gana el pan cosiendo y bordando.	She earns her bread (by) sewing and embroidering.

a. By exception to 97 (2), en meaning on or after may be used with the present participle, but this is rare in modern colloquial Spanish: en llegando, on (after) arriving.

b. We have seen that hablo means I speak, I do speak (emphatic), or I am speaking (progressive); hablaba means I was speaking (progressive) or I used to speak; hablaré means I shall speak or I shall be speak- ing (progressive), etc. But progressive action may also be expressed in Spanish by estar and the present participle: estoy hablando, I am speaking; estaba hablando, I was speaking; estaré hablando, I shall be speaking, etc. The progressive form with estar, however, is used less often, and is more emphatic, than the English progressive form with be. It is rarely used with the present participles of ser, estar, ir, venir, and many other verbs. Instead of estar, the verbs ir, venir, and andar are sometimes used to form a periphrastic progressive tense: va obscureciendo, it is growing dark.

¹ No attempt is here made to distinguish between the present participle and the gerund, either in English or in Spanish.

99. The present participles of most radical-changing and irregular verbs are regular, but the following are irregular:

sentir : sintiendo ¹	traer : trayendo ²
pedir : pidiendo ¹	decir : diciendo
dormir : durmiendo ¹	ir : yendo
huir : huyendo ²	poder : pudiendo
oír : oyendo ²	venir : viniendo

100. Past Participles used as adjectives are inflected like adjectives.

Mi amada patria.	My beloved country.
Las cartas están escritas.	The letters are written.

When used to form the perfect tenses, past participles are invariable.

Mi madre ha venido.	My mother has come.
Las manzanas que he comprado son buenas.	The apples that I have bought are good.

101. Past Participles. — (1) The following otherwise regular verbs have irregular past participles:

abrir (to) open: abierto	imprimir (to) print: impreso
cubrir (to) cover: cubierto	prender (to) arrest: preso , ³ prendido
escribir (to) write: escrito	romper (to) break: roto ³

¹ The present participles of all radical-changing verbs of the third conjugation are formed like these.

² The irregularity here is merely orthographic, as -iendo preceded by a vowel regularly becomes -yendo, even in regular verbs. Note creer, creyendo; leer, leyendo; etc.

³ In an intransitive sense, rompido is used. Preso and roto may be used as adjectives.

(2) The radical-changing verbs solver, volver, and their derivatives, and morir, have irregular past participles:

solver (to) loosen: suelto volver (to) return: vuelto resolver (to) resolve: resuelto revolver (to) revolve: revuelto morir (to) die: muerto

a. Muerto, used actively with haber or passively with ser, and referring to a person, may mean killed: un ladrón le ha muerto, a thief has killed him, fué muerto por un ladrón, he was killed by a thief; but, ha muerto, he has died, está muerto, he is dead.

(3) The past participles of most irregular verbs are regular, but the following are irregular:

decir: dicho poner: puesto
hacer: hecho ver: visto

(4) When the stem of a verb of the second or the third conjugation ends in a vowel, the i of -ido requires the accent mark:

caer: caído oír: oído
leer: leído huir: huído

EXERCISES

A. Entré en la salita para esperar a Rosa. Al principio reinaba un profundo silencio, pero luego me extrañó oír un murmullo que parecía salir de la habitación inmediata. En efecto pude oír: « ¡ Señor Rector, señor Rector ! » Y otras veces: « ¡ Que¹ me voy a morir ! » Me asusté e iba a alejarme de allí para enterar a mi amigo, el cajero del hotel, de lo que ocurría, cuando oí claramente dos voces. Ésta es la conversación que tuvo lugar.

— ¡ Qué triste estoy !

— « ¡ Qué triste estoy sin ti ! » Eso es de Campoamor.

— No, es mío. Me veo en un apuro terrible. Tengo que recitar esta noche su poesía famosa: « ¡ Quién supiera escribir ! »

¹ This introductory que may be disregarded if the sentence is translated.

« Una congoja al empezar me viene . . . » ¿ No sabes ?
De tu congoja, nada. Y si supiera la poesía de Campoamor, no me vería en este apuro.

— Pues, debieras aprenderla. Hay tiempo. « Escribidme una carta, señor Cura. » Así empieza.

— Déjate de tonterías. Estoy haciendo todo lo posible para aprenderla. Yo sé como empieza, pero no como acaba. Y es verdad que tengo tiempo, pero no el libro. Se lo presté a María, y no me lo ha devuelto.

— Aquí entra aquello: « ¿ Qué es sin ti el mundo ? Un valle de amargura. »

— Si tuviera dinero compraría otro ejemplar.

— No lo compres. Yo iba a prestarle mi ejemplar a mi primo; pero no se lo prestaré; te lo prestaré a ti.¹ Después de aprender la poesía, quisiera que me devolvieras el libro.

— No te lo devolveré antes de aprender toda la poesía. Pero ¿ dices que tu primo ha venido ?

— Sí, vino ayer. No le conoces ¿ verdad ?

— No, preséntame a él lo más pronto posible. Yo quisiera conocerle.

— Sí, en cuanto vuelva. Yo quisiera que tú le conocieras.

— Ojalá sea pronto.

— ¿ Sabes que su padre fué muerto por un ladrón ?

— No sabía que su padre hubiera muerto.

— Sí, un ladrón le mató el año pasado. Mi tío era amado de todos.

B. ¿ Dónde reinaba un silencio profundo ? ¿ De dónde parecía salir el murmullo ? ¿ Qué decían en la otra habitación ? ¿ Cuántas personas conversaban ? ¿ Por quién fué muerto el tío del joven ? ¿ Cuándo le mató ? ¿ Quién es Campoamor ? ¿ Ha leído usted la poesía, ¿ Quien supiera escribir ! ¿ Cómo empieza la poesía ? ¿ Sabe usted alguna poesía española ? ¿ Compraría usted un ejemplar de las obras de Campoamor si tuviese dinero? ¿A quién se lo prestaría? ¿Me lo prestaría usted a mí? ¿Cuántos primos tiene usted? ¿No quiere usted presentarme a ellos?

¹ Note, for emphasis and clarity, the double construction te . . . a ti, etc.

C. 1. Substitute for the dash the proper form of the verb in parenthesis: (hablar) Las niñas están — con su madre. Yo quisiera — con ellas, y quisiera que usted — con ellas también. Pero yo — con ellas esta tarde y — con ellas otra vez mañana. (poder) Yo lo haría si —, pero no —. (comprar) Yo quisiera —lo pero no puedo. Si tuviera dinero, lo —. Quisiera que tú lo —. Pero, hombre, no quiero —lo. No lo — si pudiera. (escribir) ¿Está — la carta? Sí, señor; fué — por mi hermano, o al menos me dijo que la —. Ojalá esté —, pues es importante. Es preciso que nosotros le — al señor González cada mes. Pero yo estoy cansado de — tantas cartas. (gustar) Si me casase con usted sería necesario que usted me —, y la verdad es que usted no me —. Siento muchísimo que no le —, pero no es mía la culpa. (ganar) ¿Juan ha — mucho dinero? Yo no creo que — mucho, pero si — un millón lo gastaría en seguida. Yo soy diferente. Si — mucho, gasto poco. (comer) Temo que usted — demasiado. No, señor; yo — muy poco, y no se olvide que el — es indispensable. Sí, pero es necesario — para vivir y no vivir para —. Quisiera que usted — menos. Si yo no tuviera buen apetito, — menos. Sería provechoso si pasara dos o tres días sin — nada. (decir) Cuando las señoritas Calles partieron ¿le — a Vd. adiós? No, partieron sin —me adiós. Me extrañó mucho que no me — nada, pues somos buenas amigas.

D. 1. Today I entered the station to buy a ticket. 2. I was about to (going to) leave when I heard a countryman exclaim (= who was exclaiming): "If I could only read and write!" 3. I stopped to listen and I heard the following conversation.

4. — But can't (use saber) you read and write? 5. — No, sir;

I regret very much that my father did not teach me to read and write. 6. — Then, you ought to learn. If I were you, I should begin today. 7. — I should like to do so (lo), but I am too (muy) old and poor to (para) go to school. 8. If I had money, I should buy some books and (I should) study at home. 9. — Don't buy [any] books. I shall lend you two or three. 10. Do you know the schoolmaster? If you would go to his house, he would teach you. 11. — Yes, I know him. He is very likable, but I shouldn't like to trouble him without paying him for the lessons. 12. As soon as I return from Málaga, I shall speak with him and I shall ask him to teach me. 13. I shall try to learn to read and write. 14. But before beginning I shall ask (use preguntar) him how much he will charge me. 15. This (Esto) would not be necessary if I were rich, but I am very poor. 16. — I hope you will learn soon. 17. If you knew [how] to write, you could write to your daughter who is in Mexico. 18. — How sad I am without her! 19. I hope she will return soon to Spain. 20. Her husband was killed by a motor car that collided with the one that (con el que) he was driving. 21. — That (Eso) is terrible! I didn't know that the poor man had died. 22. — Yes, he died six months ago.

23. I could not wait [any] longer (más) and I left the station. 24. But not without saying to (para) myself: I am not surprised that the poor countryman is sad. 25. He cannot read or (ni) write, and his daughter has lost her (el) husband.

LESSON XVI

Indefinite Article

102. See § 26.

a. Una sometimes loses its -a before a noun beginning with stressed a- or ha-: una alma or un alma. The full form is more usual.

103. Omission of the Indefinite Article. — The indefinite article is used less often in Spanish than in English: it is usually omitted before a noun in the predicate used like an adjective to denote nationality, occupation, rank, etc.

Es americano.

He is an American.

Es sastre.

He is a tailor.

Es general.

He is a general.

It is also usually omitted,

a. Before a noun in apposition: Sevilla, ciudad en Andalucía, Sevilla, a city in Andalusia.

b. Before otro, another; cierto, a certain; ciento, a hundred; mil, a thousand; after tal, such a, etc.

c. Note also such expressions as the following: dos pesos la botella, two dollars a bottle; tres veces al día (or por día), three times a day; mil pesos al año (or por año), a thousand dollars a (or per) year.

Definite Article

See § 30.

104. Neuter Article Lo. — In addition to the forms of the definite article already given, there is another form, lo, which is required before the masculine form of an adjective, when the adjective is used substantively as the name of a color or as an abstract noun. This is generally called the neuter article, since it cannot be used with a masculine or a feminine noun.

Se ruborizó hasta lo blanco de los ojos. He colored to the white of his eyes.

Lo infinito y lo eterno. The infinite and the eternal.

Prefiero lo bueno a lo malo, lo bello a lo feo. I prefer the good to the bad, the beautiful to the ugly.

a. Note also the following idiomatic expressions:

Sabemos lo buenas que son ellas. We know how good they are.

Sabemos lo mucho que nos quiere. We know how much he loves us.

105. Use of the Definite Article. — The definite article is used oftener in Spanish than in English. It is required in the following cases:

(1) Before an abstract noun, or one used in a general sense to denote all of the thing or class it names.

La ambición es peligrosa.

Ambition is dangerous.

El hierro es útil.

Iron is useful.

Ama las flores.

He loves flowers.

But if some or any is expressed or understood before the English noun, the article is omitted in Spanish.

No tiene ambición.

He hasn't (any) ambition.

Compra hierro.

He is buying (some) iron.

Compra flores.

He is buying flowers.

(2) Before a title, or a proper noun modified by a descriptive adjective or phrase.

el señor Morales Mr. Morales

la pequeña María little Mary el general Martínez General Martinez

el Asia rusa Russian Asia

la América del Sur South America

But in direct address the article is omitted, and señor, señora, or señorita is usually prefixed to a title.

Buenos días, señor general Martínez. Good day, General Martinez.

a. The article is not used before Don or Doña,¹ or San(to), -a: Don Antonio habla, Anthony is speaking.

b. The article is required before a noun used in apposition with a personal pronoun (expressed or understood): nosotros los americanos creemos, or los americanos creemos, we Americans believe.

(3) Before a word or expression of time that is modified.

Llegó el martes de la semana pasada.

He arrived (on) Tuesday of last week.

La semana próxima.

Next week.

(4) Before an adjective of nationality used to denote a language.

El inglés no es difícil.

English is not difficult.

¿Enseña usted el español?

Do you teach Spanish?

But immediately after hablar, to speak (sometimes after aprender, saber, etc.), the article is usually omitted except before castellano.¹ After en, in, the article is usually omitted.

Hablamos francés.

We speak French.

En alemán.

In German.

But:

¿Hablas el castellano?

Do you speak Spanish?

(5) With some names of countries and cities. These include all geographic names modified by an adjective, such as los Estados Unidos,² the United States, la Gran Bretaña, Great Britain, and also some others including the following:

el Brasil Brazil

la Argentina, the Argentine el Canadá Canada

la China China

el Ecuador Ecuador

la Florida Florida

el Japón Japan

la Habana Havana

el Paraguay Paraguay

la Suiza Switzerland

el Perú Peru

(6) Usually before a noun denoting a temporary condition of the body, when the object of tener, to have.

Tengo las manos frías.

My hands are cold.

Tiene los ojos cansados.

His eyes are tired.

But:

Tiene pelo negro.

He has black hair.

(7) The masculine article sometimes modifies an infinitive or a subject clause.

El comer demasiado es malo.

It is bad to eat too much.

El que sean todas bonitas no puede ser mera casualidad.

It can not be mere chance that they are all pretty.

(8) The definite article is sometimes used instead of a possessive, as in

He perdido el sombrero.

I have lost my hat.

² Occasionally Estados Unidos is now used without the article, as in en Estados Unidos, in the United States.

106. Omission of the Definite Article. — The definite article is omitted in Spanish, although required in English.

(1) Usually before a noun in apposition.

Wáshington, capital de los Estados Unidos.	Washington, the capital of the United States.
---	---

a. But in a sentence such as tengo una carta para María, la hija del Sr. Morales, I have a letter for Mary, the daughter of Mr. Morales, the article is used to help specify which Mary is meant.

(2) Before a numeral modifying a title.

Carlos quinto	Charles the Fifth
Luis diez y seis	Louis the Sixteenth

107. Regular Verbs. — The First Conjugation. Study §§ 229–231, part of § 232, and § 233.

EXERCISES

- A. 1. — ¡Qué flores tan bonitas! ¿Para quién son?
 — Son para María, la hija del general Martínez. Ama las flores y en su jardín no hay muchas.
 — ¿Dónde está ella?
 — Allí está. Es la señorita que tiene pelo y ojos negros.
 — Mi esposa conoce a María. No conocemos al general, pero sabemos que es chileno. Llegó el martes de la semana pasada. ¿Habla bien el inglés?¹
 — No; ha estudiado este idioma, pero no ha aprendido a hablarlo bien. Dice que es muy difícil. En verdad, no es más difícil que el español.
 — El general viaja mucho ¿no es verdad?
 — Sí. Ha vivido en Inglaterra y en Francia, pero no ha vivido en Alemania. Me dijo que visitó a Cuba, pero no la Habana. Ha viajado por toda la América del Sur.

¹ Here inglés does not immediately follow hablar, and hence the article is used.

— ¿Qué idiomas hablan en la América del Sur?

— En el Brasil hablan portugués; en las otras repúblicas hablan español (el castellano).

— Yo deseo ir a la América del Sur. Mi tío tiene minas de cobre en Chile. El cobre es un mineral de mucho valor. El hierro es más útil, pero en Chile no hay mucho hierro.

2. El señor no tiene ambición. ¿Cree Vd.¹ que la ambición sea peligrosa? — No, señor; la ambición es útil. Sin ambición uno no puede hacer nada. — ¿Prefiere usted lo útil a lo bello? — No, señor, prefiero lo bello a lo útil. El hierro es útil. Las flores son bellas y las prefiero al hierro. — Está bien, pero nosotros los norteamericanos somos realistas y sabemos lo necesario que es el hierro. No se puede construir una casa con flores. — Es cierto lo que dice Vd., pero no me gustaría una casa sin flores. — A mí también me gustan las flores, pero si me ofrecieran una mina de cobre o un jardín con flores, aceptaría la mina.

B. 1. ¿Quién es María? ¿Conoce Vd. al general Martínez? ¿Para quién son las flores? ¿Quién tiene un jardín? ¿Hay muchas flores en el jardín? ¿Quién tiene ojos negros? ¿Dónde está María? ¿Quién llegó el martes? ¿Qué idiomas ha estudiado Vd.? ¿Cuál es más difícil, el inglés o el español? ¿Quién viaja mucho? ¿Quién tiene minas de cobre? ¿Hay mucho hierro en Chile? ¿Dónde hablan español? ¿Dónde hablan inglés? ¿Dónde hablan francés? ¿Dónde hablan alemán? ¿Dónde hablan portugués? ¿Cuál prefiere Vd., lo útil o lo bello, . . . el hierro o las flores, . . . una mina de cobre o un jardín con flores?

C. 1. Continue: Amo lo bello. Yo enseñaba el inglés. Yo vendía flores. Me gustan las flores. Yo vivía en la Habana.

¹ The common abbreviations of usted and ustedes are Vd. and Vds. or Ud. and Uds.

2. Supply the proper form of the definite article, if the article is needed: Habla castellano, no habla francés.

castellano es fácil, pero alemán es difícil. Escribo cartas en español. Tengo manos frías. María ama flores. Ayer compré flores. Conocemos a señor Morales. ¿Enseña Vd. español? Preferiría bello a feo, bueno a malo. Soy de España; no soy de Brasil. He perdido sombrero. ambición es peligrosa. hierro es más útil que oro. señor Morales está en Inglaterra comprando hierro. señora de Morales está enferma. Vive en Canadá; no vive en Inglaterra. Amo paz y aborrezco guerra. paz y salud y no dinero constituyen felicidad de la familia. fuego prueba oro; desgracia prueba a hombre y a amigos. Tengo manos y pies fríos. En pasado (neut.) estudiaba poco; en presente (neut.) estudio mucho. bueno agrada; bello deleita. Todo mundo deja útil y busca vano.

D. 1. In (the) school I met yesterday a very pretty young woman (joven). 2. Her name is Mary Ortiz. 3. She is Spanish and has black hair and eyes. 4. She doesn't speak English well, but she speaks Spanish and Portuguese. 5. She arrived from Spain last week. 6. She wishes to study in this country. 7. When I went-into the classroom, she was reading a letter from her brother. 8. The letter was written in Spanish. 9. I know her brother John very well, because he used-to-work in my uncle's factory. 10. Now he is with his father. 11. They are rich. 12. They have copper mines in one of the Spanish American republics. 13. If I had a copper mine, I should be rich too. 14. I wish I had one. 15. My uncle received today a letter from John's father. 16. In the letter he says: "I should like to go to the United States if I could, but I am ill, and can not go. 17. John can not go either, because he is working in the mines. 18. But I wish his mother to go to see Mary. 19. She has not seen her for two years. 20. She wants to visit all our friends in the United States."

21. Mr. Morales says that Spanish is easier (= more easy) than English. 22. He says (that) he could learn to speak English if it were as (tan) easy as (como) Spanish. 23. He does not speak English well, but he reads it and writes it. 24. He wishes to learn English, French, and German. 25. They speak English in England, in Canada and in the United States. 26. They speak Spanish in Spain and in the Spanish American countries. 27. They speak French in France, and they speak German in Germany.

28. Do you believe that iron is more useful than gold? 29. — Iron is more useful, but gold is worth more. 30. If they offered me a pound of gold or a pound of iron, I should accept the gold. 31. I wish they would offer me a pound of gold. 32. I could buy a good (motor) car. 33. I should like to drive a new car this summer.

LESSON XVII

NOUNS

108. Gender. — Nouns ending in -o are usually masculine, and those ending in -a are usually feminine.

EXCEPTIONS. — a. The name of a male being is masculine, even if the noun ends in -a.

el cura the parish priest

el artista the artist, m.

b. Mano, hand, is feminine, and día, day, is masculine.

c. Mapa, map, and some words of Greek origin ending in -ma, or -ta, like poema, poem, and planeta, planet, are masculine.¹

109. Number. — A noun ending in a vowel adds -s, and a noun ending in a consonant adds -es, to form the plural.

EXCEPTIONS. — a. A noun that ends in a stressed vowel or diphthong adds -es to form the plural.

rubí ruby; rubíes rubies

rey king; reyes kings

¹ Thus el clima, climate; el idioma, language; el diploma, diploma; el programa, program; el telegrama, telegram; el tema, theme, written exercise; el cometa, comet (but la cometa, kite); etc.*

But mamá, mamma, papá, papa, and all nouns ending in stressed -e, add only -s: papá, papás; café, coffee, cafés, coffees; pie, foot, pies, feet.

b. Nouns ending in unstressed -es or -is have the same form in the plural as in the singular.

lunes Monday, Mondays

crisis crisis, crises

c. Family names generally remain unchanged in the plural.

Martínez, los Martínez

García, los García

110. The Plural Number. — (1) The masculine plural form of nouns may denote male and female beings.

los hermanos the brothers and sisters, or the brother and the sister, or the brothers los padres the fathers and mothers, or the father and the mother (= the parents), or the fathers

a. The masculine plural of pronouns and adjectives may be used in the same way.

los viejos the old men and the old women, or the old man and the old woman, or simply the old men ellos tienen miedo they are afraid (referring to men and women, or to a man and a woman, or to men alone)

(2) In treating collectively of a number of persons or things, a singular noun is generally used in Spanish to denote something that belongs to every member of a group if, in the case of each member, but one object of the kind is concerned.

Los niños se lavaron la cara y las manos. The children washed their faces and hands.

Todos los discípulos levantaron la mano. All the pupils raised their hands (i.e., each raised one of his two hands).

(3) Abstract nouns are frequently used in the plural in a concrete sense.

terneza tenderness

ternezas tender words or deeds

111. Case. — (1) Possessive Case (Genitive). — Spanish nouns have only one form for the singular and one for the plural: they have no ending that corresponds to the English 's. Possession is denoted by the preposition de, of.

el libro del hombre the man's book (lit., 'the book of the man') la hermana de María Mary's sister (lit., 'the sister of Mary')

a. The English possessive case is sometimes elliptical for the house, church, or shop of; in Spanish the full construction occurs.

Está en casa de mi tío.

He is at my uncle's.

Voy a la iglesia de San Pablo.

I am going to Saint Paul's.

En la tienda de García.

At Garcia's.

(2) Indirect Object (Dative). — The indirect object is always expressed by a before the noun, without regard to its position.

María dió un libro a Pedro.

Mary gave Peter a book, or Mary gave a book to Peter.

a. In Spanish, verbs meaning to take from or ask of are followed by the dative of the person.

Pido un favor a mi madre.

I ask a favor of my mother.

Compré el caballo a mi primo.

I bought the horse of my cousin.

(3) Direct Object (Accusative). — The direct object does not, as a rule, require a preposition, but the preposition a is required before the direct object whenever it is a proper noun, or any noun or pronoun ¹ that denotes a specific person, higher animal, or personified thing.

Pablo ama a Sofía.

Paul loves Sophia.

He visitado a Paris.

I have visited Paris.

¿A quién llama?

Whom is he calling?

Llama a su hijo.

He is calling his son.

Compare the following:

Hallé el libro.

I found the book.

Hallé al niño.

I found the child.

Busco un hombre (not specific) que hable español.

I am looking for a man who speaks Spanish.

Conozco a un hombre que habla español.

I know a man who speaks Spanish.

¹ Except the personal pronouns me, te, etc., and the relative que

a. The accusative a is usually omitted after tener, to have: tengo un padre y una madre, I have a father and a mother. Observe also the following:

querer to wish

querer a to like, love ¹

perder to lose

perder a to ruin

b. The accusative a is sometimes omitted when the verb governs an indirect object also: llevo el niño a su papá, I am taking the child to his father.

c. The preposition a is sometimes placed before the direct object merely to distinguish the latter from the subject: a la guerra sigue la paz, peace follows war.

112. Regular Verbs. — The Second and Third Conjugations. Study § 232.

EXERCISES

A. 1. Arturo, busca un hombre que hable español. 2. Deseo que traduzca una carta que recibí hoy de la Argentina. 3. — Pero, señor; no conozco a nadie que hable español. 4. — Pues, llama al señor Stone y veremos si conoce a alguien. 5. Señor Stone, ¿conoce Vd. a alguien que sepa el español? 6. — Sí, señor; acaba de llegar un joven español, que se llama Roberto Navarro. 7. — Pues, díglele Vd. al señor Navarro que quisiera que me hiciera el favor de venir a verme mañana. 8. — Sí, señor; iré a verle esta noche y se lo diré. 9. 15. ¿Pidió Vd. algún favor al señor Obregón? 16. — No, señor; no le pedí ninguno. 17. No le conozco bastante bien para pedirle favores. 18. — ¿Cree Vd. que el hijo del señor

Obregón quiera a la hija del señor Gutiérrez? 19. — Yo no sé con certeza, pero dudo que la quiera.

20. Si tuviese dinero, compraría aquella casa de dos pisos. 21. Es muy grande y cómoda. 22. En el piso bajo están la sala, la biblioteca, el comedor, y la cocina. 23. En el piso alto (los altos) hay muchos dormitorios y un cuarto de baño. 24. El dueño es un señor inteligente y rico. 25. Ha viajado mucho. 26. Ha comprado muchas cosas muy costosas en otros países. 27. Pero no está bueno en esta ciudad. 28. Piensa volver a Sevilla. 29. No quiere llevar los muebles a aquella ciudad. 30. Tiene la intención de venderlos todos. 31. La biblioteca contiene libros en inglés, francés, y español. 32. En la sala hay cuadros magníficos.

B. ¿A quién busca Vd.? ¿Qué desea Vd. que haga? ¿Quién acaba de llegar? ¿Qué quisiera Vd. que hiciera el señor Stone? ¿Dónde vive el joven español? ¿Dónde trabaja él? ¿Conoce Vd. al señor Navarro? ¿Cuántos hijos tiene el padre de Vd.? ¿Cómo se llaman? ¿Cuántos primos tiene Vd.? ¿Cómo se llaman? ¿Quiere Vd. a todos sus primos?

C. 1. Put in the blank space the preposition a or the preposition de, if either one is required: Busco mi libro. Busco mi padre. Hallé el libro. No hallé mi padre. ¿Conoce Vd. un hombre que hable el castellano? Sí, señor; conozco un hombre que habla muy bien el castellano. Voy la iglesia San Pablo. Y yo vengo la tienda Martínez. Carlos dió Sofía una pluma oro. ¿Compró la pluma mi hermano? No, señor; la compró en la tienda González. ¿Dónde está el hermano Vd.? Está en casa mi primo. ¿Quiere Vd. pedir un favor mi tío? No, señor; no conozco bien su tío. ¿Quiere Vd. una manzana? ¿Quiere Vd. Teresa? Dicen que la paz sigue la guerra. Yo creo que la guerra sigue la paz. Quisiera ver París.¹ Yo preferiría ver Madrid.

2. Substitute one noun for the two in each sentence: Yo vi al rey y a la reina. Su padre y su madre están aquí. Su hijo y su hija han venido. Busco a mi tío y a mi tía. ¿Dónde están su primo y su prima? El niño y la niña están enfermos. ¿Conoce Vd. al viejo y a la vieja? El profesor y la profesora nos enseñan.

3. Substitute one personal pronoun for the two nouns in each sentence in 2.

D. 1. My family is large (numerosa). 2. My grandparents, my father-and-mother, my brothers-and-sisters and I all live (1st pers. pl.) in the same (una misma) house. 3. I have three grandparents, the parents of my mother and my father's mother. 4. I have four brothers-and-sisters: two brothers (hermanos varones) and two sisters. 5. I have known your brother Henry for two years, but I have not had the pleasure of meeting (= knowing) Paul. 6. I should like to meet him. 7. How many uncles-and-aunts have you? 8. — I have only three, don Gonzalo, don Enrique and doña Mercedes.

9. When they voted in favor, how many raised their hands? 10. — I counted only five or six. 11. — Do you know how many raised their hands when they voted (en) against [it]? 12. — At least twenty. The motion was not carried.

13. Have the children returned from school? 14. — Yes, ma'am; they came an hour ago. 15. — Did they wash their faces and hands? 16. — Yes, ma'am; they are ready to eat and they say (that) they are very hungry.

17. Can you find a stenographer who knows Spanish? 18. — Yes, sir; I know one who speaks, reads, and writes Spanish like a Spaniard (say a Spanish woman). 19. — Please tell her to come [and] (to) see me tomorrow. 20. I should like [to have] her translate some letters that I received this morning from Mexico. 21. — Yes, sir; I shall go to see her tomorrow. 22. I should go this afternoon if I could, but I am too (muy) busy. 23. — What is her name? 24. — Her name is Mercedes Navarro. 25. — Well (Pues), I am sorry to ask a favor of Miss Navarro, but I hope (that) she will do me the favor of translating these letters. 26. I could translate them if I knew Spanish, but I didn't study it when I was in school (en el colegio).

LESSON XVIII

ADJECTIVES

113. Inflection. — Feminine, see § 35. Neuter, see § 104. Plural, see § 37, and § 110, a.

114. Apocopation. — The following adjectives lose the final -o of the masculine singular when they precede their noun:

bueno good	ninguno no, none
malo bad	primero first
uno ¹ one, an or a	tercero third alguno some	postrero ² last
un buen hombre a good man	algún día some day
mal café bad coffee	el primer tomo the first volume

a. If bueno and malo are separated from their noun, they retain the final o: mi bueno y cariñoso padre, my good and affectionate father.

115. Grande, used in the sense of grand or great, usually becomes gran before a singular noun of either gender.

Un gran presidente.	A great president.
Una gran cosa.	A grand affair.

a. Before a noun beginning with a vowel, or when the adjective is emphatic, the full form is sometimes used.

Un grande acto de caridad.	A great act of charity.
Un grande sacrificio.	A great sacrifice.

¹ The numeral uno and the indefinite article are the same word.

² Postrero is little used; last is usually último (but last month, for instance, is el mes pasado).

b. When grande means large or big, it follows its noun.

Un muchacho grande.

A big boy.

Una casa grande.

A large house.

116. Santo, saint, holy, usually becomes san before the masculine name of a saint. The full form remains before a name beginning with To- or Do-.

San Pablo Saint Paul

Santo Tomás Saint Thomas

San Pedro Saint Peter

But the name of the island is

Santo Domingo Saint Dominick

San Tomás

Otherwise the full form is used.

Santa Ana Saint Anne

un hombre santo a holy man

117. Ciento, one hundred, becomes cien before the noun it modifies, even if an adjective intervenes.

Cien soldados.

One hundred soldiers.

Cien hermosos caballos.

One hundred handsome horses.

Cien mil pesos.

One hundred thousand dollars.

But the full form ciento is required in forming numerical expressions above one hundred (except cien mil, cien millones, etc.).

Ciento diez.

One hundred and ten.

Ciento veinte y cinco.

One hundred and twenty-five.

118. Agreement

(1) If an adjective modifies several singular nouns the plural form of the adjective is used.

El padre y el hijo son buenos.

The father and the son are good.

La madre y la hija son buenas.

The mother and the daughter are good.

(2) If some of the nouns are masculine and some are feminine, the adjective is usually in the masculine plural.

El padre y la madre son buenos.

The father and the mother are good.

La plata y el oro americanos.

American silver and gold.

a. If the nouns denote inanimate things, and the noun nearest the adjective is feminine plural, the adjective takes the feminine plural form.

El escritorio y las sillas estaban rotas. The desk and chairs were broken.

Su sombrero y sus botas son viejas. His hat and boots are old.

But:

Mi corazón y mi alma son suyos. My heart and my soul are his.

b. Sometimes a plural noun is modified by several singular adjectives. This occurs when each adjective modifies only one of the individuals denoted by the noun: las lenguas inglesa y castellana, the English and Spanish languages.

c. An adjective usually agrees in gender and number with the nearest noun if the nouns are disconnected: muestra un valor, una capacidad, un talento extraordinario, he displays extraordinary courage, ability, talent.

d. When an attributive adjective precedes its noun, it is repeated before each noun if the nouns denote distinct persons or things; if the nouns denote collectively a state or action, a group of persons or things, or designate the same person or thing, the adjective is not repeated, and agrees with the nearest noun.

La madre y la hija.	The mother and (the) daughter.
El cuchillo y el tenedor.	The knife and fork.
Una bella casa y un bello jardín.	A beautiful house and garden.
Su extremado talento y habilidad.	His unusual talent and skill.
Todos los maestros y discípulos.	All the teachers and pupils.
El pie y pierna de los animales se llaman « pata ».	The foot and lower part of the leg of animals are called « pata ».

e. In Spanish a predicate adjective is often used where an adverb is used in English: partió alegre, he departed joyfully.

119. Position of Descriptive Adjectives.¹ — In English a descriptive adjective used with a noun nearly always precedes it; in Spanish a descriptive adjective commonly follows its noun.

un muchacho fuerte	a strong boy	agua fría	cold water
una muchacha cubana	a Cuban girl	ojos azules	blue eyes

120. Most Spanish descriptive adjectives, however, may precede their noun, if the quality named by the adjective is characteristic of the noun, or if the language is poetic or figurative.

la Santa Biblia the Holy Bible la blanca nieve the white snow el ronco trueno the hoarse thunder

a. Many adjectives may usually be placed either before or after their noun, although an adjective is more literal and distinctive when it follows: bueno, good; malo, bad; bonito or lindo, pretty; hermoso, beautiful or handsome; pequeño, small; viejo, old, etc.

una pequeña niña, or una niña pequeña a little girl un hermoso caballo, or un caballo hermoso a handsome horse

b. The position of the adjective is sometimes determined by euphony, or the necessity of avoiding ambiguity; and an adjective which ordinarily follows its noun may stand before a noun modified by an adjective phrase.

cuatro magníficos caballos blancos four splendid white horses los escasos honorarios del gobierno the inadequate salaries of the government un patriótico libro de lectura cubano a patriotic Cuban reader

c. A few adjectives have one meaning before, and another after, their noun.

un gran amigo a great friend	diferentes personas different una manzana grande a large apple	(= several) persons el pobre hombre the poor man	vestidos diferentes different (an object of pity)	(= dissimilar) costumes
un hombre pobre a poor (poverty-stricken) man	un nuevo libro another (or a different) book mi cara madre my dear mother	un libro nuevo a new book (fresh from the press)
una silla cara a dear (expensive) chair	varios hombres several men cierta época a certain period	papeles varios miscellaneous papers, etc.
noticia cierta authentic news

d. When the adjective precedes, it is usually repeated before each noun to which it refers.

Mi viejo padre y mi vieja madre. My old father and mother.

e. An English noun used as an adjective is usually expressed in Spanish by a noun preceded by de (or para).

un reloj de oro a gold watch

una estatua de mármol a marble statue

un vaso para vino a wineglass (un vaso de vino is a glass of wine)

121. Adjectives used Substantively. — In English, adjectives are sometimes used substantively; as, the old and the young. This construction is commoner in Spanish than in English. If a noun is understood, the adjective takes the gender and number of the noun it represents. One, or ones, after the English adjective, is usually not to be translated into Spanish.

El viejo.

The old man.

Los ricos y los pobres.

The rich and the poor.

Prefiero el caballo negro al blanco.

I prefer the black horse to the white one.

a. If the adjective is used substantively as the name of a color or as an abstract noun, it requires the article lo. See § 104.

EXERCISES

A. 1. Entre varios papeles hallé hoy una carta que me escribió mi amigo Nicolás Castro el año pasado. Dice:

« Llegué el sábado a la escuela. Era el 24 de septiembre y el curso se había inaugurado. Por la mañana tuvimos clases. Yo asistí a dos, pero no a la primera.

Con un muchacho que hablaba español, fuí al comedor para almorzar. Yo no tenía hambre, pero todos teníamos que presentarnos. Había mucha animación en el comedor. Los muchachos charlaban, reían y de vez en cuando emitían a compás unos gritos que yo no entendía.

— ¿ Por qué hacen eso ? ¿ A quién quieren espantar ? — pregunté a mi compañero.

Me miró sorprendido un momento y dijo:

— ¿No sabe Vd.? Hay una partida de futbol esta tarde.

— Nunca he visto una partida de futbol, — contesté.

A las dos bajamos seis o siete calles ¹ y en pocos minutos llegamos a la cancha donde había de verificarse el juego.² Había allí mucha gente: hombres, mujeres, muchachos y muchachas con banderas, algunos niños, vendedores de programas, dulces, bebidas y periódicos, y algunos acomodadores y funcionarios.

Después de algunos detalles preliminares que yo no comprendía, empezó la partida. Para mí aquello era una confusión. Un futbolista patea la pelota y otro la coge y corre con ella bajo el brazo, pero luego le echan al suelo y se amontonan sobre él. Éste la pasa, aquél la coge o la echa al suelo. Uno sale corriendo con ella y los otros le persiguen. De vez en cuando uno de los jugadores gritaba: 17, 12, 19, y entonces algunos corrían en una dirección y otros en otra. Para mí, era una confusión tremenda.

La partida duró dos horas.

¿Quién ganó? — pregunté a mi compañero.

— Nosotros, 18 contra 11.

— ¡Vaya, me alegro! — le contesté. »

2. ¿Qué compró Vd.? — Compré un reloj de plata. — ¿Por qué no compró uno de oro? — Porque los relojes de oro cuestan mucho. Un reloj de oro cuesta mucho más que uno de plata.

¿Qué quiere el señor? — Quiero una cucharita; no quiero una cuchara para sopa. Tráigame una cucharita en seguida. Tráigame también un vaso de agua. — ¿Quiere el señor una taza de café? — Sí; tráigame una taza de café con leche, y tráigame también un cuchillo y un tenedor.

B. 1. ¿Cuándo llegó Nicolás a la escuela? ¿Para qué fueron al comedor? ¿Qué hacían los muchachos? ¿Qué emitían a compás? ¿Qué había aquella tarde? ¿Cuántas calles bajaron? ¿A dónde llegaron? ¿Qué tenían los muchachos y las muchachas? ¿Qué vendían los vendedores? ¿Qué pateaba el futbolista? Cuando un jugador sale corriendo con la pelota, ¿qué hacen los otros? ¿Qué gritaba uno de los jugadores? Según Nicolás, ¿qué parecía la partida de fútbol? ¿Cuánto tiempo duró?

² Where the game was to take place.

C. 1. Continue: He perdido el reloj de oro. Soy mejicano(-a). Partí alegre. Quiero una taza de café. Buscaba una taza para té. Compraré una estatua de mármol.

2. Put the adjective in its proper position (and form) before or after the noun: (hermoso) un caballo; (pequeño) una niña; (cansado) un hombre; (pobre) una mujer; (roto) una silla; (inglés) la lengua; (portorriqueño) hombres y mujeres; (inglés y español) las lenguas; (grande) una casa, un rey; (primero) la página, el capítulo; (ninguno) cosa, hombre; (santo) Ana, Pablo, la Biblia; (ciento) alumnos, alumnas.

3. Apply, in the proper form and position, the adjectives corresponding to the nouns. Make as many combinations as possible: Un-a, el or la, or numerals may also be used.

bueno	caballo
blanco	gobierno
español	hombre
grande	niña
magnífico	lengua
fuerte	nieve
mejicano	trueno
ronco	perro
cansado	mujer

D. 1. At school we had classes in the morning. 2. We did not have classes in the afternoon. 3. We played football if it did not rain. 4. During a football match there was much animation in the field. 5. The students talked and laughed and from time to time they gave a yell all together. 6. A Spanish friend asked me why they did that. 7. I answered him that it was the school yell (yell of the school). 8. He asked me if they gave the yell to frighten the other players. 9. My Spanish friend said that it was the first football game that he had seen. 10. A big crowd attended all the football games. 11. One day a thousand men and women were present at the game. 12. There were also vendors of program(me)s and men who sold sweets (candies) and drinks. 13. My friend did not understand the game (juego). 14. When a player shouted 15, 22, 35, my friend looked at me in surprise (surprised) on hearing the numbers. 15. One player would-catch (imp. ind.) the ball and run with it. 16. Other players would-follow him and throw him down. 17. The game lasted three hours. 18 My friend asked me who won and I answered: We won, 14 to (against) 7. 19. If I had been stronger (more strong), I should have liked to play football. 20. My father wanted me to study instead of playing football. 21. He said (that) if I received (salía con) [a] good mark at the end of the term he would give me a motorcar.

LESSON XIX

123. Comparison of Adjectives and Adverbs. — Spanish adjectives form their comparative by prefixing más, more, to the positive, and their superlative by prefixing the definite article to the comparative.

rico, más rico, el más rico	}	rich, richer, richest rica, más rica, la más rica ricos, más ricos, los más ricos ricas, más ricas, las más ricas

a. If a possessive adjective precedes the superlative, the article is not used: su amigo más rico, his richest friend.

b. The article or the possessive adjective precedes the noun when the superlative adjective follows it: la flor más hermosa, the most beautiful flower.

c. When several comparatives or superlatives modify the same word, más (or el más, la más, etc.) is placed before the first and omitted before the others: el árbol más alto y viejo, the tallest and oldest tree.

d. Correlative the . . . the, followed by comparatives, is expressed in Spanish by cuanto . . . tanto,¹ or by mientras . . . —: cuanto más dinero gana, tanto más gasta, the more money he earns, the more he spends;

¹ The tanto may sometimes be omitted, as in cuanto más tiene, más quiere, the more he has, the more he wants.

cuanto más viejo es el vino, tanto más vale, the older the wine is, the more it is worth; mientras más tiene, más quiere, the more he has, the more he wants.

e. The English preposition in after a superlative is usually expressed in Spanish by de: el río más largo del mundo, the longest river in the world.

f. The article is omitted before a superlative adjective in the predicate when its noun is compared with itself: esta mujer sonríe cuando está más triste, this woman smiles when she is saddest.

g. When the noun is in apposition, both the article and the superlative follow the noun: Nueva York, ciudad la más opulenta de los Estados Unidos, New York, the wealthiest city in the United States.

h. When there is no real comparison, most is usually expressed by muy, or the suffix -ísimo: es muy útil, or utilísimo, it is most useful.

124. (1) The adjectives bueno and malo are irregularly compared.

bueno, mejor, el mejor good, better, best malo, peor, el peor bad, worse, worst

The regular comparative forms más bueno and más malo are sometimes used.

Más bueno que el pan.	Better than bread, as good as gold.
Más malo que Satanás.	Worse than Satan.

(2) Grande and pequeño, while usually compared regularly, have also the irregular comparative forms mayor and menor. When applied to persons, mayor means older, and menor, younger. Más grande and más pequeño are preferred for the literal and physical use.

Juan es más grande que Pedro.	John is larger than Peter.
Juan es mayor que Pedro.	John is older than Peter.

(3) Mucho and poco are compared irregularly, and in the superlative they are used only in the neuter singular and in the plural.

mucho, más, lo (los, las) más much (many), more, most poco, menos, lo (los, las) menos little (few), less, least

Lo menos que he perdido.	The least that I have lost.
En vano buscan los más el bien que gozan los menos.	In vain do the many seek for the happiness which the few enjoy.
Las más noches, or Las más de las noches.	Most nights.

a. Most, used with a noun, is usually best expressed by la mayor parte de: la mayor parte de mis amigos, most of my friends (lit., 'the greater part of my friends').

125. Spanish adverbs form both their comparative and superlative by prefixing más to the positive. There is usually no difference in form between the comparative and the superlative.

despacio slowly	más despacio more (or most) slowly
------------------------	---

a. The neuter article lo is often prefixed to a superlative adverb when it is followed by a word or clause expressing possibility.

Lo más pronto posible.	The soonest possible, or as soon as possible.
Lo más pronto que pudo.	As soon as he could.

126. The following adverbs are compared irregularly:

bien, mejor well, better or best mal, peor badly, worse or worst mucho, más much (a great deal), more or most poco, menos little, less (fewer) or least (fewest)

a. Más bien means rather: está cansado más bien que enfermo, he is tired rather than ill.

127. Than is usually expressed in Spanish by que.

Él es más alto que usted.	He is taller than you.
Tiene más libros que dinero.	He has more books than money.

a. Before a numeral, more than and less than, meaning a greater number than and a smaller number than, are expressed by más de and menos de: hay más de cinco, there are more than five; tiene menos de veinte años, he is less than twenty years old; but el caballo es más fuerte que cinco hombres, a horse is stronger than five men, since más does not here mean a greater number.

b. No . . . más que usually means only. Compare:

No gastaron más de cien pesos. They did not spend more than one hundred dollars.

No gastaron más que cien pesos. They spent only one hundred dollars.

c. Before a clause (containing a verb), than is usually expressed by de lo que; but it is expressed by del (= de + el) que, and its declined forms, de la que, de los que, de las que, when the comparison is with a noun (expressed or understood) of the main clause.

Es más alto de lo que parece. It is higher than (what) it seems.

Hace más calor de lo que Vd. cree. It is warmer than (what) you think.

Tiene más libros de los que tenía. He has more books than (those which) he had.

d. But, if the action of one verb is compared with that of another, than before a clause is que: habla más que trabaja, he talks more than he works.

128. Tan . . . como = as . . . as, or so . . . as Tanto(-a) . . . como = as much . . . as, or so much . . . as Tantos(-as) . . . como = as many . . . as, or so many . . . as

Tan blanco como la nieve.

As white as snow.

Tanto oro como plata.

As much gold as silver.

No tiene tanta plata como oro.

He hasn't so much silver as gold.

Tantas manzanas como peras.

As many apples as pears.

Nueva York

A. Mi querido amigo:

Hace más de quince¹ días que estamos aquí y es poco lo que (that which) hemos visto de esta ciudad, la más opu-lenta de los Estados Unidos. Salimos todos los días y visitamos los edificios más altos, los bazares más famosos y los hoteles más grandes. Cuanto más vemos, tanto más queremos ver. Como tú sabes, era lo mismo en Buenos Aires.

Nueva York tiene más habitantes que Buenos Aires, pero Buenos Aires no es menos hermosa. Es una ciudad hermosísima. Dentro de pocos años será una de las más hermosas y opulentas del mundo. Pero aunque tiene más habitantes de los que tenía hace cinco años, yo creo que nunca tendrá tantos como Nueva York.

La mayor parte de mis amigos que viven aquí han venido a visitarme. Ya había escrito a algunos de ellos anunciándoles mi viaje. Casi todos son antiguos compañeros de colegio. Juan y Carlos Ortiz vinieron ayer. ¿Te acuerdas de ellos? Tú los conociste en casa. Juan es mayor que Carlos, pero Carlos es más alto. Su hermana María es muy bonita. No tiene más que quince años pero es tan alta como tú.

Volveré a escribir pronto, pero no será de aquí. Esperamos partir para Chicago la semana próxima.

Tu afectísimo amigo,
Rafael

Pensamos comprar una casa más grande. La casa en que vivimos es bonita más bien que cómoda. El comedor es tan grande como la sala. En el piso alto (los altos) no hay tantos cuartos como en el piso bajo (los bajos). Los dormitorios son menos altos de lo que es saludable. La biblioteca es grandísima. El primer dueño tenía más libros de los que tenemos nosotros. Hay algunas flores bellísimas en el jardín. Es cierto que hay también más de cincuenta árboles. Pero la mayor parte de ellos son pequeños.

B. ¿Cuánto tiempo hace que Rafael está aquí? ¿Cuál es la ciudad más opulenta de los Estados Unidos? . . . de la Argentina? ¿Qué visita Rafael todos los días? ¿Cuál tiene más habitantes, Nueva York o Buenos Aires?

¿ Quiénes son los amigos de Rafael? ¿ Quiénes vinieron ayer? ¿ Cuántos años tiene María? ¿ Para qué ciudad esperan partir? ¿ Cuándo partirán?

¿ Qué pensamos comprar? ¿ Por qué? ¿ Qué hay en el jardín?

C. 1. To be continued: Yo soy más alto que Rafael. No soy tan rico como Vd. Tengo más libros de los que tenía el año pasado. Tengo más de ciento. Cuanto más gano, tanto más gasto. Mientras más estudio, más aprendo.

2. Compare: rico, buena, malos, grande, pequeñas, fácil, mucho, poco, útil, bien, mal, despacio.

3. Substitute for the dash the proper translation of 'than': Juan es mayor — María. Es más alto — yo creía. La vaca da más leche — daba el año pasado. Esta casa costó más dinero — aquélla. Gané menos — veinte pesos. Pablo tiene diez años más — yo. Tenemos menos criados — teníamos cuando nos visitó Vd. El hierro es más útil — el oro. Hace más frío — Vd. cree. Tenemos más — mil libros. El alemán es más difícil — el español. Tengo más amigos — dinero. Soy más pobre — tú. Soy más pobre — crees. Tengo menos — cien pesos.

Santiago de Chile
June 25th, 1929

D. 1. My dear friend (fem.):

We have been in Santiago de Chile more than a week. Santiago has fewer inhabitants than Buenos Aires, but it is a very beautiful city. The climate is better than that (el) of Chicago. It is less cold in (the) winter and less warm in (the) summer. August is the coldest month of the year and January is the warmest month. It rains here more than I expected. Within a few years Santiago will be one of the wealthiest cities in the world. You ought to visit Chile.

2. We expect to leave for Buenos Aires next Monday. Buenos Aires is larger and wealthier than Santiago. Of all Spanish-speaking cities (ciudades de habla española) in the world, Buenos Aires is the largest and the wealthiest. It has more inhabitants than Madrid or Barcelona. But Santiago is larger than I thought. It has fifty thousand more inhabitants than it had ten years ago. The inhabitants are nearly all white. There are few Indians in Santiago. I shall write again soon from Buenos Aires.

Your affectionate friend, Emilia.

3. We should like to sell this house and buy a larger [one]. If Mr. Alonso would sell his house, we should buy it. We do not like this house because it is very small and it is not comfortable. The library is very-large; it is larger than the dining room, and this (éste) is larger than the drawing room. The house has fewer rooms than we need. In the garden there are the most beautiful flowers in the world, but most of the trees are small.

LESSON XX

PERSONAL PRONOUNS

130. The Spanish personal pronouns used as the subject or object of verbs are:

SINGULAR
	SUBJECT	DIRECT OBJECT	INDIRECT OBJECT
1.	yo I	me me	me to me
2.	tú you, thou	te you, thee	te to you, to thee
3. {	m. él he, it	le or lo him, it	le to him, to her, to it
	f. ella she, it	la her, it	(la) (to her)
	n. ello it	lo it
		se himself, etc.	se to himself, etc.
PLURAL
1.	nosotros (-as) we	nos us	nos to us
2.	vosotros (-as) you,	os you	os to you
	ye	los }	les to them
3. {	m. ellos }	las }	(las) (to them, f.)
	f. ellas }	se them-	se to themselves, etc.
	they	selves, etc.

a. In English a subject-pronoun is rarely omitted; in Spanish it is regularly omitted unless required for emphasis or clearness: hablo, I am speaking; yo hablo, I am speaking. The pronoun is sometimes required when the form of the verb would not make it clear what pronoun is understood; thus, yo (él, ella) hablaba, I (he, she) was speaking.

b. In English an object-pronoun regularly follows the verb; in Spanish it usually precedes.

Nos aman.

They love us.

Ella me teme.

She fears me.

Antonio te da un libro.

Anthony gives you a book.

If the sentence is negative, no immediately precedes the object-pronoun: ella no me teme, she does not fear me.

c. But sometimes the object-pronoun follows the verb, and is attached to it so that the verb and pronoun form one word. This occurs when the pronoun is the object of an infinitive, a present participle, or an affirmative imperative (including the affirmative subjunctive used with imperative force).

Temerle. (To) fear him.

Llamándome. Calling me.

Cómpralo. Buy it.

Sentémonos. Let us sit down.

But:

No lo compres. Do not buy it.

No nos sentemos. Let us not sit down.

d. When a present participle or an infinitive is used with an auxiliary verb, the object-pronoun may usually either precede the auxiliary or follow its main verb.

Me está aguardando, or Está aguardándome.¹ He is waiting for me.

Quiero verla, or La quiero ver.¹

I wish to see her. *

e. If the sentence (or clause) begins with the verb, the object-pronoun may follow; but this rarely occurs in spoken Spanish, and it is avoided by most modern writers.

Ámame.

He loves me.

Amábame.

He used to love me.

Amóme.

He loved me, etc.

f. In English one may say, give me the book, or give the book to me; both expressions are to be translated into Spanish by dame el libro, if the me is not emphatic: cf. § 139, a.

¹ In each case the more common form is given first.

g. It should be noted that the English pronouns him, her, and them may be used as either direct or indirect object; and that, if used as direct object, they should be expressed in Spanish by one set of pronouns, while if used as indirect, they should be expressed by another set.

La teme.	He fears her .
Le da un libro.	He gives her a book.
Los ama.	He loves them .
Les da el libro.	He gives them the book.

The masculine singular le, however, is used as either direct or indirect object.

h. In order to avoid ambiguity by indicating gender, the feminine direct object-pronoun (accusative) is sometimes used instead of the indirect object-pronoun (dative): él la (or las) quedó fiel hasta la muerte, he remained faithful to her (or them, fem.) till death.

i. The masculine singular pronoun of the third person, as direct object, has two forms, le and lo. It is usually considered best to use le when referring to a person, and lo when referring to a thing; but some speakers and writers use only le, while others prefer lo.

131. Tú and usted. — English you may be expressed in Spanish by tú, pl. vosotros (-as), or by usted, pl. ustedes. Usted (pl. ustedes) is a contraction of vuestra merced, your grace; it is treated as a noun and requires the verb, object-pronouns, and possessives in the third person singular or plural. Thus, addressing a woman one would say:

¿Cómo está usted? How are you? (lit., 'How is your grace'?)

Yo la vi esta mañana. I saw you this morning (lit., 'I saw her,' referring to the noun element in usted).

Vi también a su hermana. I saw your sister also (lit., 'I saw her sister').

It will be observed that usted has all the attributes of a noun except gender: it assumes the gender of the person addressed. Usted and ustedes may be abbreviated in writing to Vd. and Vds., or to Ud. and Uds. (and rarely today to V. and VV.)

When you stands for the name of a near relative, an intimate friend, a small child, an animal, or an inanimate object, it is usually to be translated by tú. The word tú corresponds also to English thou, used in poetic and sacred language. The plural of tú is vosotros (-as). In all other cases you should be expressed by usted (pl. ustedes). Thus it would be rude to address a stranger or mere acquaintance as tú; while, on the other hand, to address an intimate friend as usted might indicate scorn or anger.¹

a. Vosotros, instead of ustedes, is sometimes used by orators in addressing an audience.

b. Nos and vos may occur, instead of yo and tú, in royal proclamations and official documents: nos el rey mandamos . . ., I, the king, command. Vos instead of usted occurs commonly in the older Spanish works.

132. Ello and Lo. — There is no pronoun in Spanish exactly corresponding to English it. All Spanish nouns are either masculine or feminine; hence, if it represents a noun, it is expressed in Spanish by a masculine or feminine pronoun, according to the gender of the noun represented. Thus, speaking of el libro, it would be él, lo, or le; while speaking of la pluma, it would be ella, la, or le, according as it is subject, direct object, or indirect object.

If it does not represent a noun, but a whole phrase, sentence, or idea, it may be expressed by the neuter ello² (subject-pronoun or object of a preposition) or lo (object-pronoun), as in convengo en ello, I agree to it, no lo creo, I do not believe it.

But it, when the subject of a verb, is usually not expressed in Spanish at all. Thus, speaking of la casa, one would say, es muy alta, it is very high; or speaking of something that happened, one would say, no es importante, it is not important. If it represents nothing definite, but is merely expletive, it can not be expressed in Spanish: llueve, it is raining; nieva, it is snowing.

² Called "neuter" because it never refers to a noun and therefore is never masculine or feminine.

a. As a subject-pronoun ello occurs commonly only in the expression ello es que, the fact is that.

b. Lo is often used in the predicate to refer to a preceding noun or adjective: ¿Es él huérfano? — Sí, lo es. Is he an orphan? Yes; he is (one); sus ojos parecen negros sin serlo, his eyes appear black without being so.

But if the preceding noun refers to a definite person, the personal pronoun agrees in gender and number with the noun: ¿Eres tú la hija del señor García? — Sí, la soy. Are you the daughter of Mr. Garcia? — Yes; I am.

133. Prepositional Forms of the Personal Pronouns. — When personal pronouns are governed by a preposition, the following forms are used:

	SINGULAR	PLURAL
1st Pers.	mí me	nosotros (—as) us
2d Pers.	ti you, thee	vosotros (—as) you
3d Pers.	  m. él him, it   f. ella her, it   n. ello it  	ellos (—as) them
	sí himself, etc.	sí themselves, etc.

Note that these are the same in form as the subject-pronouns, with the exception of mí, ti, and sí.

a. When con, with, governs mí, ti, or sí, the preposition and the pronoun unite to form one word, and the combination ends with the syllable —go: conmigo, with me; contigo, with you; and consigo, with himself (herself, etc.).¹

b. Usted(es) is also used with prepositions.

Compré el caballo para ti (para usted).	I bought the horse for you.
Quiero hablar contigo (con usted).	I wish to speak with you.

134. Orthographic Changes that occur in the inflection of both regular and irregular verbs. Study §§ 235–241 and 248.

¹ In early Spanish, with me, with thee, with himself (etc.), were migo, tigo, sigo (from Latin, mecum, tecum, secum). Later, con was prefixed, so that the modern forms conmigo, contigo, consigo, express with twice. The old forms connosco, with us, and convosco, with you, are no longer used.

EXERCISES

A. Estaba hablando con un amigo argentino y él me dijo que los hispanoamericanos creen que los ingleses y los norteamericanos son muy egoístas. Lo había observado bien en su país y en los otros países de la América española que había visitado.

Le contesté: — No, yo creo que Vds. no nos comprenden. Yo creo que nosotros no somos egoístas.

— Ah, pues lo que Vd. acaba de decir lo prueba. Siempre están usando Vds. el yo y el nosotros.

— Pero eso se debe a la diferencia de los dos idiomas. Preguntemos a mi profesor de español.

Interrogado éste, dijo a los dos amigos, uno de Buenos Aires, el otro de Boston.

— Voy a darles una lección de gramática. Si vemos escrita la palabra speak, podemos decir que representa una acción, pero no podemos indicar nada más con certeza. Podríamos aplicarle cuatro sujetos diferentes. En inglés, pues, es preciso usar el sujeto con cada forma verbal, y al hablar en una lengua extranjera los de habla inglesa hacen lo mismo. En español, con formas diferentes para las varias personas, no es necesario usar el sujeto, pues la forma verbal lo indica. Hay una excepción. Con la tercera persona el sujeto puede ser él, ella o usted en el singular, ellos, ellas o ustedes en el plural. Cuando es necesario distinguir se usa el sujeto, y usted o ustedes se usa generalmente por ser de tratamiento cortés. En todas las personas podemos usar los pronombres para dar énfasis o para contrastar; por ejemplo: yo estudio mientras que tú juegas. Los pronombres complementarios no ocupan el mismo lugar que en inglés. Generalmente preceden. Ejemplos: me parece, te olvidas, os dicen. Siguen al infinitivo, gerundio o imperativo afirmativo, formando con éstos una sola palabra. Ejemplos: premiarte, sonriéndose, amaos, pídeme, sentémonos.

Aquí hizo pausa el profesor. Santiago Robles, de Buenos Aires, dijo entonces:

— Gracias, señor profesor. Ahora comprendo la impresión errónea debida al lenguaje. Al mismo tiempo he aprendido algo de mi propio idioma.

B. 1. ¿Cómo se llaman los habitantes de los Estados Unidos? 2. ¿Ha visitado Vd. algún país de la América española? 3. ¿Dónde está Buenos Aires? 4. ¿Hay muchas formas verbales en inglés? 5. ¿Qué es preciso usar en inglés con cada forma verbal? 6. ¿Qué hacen los ingleses cuando hablan español? 7. ¿Por qué no es preciso usar siempre el sujeto en español? 8. ¿Qué excepción importante hay? 9. ¿Por qué debe usarse usted o ustedes más generalmente que otros pronombres? 10. ¿Qué debemos usar con el verbo para dar énfasis o para contrastar? 11. ¿Qué lugar ocupan los pronombres complementarios en inglés? 12. ¿Qué lugar ocupan en español? 13. ¿A qué formas siguen? 14. Dense algunos ejemplos. 15. ¿Qué comprendió Santiago Robles?

C. 1. In the following sentences, supply a subject-pronoun if it is required: La aborrezco pero la quieres. ¿Quiere vender su bicicleta? — Sí, señor; quiero venderla. Estudia pero no estudia. Creo que va a llover. El señor Martínez no pagó la cuenta y creo que no quiere pagarla. — Si no la paga, la pagaré. No están cansados pero sí estamos cansadísimos. Vaya a buscarlo y tráigamelo. No puedo ir a buscarlo; también estoy cansado.

2. Substitute a personal pronoun for each noun: ¿Vió Vd. ayer a María? — No, señor; pero quiero ver a María hoy. Yo buscaba a Enrique y Carolina, y Enrique y Carolina me buscaban a mí. Dicen que están aguardando a la señora Muñoz, pero yo creo que no quieren ver a la señora. Yo debiera devolver el libro a Ana y María. Si quieres vender la casa, vende la casa; si no quieres vender la casa, no vendas la casa. Si ustedes quieren comprar el automóvil, compren el automóvil; si no quieren comprar el automóvil, no compren el automóvil.

3. Put the pronoun in parenthesis in its proper place: (le) ¿Quieres ver? (te) Está aguardando. (los, les) Queremos ver y hablar lo más pronto posible, pero no podemos encontrar. (la, le) Si pudiera encontrar, diría la verdad, pero no puedo encontrar y por consiguiente no puedo decir la verdad. Prefiero que no digas la verdad. Busca, pero no digas nada. (les) Si Vd. quiere prestar dinero, preste diez pesos; no preste más. — No quiero prestar nada. (lo) No debes ver; viendo, te enojarás tú también.

D. 1. Can you explain to me why the English and the North Americans are always using the pronouns I and you? 2. The Spaniards and the Spanish Americans rarely use yo and nosotros. 3. Do you believe (that) the English and the North Americans are conceited? 4. — No, sir; in the English and Spanish languages there is a notable difference in the use of the personal pronouns. 5. In English one says (se dice) I speak, you speak, we speak, without changing the form of the verb, and it is necessary to use the pronoun to distinguish the persons. 6. The Spaniards say hablo, hablas, hablamos, habláis, and it is not necessary to use the subject as the verbal form indicates it. 7. With the third person, however, there is an exception, and it is often necessary to use él, ella or usted in the singular and ellos, ellas or ustedes in the plural, since the verbal form does not indicate the subject.

8. With hablo, hablas, hablamos and habláis we use the pronouns only to give emphasis or to make-a-contrast. 9. Do you understand now why the English and the North Americans use the pronouns while the Spaniards and the Spanish Americans suppress them? — 10. Yes, sir; I understand now why the English and the North Americans are always using I and we. 11. They are not conceited; the use of the pronouns is due to the nature of the English language.

12. Paul, call (fam.) him; do not wait-for him [any] longer. 13. No, wait (use esperar) a moment; do not call him yet. 14. I should like to explain it all to you before he comes. 15. If I did not explain it to you, you would not understand the motive (that) I have in calling him. 16. I want you to see him and I want him to see you, but I wish you would hear me first (antes).

LESSON XXI

PERSONAL AND REFLEXIVE PRONOUNS

135. Se and Sí. — The reflexive pronouns se and sí are masculine or feminine, singular or plural. Se is used as the direct or indirect object of a verb; sí as the object of a preposition. Whenever the subject of a verb is a noun or a pronoun of the third person, or usted(es), and is represented as acting, either directly or indirectly, on itself, se is used as the object-pronoun and sí as the prepositional form.

Él se alaba.

He praises himself.

Usted se engaña.

You deceive yourself (are mistaken).

Antonio se compró un sombrero.

Anthony bought himself a hat.

Onofre habla siempre de sí.

Onofre is always talking about himself.

Sírvase Vd. decirme.

Please tell me.

a. Reflexive se, whether direct or indirect object, always precedes another object-pronoun: se me figura, it seems to me. (Here se is the direct, me the indirect, object.)

136. In the first and second persons there is no especial form of reflexive pronoun, but the object-pronouns may become reflexive. Thus, the indicative present tense of engañarse, to deceive oneself, be mistaken, is me engaño I deceive myself

nos engañamos we deceive ourselves

te engañas you deceive yourself

os engañáis you deceive yourselves

se engaña he (she) deceives himself (herself)

se engañan they deceive themselves

a. If English myself, ourselves, thyself, etc., are emphatic, they are to be expressed in Spanish by the reflexive pronoun in the prepositional form, modified by mismo (-a, -os, -as).

Me engaño a mí mismo.	I deceive myself .
Usted se engaña a sí mismo.	You deceive yourself .
Onofre habla siempre de sí mismo.	Onofre is always talking about himself .

In these expressions propio may replace mismo.

Ella se ama a sí propia.	She loves herself .
---------------------------------	----------------------------

b. Many verbs require the reflexive construction in Spanish, but not in English.

acostarse (to) go to bed (lit., 'to recline oneself')	hacerse, or ponerse (to) become levantarse (to) rise or get up (lit., 'to raise oneself')	acordarse (de) (to) remember sentarse (to) sit down, or be seated (lit., 'to seat oneself')	olvidarse (to) forget alegrarse (de) (to) be glad (of) atreverse (a) (to) dare reírse (de) (to) laugh (at)

c. Some intransitive verbs may be used as reflexives, with change of meaning.

ir (to) go	dormirse (to) fall asleep
irse (to) go away	morir (to) die
dormir (to) sleep	morirse (to) be dying, etc.

d. The reflexive construction is often used in Spanish where the passive voice is required in English.

Se dice.	It is said.
Aquí se habla español.	Spanish is spoken here.

e. The direct reflexive substitute for the passive is usually to be avoided if there is a personal subject. Thus, se admira el hombre means the man admires himself, and not the man is admired; but one can say, se admira al hombre, the man is admired (one admires the man), se le admira, he is admired, se les trata con distinción, they are treated with distinction, se te llama, some one is calling you, etc. In this construction, the pronouns other than se are in the dative.

f. The Spanish passive voice, formed with ser and a passive (past) participle, is used less often than the English passive voice. In general, the Spanish passive voice is avoided in the present and imperfect tenses, and it is used in other tenses only when the agent is expressed, as in la casa será (fué) construída por un buen arquitecto, the house will be (was) built by a good architect. But the house is being built by a good architect would be expressed in Spanish by the active voice: un buen arquitecto está construyendo (or construye) la casa. One does not say la casa es construída, etc. La casa está construída, the house is built, implies that the construction of the house is completed. One may say la casa se calienta por vapor, the house is warmed by steam, since por vapor expresses the manner rather than the agent. By exception, the Spanish passive voice is frequently used, even in the present, with certain verbs of feeling, as in es amado (temido) de todos, he is loved (feared) by all.

137. In the plural a reflexive verb may become reciprocal; that is, several persons or things may be represented as acting on one another. Usually no distinction of form is made in Spanish between reflexive and reciprocal verbs; thus, nosotros nos engañamos may mean we deceive ourselves, or we deceive one another. Often, however, the meaning determines whether the verb is reflexive or reciprocal, as in la primera vez que se vieron y se hablaron, the first time they saw each other and spoke to each other.

a. A reciprocal verb may be strengthened and made explicit by the use of el uno al otro (la una a la otra, los unos a los otros, las unas a las otras, etc.).

Os engañáis el uno al otro.	You deceive each other.
Se aman las unas a las otras.	They love one another.
Se burlan el uno del otro.	They make fun of each other. *

The article may be omitted, as in se aborrecen unos a otros, they hate one another.

138. When a verb has two personal pronoun objects, the indirect precedes the direct object (except that reflexive se always precedes another pronoun).

me lo da he gives it to me	os las da he gives them to you
te la da he gives it to you	dámelo give it to me
nos los da he gives them to us	dánoslos give them to us

a. If both pronoun objects are in the third person, se is used as indirect object in the place of le or les. Thus, instead of either le lo da, or les lo da, one says se lo da. This se is derived from an old dative form of the personal pronoun of the third person,¹ and is in no way related to the reflexive pronoun se.

b. When the direct object is a pronoun of the first or the second person, the indirect object is usually separated from the verb and assumes the prepositional form after a, to.

Me presenta a ellos.	He presents me to them.
Te presenta a mí.	He presents you to me.
Nos presentan a usted.	They present us to you.
Preséntame a él.	Present me to him.

139. Each of the indirect object-pronouns le, les, and se (= le or les) has several meanings: hence, to avoid ambiguity, it is often necessary to use two pronouns to express the same idea, — an indirect object-pronoun and the corresponding prepositional form with a.

Le da el libro a él (a ella, a usted). He gives the book to him (to her, to you).

Les da la casa a ellos (a ellas, a ustedes). He gives the house to them, masc. (to them, fem.; to you, pl.).

Se lo da a él (a ella, a usted, a ellos, a ellas, a ustedes). He gives it to him (to her, to you, to them, masc.; to them, fem.; to you, pl.).

a. This double construction is also used with either direct or indirect object-pronouns of the first, the second, or the third person, to add emphasis. The pronouns me, te, le, la, lo, nos, os, los, las, les, and se can not be made emphatic by being stressed; give it to me, with the stress on me, can not be translated by dámelo, with the stress on me, but must be expressed by dámelo a mí, with the stress on mí.

Te lo da a ti.	He gives it to you .
Dánosla a nosotros.	Give it to us .
Me quiere educar a mí también.	He wishes to educate me too.

The prepositional pronoun may precede the verb (except an imperative), and it is then still more emphatic.

A mí me lo da.	He gives it to me.

This usage is often extended to nouns: a mi padre no le gusta, it doesn't please my father.

140. The following facts should also be noted:

a. The ethical dative, or "dative of interest," is much commoner in Spanish than in English.

Me tomo la libertad.

I take the liberty.

Me lo temo.

I fear so.

No te lo mates.

Do not kill him.

La gata cogió un ratón y se lo comió.

The cat caught a mouse and ate it.

b. The forms la and las may be used with the force of an indefinite pronoun.¹

Él me la habrá de pagar.

He will pay me for it.

Los pretendientes se las prometen siempre felices.

Suitors always promise themselves happiness.

EXERCISES

A. 1. — ¡ Hombre, cuánto me alegro de encontrarte aquí !
¿ Vienes a menudo ?

— Sí, me gusta porque se habla español y se come bien.

— A mí también. Yo vengo más temprano por lo común, pero hoy me levanté tarde. Fuí al teatro anoche y luego a casa de unos amigos. Me acosté a la una.

— Mira, sentémonos en aquel rincón.

— Este encuentro es oportuno porque quiero que leas una carta que recibí anteayer. ¿ Qué quieres para el desayuno ?

— Lo de siempre. Fruta, huevos, café y tostada.

— Yo menos. No quiero fruta ni huevos. Pero tú sigues el refrán: donde fueres haz lo que vieres. Ésta es la carta, Léela.

¹ It is not clear whether this la derives from the Latin neuter plural illa, or is merely the Spanish la, cosa or a similar word being understood. If it derives from neuter illa, then las is a plural form made by analogy with other Spanish plurals.

2. « Mi querido amigo:

« Como sé que te interesas mucho por este pueblo, quiero enterarte de lo ocurrido en él recientemente.

« Elisa Valdés y Antonio Durán se casaron el mes pasado. Te acuerdas de Antonio ¿ no? A nosotros no nos gustaba mucho porque siempre hablaba de sí. Pero ha cambiado. Ya no se alaba a sí mismo y se le admira por su benevolencia. Se ha hecho rico y gasta bastante protegiendo a los pobres. Pero no siempre les da dinero. Los hace trabajar y ganarse la vida. Por ejemplo, uno ha tenido que construir, destruir y volver a construir un asiento en el zaguán de su casa varias veces en diferente sitio y forma.

« Juan Morales se fué antes de terminar su bachillerato. ¡ Pobre chico! Se dice que la familia perdió todo su dinero durante la guerra. Por eso él casi siempre estaba triste. Probablemente se hallará ahora en un gran apuro. Yo me alegraré de que prospere y vuelva por acá. Él y yo nos queríamos mucho. »

3. — Juan y Antonio se odiaban el uno al otro ¿ no?

— No se odiaban precisamente, pero no eran amigos íntimos. Un día Juan le pidió la bicicleta a Antonio. Éste no quiso prestársela. Dijo que se la había prometido a su hermano. Se enojaron. Antonio tenía algunos libros que Juan le había prestado y se los devolvió en seguida.

— Ea, vamos a desayunarnos ahora. Acabaré de leer la carta luego. Mozo, sírvase decirme si ha estado aquí mi otro amigo, el rubio.

— Démonos prisa. Tengo que marcharme pronto.

C. 1. Make the verb reflexive where possible: Yo alabo; tú engañas; él aborrece; presentamos a la señora; quejamos; ¿llaman Pedro y Pablo? olvidó; senté; acostamos; vamos mañana; compré un nuevo sombrero; ¡muero! te llama; les trata con distinción; no permite fumar aquí; acuesto y levanto temprano; Pedro acuesta y levanta tarde; ¿ya marchó tu primo? no, pero piensa marchar pronto a España; es probable que quede allí; hallamos sin ocupación; vende esta casa y alquila la otra; calienta esta casa con vapor; casó con ella; querían mucho; las dos niñas abrazaron y besaron; todo el mundo sabe que no aman; dice que odian; lo temo; compré algunos dulces y los comí.

2. Add the correct form of mismo or el uno . . . el otro: Me (masc.) engaño, me (fem.) engaño, te (masc.) engañas, te (fem.) engañas, él se engaña, ella se engaña, (nosotros) nos engañamos, (nosotras) nos engañamos, (vosotros) os engañáis, (vosotras) os engañáis, ellos se engañan, ellas se engañan; Antonio se alaba; Ana se aborrece; Julia y Clara se aborrecen; Enrique y Pedro se engañan; las dos amigas se amaban tiernamente; Pablo hablaba siempre de sí; Carlos y Onofre hablaban siempre; los franceses y los alemanes se burlaban; amaos; ayudaos; las dos niñas se parecen mucho; este hombre no piensa sino en sí y no habla sino de sí.

3. Substitute a pronoun for the noun: Ayer me presenté a la señora; nunca me presenté a don Pablo; ¡cómo se parece ella a la tía! Antonio prometió enviarme el paquete por correo; no me envió el paquete; envíeme Vd. el paquete lo más pronto posible; ahora le toca a Juan; yo creo que le toca a María; ¿quieres prestarle la bicicleta a Pablo? préstale a Pablo la bicicleta; no quiero prestarle nada a Pablo; el profesor enseñó el español a Sofía y Trinidad; nunca me enseñó el español; no quieren venderle la casa; ¿por qué no le venden Vds. la casa? véndanle Vds. la casa hoy mismo.

D. 1. My cousin (fem.) and Anthony used to be very fond of each other. 2. But now they hate each other. 3. She says that Anthony is always talking about himself. 4. Sometimes he laughs at her. 5. She doesn't dare say anything, but she rejoices when the teacher scolds him. 6. This happens frequently. 7. The other day he forgot to rise when a lady entered the classroom. 8. The teacher became angry. 9. He scolded him and told him to go home. 10. But he didn't go home. 11. He went to the theater. 12. Some one informed his father of what (lo que) had happened.

13. The waiter brought me a letter. 14. I gave it to John. 15. I didn't give it to his father. 16. John wanted me to read it to him. 17. But I didn't read it to him. 18. He read it himself. 19. I told him: Anthony wrote to you, not to me. 20. What did he say in the letter? 21. Anthony wanted money to buy a new bicycle. 22. But John didn't want to send it to him.

23. Do you know those two young ladies? 24. I know the light-complexioned [one]. 25. Will you present me to her? 26. With pleasure. 27. She will probably present us to her friend. 28. Shall we invite ¹ them to have breakfast with us? 29. Where can we go? 30. There is only one restaurant in this town. 31. But they say that they serve good meals there. 32. It will not be difficult to get fruit, eggs, coffee and toast. 33. Perhaps (Quizás) the young ladies have ² already had breakfast. 34. They probably get up earlier than we [do].

35. Is the letter written? 36. — Yes, it was written by Mr. Heredia. 37. — Is Mr. Heredia loved by all? 38. — No, he is feared by all. 39. — Is this house warmed by steam? 40. — No, it is warmed by hot water.

LESSON XXII

POSSESSIVES

142. Possessive Adjectives

SINGULAR

- 1st Pers. mío (-a, -os, -as) or mi (mis) my 2d Pers. tuyo (-a, -os, -as) or tu (tus) your, thy 3d Pers. suyo (-a, -os, -as) or su (sus) his, her, its, your

PLURAL

- 1st Pers. nuestro (-a, -os, -as) our 2d Pers. vuestro (-a, -os, -as) your 3d Pers. suyo (-a, -os, -as) or su (sus) their, your

a. Before nouns, the apocopated forms mi, tu, and su are used; and after nouns the full forms, mío, tuyo, and suyo. Nuestro and vuestro are used either before or after nouns.

b. Mío (mi) is the possessive corresponding to yo, tuyo (tu) corresponds to tú, nuestro to nosotros (-as), vuestro to vosotros (-as), and suyo (su) to él, ella, ellos (-as), usted, and ustedes.

143. Possessive adjectives regularly precede their noun, and agree in gender and number with the thing possessed, not with the possessor.

nuestro caballo our horse	nuestra casa our house
nuestros caballos our horses	nuestras casas our houses

a. In certain indefinite expressions, and sometimes when emphatic, the possessive follows its noun.

Cierto amigo mío .	A certain friend of mine.
Algunos discípulos nuestros .	Some pupils of ours.
Los vicios tuyos .	Your vices.
A fe mía .	Upon my word.
A pesar nuestro .	In spite of us (ourselves).
No es culpa mía .	It is not my fault.

b. In direct address, mío is generally used with an unmodified noun in the singular, and either mi or mío with a noun modified by an adjective.

amigo mío my friend

mi querido amigo, or querido amigo mío my dear friend

144. When the thing possessed forms part of the possessor, and is the object of a verb, the possessive adjective is generally replaced by an indirect object-pronoun and the definite article.

Me corté el dedo.

I cut my finger.

Te salvó la vida.

He saved your life.

Se quitó el sombrero.

He took off his hat.

The same usage obtains with nouns.

(Le) salvó la vida a su amigo.

He saved his friend's life.

(Le) habían perdonado la vida a un hombre.

They had pardoned (spared) a man's life.

Voy a romper(le) la cabeza a ese abogado.

I am going to break that lawyer's head.

a. When the possessor is the subject of the verb, and no ambiguity is possible, the pronoun is omitted and the definite article alone is used instead of a possessive adjective.

Perdí el sombrero.

I lost my hat.

La niña abrió los ojos y levantó la cabeza.

The girl opened her eyes and raised her head.

Tengo los pies mojados y fríos.

My feet are wet and cold.

145. Possessive Pronouns

SINGULAR

1st Pers. el mío (la mía, los míos, las mías) mine

2d Pers. el tuyo (la tuya, los tuyos, las tuyas) yours, thine

3d Pers. el suyo (la suya, los suyos, las suyas) his, hers, its, or yours

PLURAL

1st Pers. el nuestro (la nuestra, los nuestros, las nuestras) ours

2d Pers. el vuestro (la vuestra, los vuestros, las vuestras) yours

3d Pers. el suyo (la suya, los suyos, las suyas) theirs or yours

Note that the Spanish possessive pronouns usually require the definite article, while the English do not.

a. Possessive pronouns, like possessive adjectives, agree in gender and number with the things possessed.

Mi casa es más grande que la tuya, pero prefiero la tuya a la mía. My house is larger than yours, but I prefer yours to mine.

- b. Los míos* often means my people; los tuyos, your people, etc.
Lo mío means mine, what is mine; lo tuyo, yours, what is yours, etc.

146. Suyo and su have several meanings; hence, in order to avoid ambiguity, it is often necessary to use de and the proper personal pronoun instead of suyo and su.

(1) Instead of tengo su libro one would then say:

tengo el libro de él	I have his book ¹
tengo el libro de ella	I have her book
tengo el libro de usted	I have your book
tengo el libro de ellos	I have their (masc.) book
tengo el libro de ellas	I have their (fem.) book
tengo el libro de ustedes	I have your (pl.) book

(2) And instead of tengo el suyo one would say:

tengo el de él	I have his
tengo el de ella	I have hers
tengo el de usted	I have yours
tengo el de ellos	I have theirs (masc.)
tengo el de ellas	I have theirs (fem.)
tengo el de ustedes	I have yours (pl.)

- a.* The same construction is used with the possessive case of nouns.

Tengo el libro de Miguel.	I have Michael's book.
Tengo el de Miguel.	I have Michael's.

- b.* The definite article is usually omitted before a possessive pronoun (or noun) in predicate.

Esta pluma es mía.	This pen is mine.
Esa pluma es de usted.	That pen is yours.
Aquella pluma es de Miguel.	That pen (over there) is Michael's.

But the article is used to make an emphatic distinction.

Esta pluma es la mía (la de usted,	This pen (not the other) is the la de Miguel).	one that belongs to me (to you, to Michael).

¹ One may also say tengo su libro de él (ella, ellos, ellas, usted, ustedes).

EXERCISES

- A. 1. — ¿Adónde quiere Vd. llevarme?
 — A casa de Pedro.
 — Yo creí que íbamos a la de Vd.
 — Como le parezca. Me figuré que le gustaría ver la de él. Vd. sabe que acaban de construirla. Es muy bonita.
 — Bueno. ¿Vamos en mi automóvil o en el suyo?
 — En el mío. Ahí está. ¿Sabe Vd. que Pedro vendió el suyo?
 — No lo sabía. ¿Por qué?
 — Ya era algo viejo. Piensa comprar otro.
 — ¿Le costó mucho a Vd. este automóvil?
 — A mí no. Yo pagué trescientos pesos. Papá pagó el resto: unos quinientos pesos.
2. Cuando nos acerquemos quiero que Vd. saque una fotografía de la casa. Mire, ya se puede ver el techo. La casa tiene tres pisos, pero no parece tan alta como la nuestra. ¿No le gusta la fachada? Es muy bonita. Las persianas la embellecen mucho. Tiene muchas piezas. En el piso bajo, como verá Vd., además de la sala, el comedor y la cocina con su despensa, hay un gabinete que sirve de despacho y biblioteca. En el piso principal están el cuarto de baño y los dormitorios, éstos muy bien amueblados. El de Pedro no es muy grande, pero está bien arreglado. La cama, el tocador, la mesita y las sillas son de caoba muy fina de Cuba. Ea, ya estamos. Allí veo a Pedro que nos hace señas como un semáforo.

3. — Si Vds. hubieran llegado antes — nos decía Pedro muy agitado — habrían presenciado un incidente dramático. Estaba yo hablando con un vecino nuestro cuando oí gritos de socorro. Temiendo una desgracia y deseando llegar a tiempo, dejé a mi vecino y eché a correr hacia el lago. Aunque en la carrera perdí el sombrero, no paré. En un santiamén llegué a la orilla, pero tarde. Otro me había arrebatado la gloria.

Un niño estaba jugando con un vaporcito, se inclinó demasiado y cayó al agua. La madre empezó a gritar y un hombre que estaba cerca se metió al lago y sacó al niño. Esto fué todo.

El niño había tragado un poco de agua, pero no sufrió mucho. Pronto abrió los ojos y dijo: «¿Dónde está el vapor?» Esto hizo sonreír a la madre. Entonces ella se volvió hacia el hombre que le había salvado al niño y le dió las gracias. También le invitó a la casa.

— Ahora no puede ser, señora — dijo él — porque tengo los pies mojados. Pero me gustará venir pronto porque su esposo y yo somos antiguos amigos. El me salvó la vida a mí una vez.

B. 1. ¿Adónde van los dos amigos? 2. ¿Tiene Vd. automóvil? 3. ¿Cuánto cuesta un automóvil? 4. ¿Le gusta a Vd. sacar fotografías? 5. ¿Cuántos pisos tiene la casa de Vd.? 6. ¿Tiene persianas? 7. ¿Cuántas piezas tiene la casa? 8. ¿Dónde están los dormitorios? 9. ¿Qué muebles tiene Vd. en su dormitorio? 10. ¿Con quién hablaba Pedro? 11-12. ¿Qué temía (¿Qué perdió) Pedro? 13. ¿Quién cayó al agua? 14. ¿Quién empezó a gritar? 15. ¿Quién sacó al niño del lago? 16. ¿Qué dijo el niño cuando abrió los ojos? 17. ¿Por qué no podía el hombre ir a la casa?

C. 1. Translate: Whose book is this? — It is mine. — Which of the books is yours? — This book is mine. Mine is red. You have my book and I have yours. — No, sir; you have your book and I have mine. My friend, I believe (that) you have my book. A certain friend of mine told me so (10). I am going to break his head. Did he read her letter? — No, she read his letter. Do you prefer your house to mine? — Yes, I prefer mine to yours. Which house¹ is yours? Mine is the white [one] that we see from here (desde aquí). Did you cut your finger? — Yes, I cut my finger yesterday. — Did you lose your hat? — Yes, I lost my hat this morning. I opened my eyes and raised my head. My hands were cold. I closed my eyes and went to sleep.

2. Substitute for the dash the proper form of the verb in parenthesis: (escribir) Le di papel para que — la carta. Le pedí que la — en seguida. Prometió — la. Pero él no la —. Quisiera que él la — hoy. Deseo que él la — hoy mismo. Si tuviera pluma y tinta, yo mismo la —. Quisiera — la ahora mismo. Pero es mejor que él la —. ¡Ojalá que la — pronto!

Me quedaré aquí hasta que —. Si — pronto, me alegraré.

(Vender) No — Vd. el automóvil. Si lo —, me enfadaría. Le suplico que no lo —. Yo quisiera que Vd. no lo — nunca. Espere Vd. algunos días antes que lo —. ¿Ya lo — Vd.? Sí, ya lo —. Siento muchísimo que lo — Vd. Si Vd. me lo hubiera —, le habría pagado más.

D. 1. A friend of mine bought (himself) an automobile. 2. It cost him five hundred dollars. 3. But it was not new. 4. One day we were riding in the country when a boy suddenly appeared in the road. 5. My friend tried to stop the car. 6. But the brakes were defective. 7. In spite of himself he ran over the boy. 8. However, the latter was not badly hurt. 9. My friend was very angry. 10. He said to me: "I am going to see the man who sold me this car, and I am going to break his head." 11. A man who saw the accident said to us: "It was not your fault. 12. The boy didn't see the automobile."

13. The boy was not suffering much. 14. We took him to his house. 15. It was a small house, with a low roof. 16. And the rooms were well furnished. 17. His mother opened the door [for] us. 18. She began to cry when she saw the boy. 19. But he said to her: "It was my fault, mother (mamá), but I am not seriously hurt." 20. We carried the boy to his bedroom. 21. We took his clothes off, and put him to bed. 22. Then I went out to look for a physician. 23. There was not [any] telephone in the house. 24. My friend remained in the house. 25. When I returned with the physician, the boy was sitting¹ on the bed chatting with his mother and my friend.

26. The physician was [a] friend of ours. 27. I asked him: "Will the boy have to stay in bed long?" 28. "No," he said, "I am glad to tell you that-he-will-not."² 29. Provided he is careful, he'll be out the day after tomorrow. 30. Your efforts saved his life. 31. Are you going back now? 32. Come in my car. 33. You can leave yours here. 34. A mechanic can come and (a) adjust the brakes."

² que no.

LESSON XXIII

DEMONSTRATIVES

149. Demonstrative Adjectives

este (-a, -os, -as) this ese (-a, -os, -as) that aquel (aquella, -os, -as) that

a. A demonstrative adjective regularly precedes its noun: esta mujer, this woman.

b. The demonstrative adjectives are usually repeated before each noun to which they refer: este hombre y esta mujer, this man and (this) woman.

150. Este denotes what is near the speaker; ese, what is near the person addressed; and aquel, what is remote from both. In reference to time, este denotes present time; ese, a near period; and aquel, remote time.

esta pluma que yo tengo this pen which I have	aquella pluma que él tiene that pen which he has esa pluma que tú tienes that pen which you have	esta semana this week ese mes that month
	aquel año that (remote) year

151. Demonstrative Pronouns

éste (-a, -os, -as) this (one)	esto this ése (-a, -os, -as) that (one)	eso that aqué l (aquélla, -os, -as) that (one)	aquello that

The masculine and feminine forms take the accent; the neuter (esto, eso, aquello) do not. The neuter pronouns do not represent a noun, but a whole phrase, sentence, or idea (compare with ello).

Aquella casa es más alta que ésta.	That house is taller than this one.
No me gustan estas manzanas;	I do not like these apples; I prefer those (over there).
prefiero aquéllas.

Ésos son míos.

¿ Crees esto ?

No comprendo eso.

Aquello parece imposible.

Those (near you) are mine.

Do you believe this (which I have just told) ?

I do not understand that (which you have just told me).

That (affair of which we are told) seems impossible.

a. Éste sometimes means the latter, and aquéel the former.

b. The English pronoun that (not denoting a specific object) is esto, when it denotes what has to do with the speaker: ¿ crees esto? do you believe that (which I have just told you)? An unemphatic that is often not to be expressed in Spanish: será magnífico, that will be fine.

c. In correspondence, en (de, a) ésta means in (from, to) the writer's town, and en (de, a) ésa means in (from, to) the correspondent's town, ciudad, town, or plaza,¹ market, being understood: salí ayer de ésa y llegué hoy a ésta, I left your town yesterday, and arrived here today.

152. Before a relative clause, and before a prepositional phrase, el (la, lo, las, los) is generally used instead of a demonstrative or personal pronoun.²

El que desea mucho siempre es pobre.

Esta muchacha es la que usted buscaba.

Aquellos caballos son los que vimos ayer.

Lo que dice es verdad.

El de la barba.

La pluma de acero y la de oro.

El perro de usted y el de su amigo.

Lo de ayer.

He who desires much, is always poor.

This girl is the one (that) you were looking for.

Those horses are the ones (that) we saw yesterday.

What (or that which) he says is true.

The one with the beard.

The steel pen and the gold one (lit., 'The pen of steel and that of gold').

Your dog and that of your friend (Your dog and your friend's).

The affair of yesterday.

¹ In Mexico, plaza often means village, or small town.

² When thus used, el is sometimes called a pronoun, but it seems best to call it an adjective when it limits the application of an adjective, a phrase, or a clause, used substantively: as in el blanco, the white one; el de la capa verde, the one with the green cloak; el que vino ayer, the one that came yesterday. Note the same use of the adjective aquel, given below in a.

a. The demonstrative adjective aquel may be used instead of el (la, etc.). This occurs often when the following relative is the object of a preposition.

Aquella a quien he escrito la carta. The one to whom I have written the letter.

Aquel de la capa verde. That one with the green cloak.

Aquello de ayer. That affair of yesterday.

153. Irregular Verbs

dar (to) give

oír (to) hear

saber (to) know

ver (to) see

Study §§ 263, 267, 276, and 280.

154. Saber. (To) know, meaning (to) have knowledge of, (to) be aware of, is saber (saber does not take a personal object); meaning (to) be acquainted with, it is conocer.

¿ Sabes que es verdad?

Do you know that it is true?

¿ Conoces a aquel joven?

Do you know that young man?

a. Saber also means (to) know how,¹ (to) learn (in the sense of (to) get knowledge of); saber a means (to) taste of, (to) savor of.

No sabe nadar.

He doesn't know how to swim.

Supe que no pudiste venir.

I learned that you couldn't come.

Sabe a pescado.

It tastes of fish.

b. Can, meaning know how, is saber: can he read and write? ¿ sabe leer y escribir?

155. Idiomatic Expressions

dar voces, (to) call out, (to) shout.

¿ ya diste de comer a los caballos?

dar los buenos días, (to) wish good day.

have you already fed the horses?

ella le dió el sí, she agreed to marry him.

dar un paseo, (to) take a walk.

dió en el blanco, he hit the mark.

dar a saber (a conocer), (to) make known.

la ventana da a la calle, the window faces the street.

me doy por vencido, I give it up.

¹ To know how is saber como, when the main and the dependent verbs have different subjects, as in yo sé como viven, I know how they live. And also when the dependent clause is an indirect question, as in no sé cómo puedo hacerlo, I do not know how I can do it.

luego darán las doce, it will soon strike twelve.

me dió la fiebre amarilla, I caught the yellow fever.

no sabe nada, he doesn't know anything.

hacer saber, (to) make known.

no sé qué contestar, I do not know what to answer.

¡oye! or ¡oiga! listen! hear! I declare!

oigo subir a alguno, I hear some one coming up.

oyó gemir a los pobres cautivos, she heard the poor captives groan.

me oí llamar por alguno, I heard some one call me; I heard myself called by name.

vi caer a mis compañeros, I saw my companions fall.

no tengo nada que ver con eso, I haven't anything to do with that.

EXERCISES

A. Querida amiga mía:

Llegué a ésta el martes pasado. Pero ya puedo decirte mucho de lo que hay por aquí, en particular de las tiendas. Éstas son las mejores que he visto. Voy a describirte un paseo que di por ellas ayer con Lolita.

Primero fuimos a una guantería. Vi unos guantes de gamuza muy finos y los compré. Dejé los de cabritilla que llevaba para que me los limpiasen.

En una zapatería un dependiente muy atento se nos acercó y nos preguntó: — ¿En qué puedo servirles, señoritas? — Quiero ver esos zapatos de charol que están en el escaparate, los de tacón bajo, — dijo Lolita. — En un momento se los muestro, — contestó el dependiente. Sé que les gustarán. — Pero los que sacó el dependiente no eran los que quería Lolita y ella no los compró.

Lo que más me gusta es el bazar principal. Estábamos en él, cuando oímos gritar: — ¡Oiga! ¡oiga! — Era un dependiente que daba voces. Una mujer salía sin pagar lo que había comprado. — Esto yo no lo compré aquí — oí decir a la pobre mujer. — Yo no tengo nada que ver con eso, — respondió el dependiente. — Pues ahí está lo que me pidió por las medias. — Sí, pero falta un dólar. — Ah, lo siento, — dijo la mujer y le dió al dependiente un billete. Lolita se acercó a ella y le dió los buenos días. Era una antigua criada suya.

Después de hacer algunas compras subimos al restaurante. Éste da al parque público. Nos sentamos junto a la ventana. Podíamos ver y oír hablar a la gente que pasaba por el parque. Al lado nuestro estaba sentada una señora con dos niños. Daba de comer a uno de éstos. El otro decía: — No me gusta eso. Sabe a jabón. Yo creo que aquí no saben guisar. — La madre se enfadó y le regañó. Pronto acabamos de comer y bajamos. Habían dado ya las dos. Salimos del bazar y nos dirigimos a un cine.¹

Hazles saber a mis amigos que volveré la semana que viene.

Ya sabes que te quiere mucho tu amiga,

Adela.

B. 1. ¿Quién escribe la carta? 2. ¿Qué se describe en la carta? 3. ¿Adónde fueron primero? 4. ¿Para qué dejó los guantes de cabritilla? 5. ¿Qué se vende en una zapatería? 6. ¿Quién se les acercó en la zapatería? 7. ¿Qué preguntó el dependiente? 8. ¿Qué clase de zapatos quería Lolita? 9. ¿Qué le gusta más a Adela? 10. ¿Quién daba voces? 11. ¿Qué dijo la pobre mujer? 12. ¿Qué había comprado la pobre mujer? 13. ¿Quién era ella? 14. ¿Adónde subieron las dos amigas? 15. ¿Dónde se sentaron? 16. ¿Qué podían ver? 17. ¿Qué decía uno de los niños? 18. ¿Adónde fueron después de salir del restaurante?

C. 1. Translate: Is this my hat? No, that hat is mine, and this is yours. Whose is that hat [over there]? That hat is John's. Is this hat larger than that [one]? No, that hat is larger than this [one]. I do not understand that. Is this girl the [one] that I saw yesterday? — Yes, she is the [one] that you saw at Mrs. Herrera's.

¹ Teatro cinematógrafo. In some countries it is also called colloquially a cinema.

2. Substitute a demonstrative for the dash: — lápiz que yo tengo. — pluma que tú tienes. — casa en que ellos viven. — año en Italia fué terrible. Prefiero — clima a aquél. Yo no; prefiero — clima a éste. Salimos ayer de — y llegamos hoy a —. ¿Cree Vd. —? No comprendo —. No me gustan estas peras; prefiero —. — peras son más maduras que —.

3. Substitute a personal pronoun for the noun object: Aprenda Vd. la lección. ¿Aprendió Vd. la lección? ¿Quién le enseñó la lección? Enséñele Vd. la lección. ¿No quiere Vd. aprender la lección? ¿No quiere Vd. enseñarle la lección? Sí, le enseñaré la lección. Tráigame Vd. el papel. Sírvasse Vd. traerme el papel. Le traeré a Vd. el papel con mucho gusto. Ya le traje a Vd. el papel. Ahora tráiganos la tinta. Si no nos trae la tinta, no podremos escribir. Les traeré a Vds. la tinta en un momento. Voy a traerles la tinta inmediatamente.

D. 1. Do you know those two men? 2. The ones that are sitting at the small table? 3. Yes, I know them. 4. They are friends of mine. 5. I mean¹ the ones who have just come in. 6. They are near the woman to whom I was telling the affair of yesterday. 7. I know the one who is nearer the window. 8. He is [a] friend of my cousin Adele. 9. The poor man! He is very fond of her. 10. Last year she agreed to (en) marry him. 11. But they didn't marry. 12. He then took (= made) a trip through Europe and Asia. 13. In China he caught the typhoid fever. 14. But he soon recovered. 15. He returned when he learned (supo) that she was very ill. 16. I think they will marry soon.

17. I am not acquainted with the one with the beard. 18. I have seen him before, but I have not been introduced (presented) to him. 19. I know that he is very rich. 20. He owns one of the largest shops in this town. 21. He also owns many houses. 22. I think that this is one of his buildings. 23. He came to this country when he was young and poor. 24. They say that he doesn't know [how] to read or (ni) write. 25. Do you believe that? 26. I don't know what to answer. 27. I don't understand how he can manage his property if he can not read or write.

LESSON XXIV

RELATIVES

156. Relative Pronouns and Adjectives que who, which, that el cual or el que who, which quien who cuanto all that

a. A relative pronoun agrees in gender and number with its antecedent.

b. A relative pronoun is sometimes omitted in English, but never in Spanish: the man I saw = the man that (whom) I saw, el hombre que vi.

c. An English relative clause sometimes ends with a preposition; in Spanish the preposition must precede the pronoun it governs: the house that we live in = the house in which we live, la casa en que vivimos.

157. Que, who, which, that, is invariable, and as subject or object of a verb it may refer to persons or things; it is the most common of the Spanish relative pronouns.

La muchacha que cose.	The girl that is sewing.
El indio que ¹ mataron.	The Indian whom they killed.
Los libros que están sobre la mesa.	The books that are on the table.
La facilidad con que escribe.	The ease with which he writes.
La viuda, que amaba tiernamente a su marido, le olvidó en breve.	The widow, who dearly loved her husband, soon forgot him.

a. After a preposition, que refers to things, and quien (quienes) to persons.

La casa en que vivo.	The house in which I live.
El hombre a quien escribí.	The man to whom I wrote.

el cual (la cual, los cuales, las cuales, lo cual)	} who, which el que (la que, los que, las que, lo que)

The masculine and feminine forms refer to persons or things; the neuter forms refer only to a whole phrase, sentence, or idea.

Instead of que, either el cual (la cual, etc.) or el que (la que, etc.) is regularly used in cases of ambiguity or emphasis.

He escrito a la hija del señor Martínez, la cual está enferma. I have written to Mr. Martinez' daughter, who is ill.

Hallé en el bolsillo cincuenta pesos en moneda de oro y plata, los cuales (los que) di a mi padre. I found in the purse fifty dollars in gold and silver coin, which I gave to my father.

El profesor me escribe que te comportas bien, lo cual (lo que) me agrada muchísimo. Your master (teacher) writes me that you behave well, which pleases me greatly.

a. Moreover, el cual or el que is generally used when the relative is governed by por or sin,¹ or by a preposition of two or more syllables. After a compound preposition, el cual is preferable to el que.

Las razones por las cuales (las que) se decidió. The reasons on account of which he decided.

La ciudad hacia la cual (la que) marchaba el ejército. The city toward which the army was marching.

El edificio en frente del cual me estaba esperando mi amigo. The building in front of which my friend was awaiting me.

b. Lo cual or lo que is regularly used as the neuter relative; que is rarely neuter: le presté todos mis libros, lo cual (lo que) le dió mucho placer, I lent him all my books, which pleased him greatly. For the use of lo que, meaning that which, what, see Demonstrative Pronouns, § 152.

c. There is usually little choice between el cual and el que, except that el cual is used the oftener in literary language.

REMARK. — It should be noted that el que has two meanings, who (as explained above) or he who (as explained in § 152). In the first case, the article modifies only the relative pronoun; in the second case it modifies the entire relative clause.

159. Quien (quienes), who, in modern Spanish refers only to persons or personified things.

¹ In referring to persons, quien may be used with por and sin.

(1) After a preposition,¹ quien is used instead of que, in referring to persons; as in el amigo de quien hablamos the friend of whom we are speaking.

(2) When quien is the subject or the direct object of a verb, it either introduces a clause which is not restrictive of the antecedent, or it includes its antecedent.

Vi a tu señor padre, quien me lo contó todo. I saw your father, who told me all.

Me lo contó todo tu señor padre, a quien vi poco ha. Your father, whom I saw a short while ago, told me all.

Quien te adula te agravia. He who flatters you, insults you.

No tengo a quien dirigirme. I have not any one to whom to apply.

Cf. vi al hombre que te lo contó todo, I saw the man who (restrictive) told you all.

a. Quien sometimes serves to indicate the number of its antecedent, or the fact that the antecedent is a person.

Me topé con el abuelo de estos niños, quien los buscaba en todas partes.

I ran across the grandfather of these children, who was looking for them everywhere.

Ayer vi al dueño de la casa, quien está en esta ciudad. Yesterday

I saw the owner of the house, who is in this city.

b. Quien is equivalent to either one of the two el que's (see §§ 152 and 158).

Quien (El que) calla otorga. He who is silent gives consent.

Llamé a un mozo, a quien (al que) entregué la carta. I called a waiter, to whom I gave the letter.

But in colloquial language, quien is rarely used as the subject or the direct object of a verb, save in a few proverbial expressions; in its stead el cual or el que is used.

c. Correlative quienes . . . quienes means some . . . some: quienes lloraban, quienes gemían, some were weeping and some were groaning.

160. Cuanto (-a, -os, -as), how much, how many, all that, is used as pronoun or adjective.

Le ofrecí cuanto dinero tenía. I offered him all the money that I had.

Cuantos entraron en el buque perecieron. All that entered the ship perished.

161. Cuyo (-a, -os, -as), whose, of whom, of which, is a relative possessive adjective. It agrees in gender and number with the thing possessed, and it may refer to persons or things.

La señora cuyas amigas han llegado. The lady whose friends have arrived.

Un lugar de cuyo nombre no me acuerdo. A place the name of which I do not remember.

162. The adverb donde, where, is often used as equivalent to a preposition plus a relative, and sometimes with the preposition expressed, as in la casa donde (en donde) vivo, the house in which I live.

163. Irregular Verbs. — Ir, (to) go, and Venir, (to) come. Study §§ 269 and 270.

a. Go and (followed by a verb) is ir a; come and is venir a.

Vaya usted a decírselo. Go and tell him.

Venga a verlo. Come and see it.

164. Idiomatic Expressions

va a llover, it is going to rain.	ir a caballo, (to) ride horseback.
vamos a ver, let us see.	la niña iba creciendo, the little girl kept growing.
la noche va oscureciendo, the night keeps (is) growing darker.	iba montado en una mula, he was riding a mule.
ir a pie, (to) go afoot, (to) walk.	la semana que viene, next week.
ir en coche, (to) drive (in a carriage).

EXERCISES

A. Ése es el caballero cuya casa acabo de comprar. Es el señor que vió Vd. ayer en casa de mi primo. ¿Sabe Vd. las razones por las cuales se ha decidido a marcharse de este pueblo? Creo que es por su hija menor, la cual está muy enferma. Ha vendido cuantas casas tenía aquí. La casa en que vive ahora no es suya. Piensa ir a California en automóvil. Por supuesto, no podrá ir a pie. — No, es ¹ demasiado lejos, pero podría ir en tren. — Ahí viene mi primo, quien me lo ha contado todo.

El hombre que vieron ustedes conmigo es Federico Carson, médico. Dice que la enfermedad de que sufre la hija del Sr. Reyes es grave. El pobre padre está tan desesperado que ha ofrecido al médico cuanto dinero tiene si la cura. El Dr. Carson ama a la joven, lo cual explica su interés. Pronto partirán el padre y la hija para un buen sitio que les he recomendado. No teniendo a quien dirigirse, me consultaron a mí. Yo escribí a un amigo que ha viajado mucho por California. Él contestó en seguida con muchos detalles, lo cual les agradó mucho.

Iba ya obscureciendo cuando los viajeros se acercaban al pueblo. — ¿Cuándo llegamos por fin, papá? — No sé, hija mía; Juan es quien podrá decirnos. — Yo tampoco sé con certeza, dijo Juan, pero tal vez aquellas luces son las del pueblo hacia el cual nos dirigimos. — Oh, parece que va a llover. — No tengas miedo. Mientras vaya el sol aquí con nosotros ni obscurece ni llueve de veras. — ¿Se supone que el sol soy yo? — ¿Quién si no tú, hija mía? — Oye, papá, ya sabes que a veces, como dice el refrán, quien te adula te agravia. — Hija, cuidado que no te equivoques y digas « agrava ». Ea, creo que vamos llegando a nuestro destino. Sí, allí está el hotel.

B. 1. ¿ En qué casa vive usted? 2. ¿ Quién se ha decidido a marcharse? 3. ¿ Quién está enfermo? 4. ¿ Adónde piensan ir el señor y su hija? 5. ¿ Cómo piensan ir? 6. ¿ Ha estado Vd. en California? 7. ¿ Cómo se llama el médico?

¹ Es, and not está, is used in es lejos, it is far away, es cerca, it is near by, etc., as these expressions refer to position in the abstract and not to definite position.

8. ¿Qué ha ofrecido el padre? 9. ¿Por qué se interesa el médico? 10. ¿Para dónde partirán? 11. ¿A quién escribió Vd.? 12. ¿Cuándo se acercaban al pueblo el padre y su hija? 13. ¿Qué no sabían el padre ni Juan? 14. ¿Quién cree que va a llover? 15. ¿Qué refrán cita la joven?

D. 1. Let us see; where is the boy who wrote this theme? 2. I should like to know to whom it belongs. 3. It has no name. 4. I think it was my cousin Thomas who wrote it. 5. Why hasn't he come to get it? 6. It has been on the table since the day before yesterday. 7. He hasn't been able to come to school for several days. 8. He went to visit his grandfather, whose house burned last month. 9. Where does the grandfather live now? 10. I don't know; he is rich, and has several houses. 11. The one that burned was in the country. 12. He lost all (that) there was in it.

13. I am going to read to you part of the theme that he wrote. 14. The theme describes the fire, which apparently was spectacular. 15. The ease with which this boy writes is admirable. 16. "The room in which we are is large, and is well lighted. 17. Everything that there is in it shows the opulence of those who live in the house. 18. The furniture, which is of very fine wood, is tastefully arranged. 19. There is a fire, near which is seated an old man. 20. Stretched out at his feet on the soft carpet is a dog. 21. The old man has been reading a book which is on a table before him. 22. He has been dozing, and now he awakes, and puts on his glasses, without which, it seems, he can not read. 23. Suddenly the dog, which is not sleeping, lifts his head, and sniffs. 24. Then he rises and runs towards the door. 25. A noise is heard, and then the cry, Fire!" 26. [There] follows the description of the excitement, and of the efforts to (para) extinguish the fire.

LESSON XXV

INTERROGATIVES

165. Interrogative Pronouns and Adjectives

qué what quién who cuál which cuánto (-a) how much

The interrogatives take the accent in both direct and indirect questions.

166. Qué, what, may be used as pronoun or adjective. As a pronoun, it refers to things, and is neuter.

¿ Qué es eso?
¿ Qué dijo?

What is that?
What did he say?

¿ Qué hora es?	What time is it?
¿ Qué hombre es éste?	What man is this?
Pregunta qué pasajeros han llegado.	He asks what passengers have arrived.

a. In exclamations, qué is what (a) before an attributive, and how before a predicate adjective: ¡ qué linda luna! what a pretty moon! ¡ qué pálido estás! how pale you are! To add emphasis, tan, so, or más, more, may be placed before the attributive adjective, which then follows its noun: ¡ qué día tan hermoso (más hermoso)! what a beautiful day!

167. Quién (quiénes), who, is used only as a pronoun, and refers only to persons. Interrogative whose is usually de quién.

¿ Quién llama?	Who is knocking?
Pregunta quiénes eran las señoras.	He asks who the ladies were.
¿ De quién es aquella hermosa casa?	Whose is that beautiful house?
¿ De quién es este caballo?	Whose horse is this? (lit., 'Of whom is this horse?')

168. Cuál (cuáles), which, is chiefly used as a pronoun; it may refer to persons or things.

¿ Cuál de las plumas quiere usted?	Which pen (lit., 'Which of the pens') do you wish?
¿ A cuáles de mis amigos ha visto Vd. hoy?	Which of my friends have you seen today?

a. Cuál is rarely used adjectively, as in ¿ cuál casa prefieres? which house do you prefer? ¿ Qué casa prefieres? and ¿ cuál de las casas prefieres? are the more common constructions.

b. When what stands in the predicate, it is usually to be expressed by cuál: ¿ cuál es la fecha de la carta? what is the date of the letter? ¿ cuál es la ciudad capital de los Estados Unidos? what is the capital city of the United States? Qué is used if a definition is wanted: ¿ qué es la filosofía griega? what is Greek philosophy?

169. The interrogative possessive cuyo, whose, is little used; it refers only to persons, and is, as a rule, used only in the predicate. Interrogative whose is generally de quién.

¿ Cúya (better, ¿ De quién) es esta casa? Whose house is this?
 ¿ Cúyo (better, ¿ De quién) es aquel caballo? Whose horse is that?

REMARK. — One does not say: ¿ cúya casa habita usted? whose house do you occupy? but ¿ De quién es la casa que usted habita?

170. Cuánto (—a) is how much; cuántos (—as), how many.
Cuánto (—a, —os, —as) may be used as adjective or pronoun.

¿ Cuántos hay?	How many are there?
¿ Cuánto dinero necesita Vd.?	How much money do you need?
¿ Cuántas vacas vendiste?	How many cows did you sell?

171. Negation. — The pronouns nadie, no one, nada, nothing, ninguno, none, and the adverbs ni . . . ni, neither . . . nor, nunca and jamás, never,¹ and tampoco, not either, require the verb to be made negative when they follow the verb. They are negative in themselves if they precede the verb or if no verb is expressed.²

No temo nada, or nada temo.	I fear nothing (I do not fear anything).
No tengo ni pluma ni papel, or Ni pluma ni papel tengo.	I have neither pen nor paper (I haven't either pen or paper).
No le vi nunca, or Nunca le vi.	I never saw him.
Nadie se acordaba de él, ni él se acordaba de nadie.	No one remembered him, nor did he remember any one.
Su hijo no es ni será nunca nadie.	Her son is not nor ever will be anything.
No quiero aquel caballo tam- poco, or Tampoco quiero aquel caballo.	I do not wish that horse either.
¿ Quién viene? — Nadie.	Who is coming? — No one.
¿ Qué dice Vd.? — Nada.	What are you saying?—Nothing.

a. Similarly, certain expressions such as en mi vida become negative when they precede the verb: no he hecho tal cosa en mi vida, or en mi vida he hecho tal cosa, never in my life have I done such a thing.

¹ Never is commonly expressed by nunca. Jamás after a positive verb is positive: ¿ ha visitado Vd. jamás a Méjico? have you ever visited Mexico?

² In colloquial language, the negative (except no) usually follows the verb, e.g., no tengo nada is more common than nada tengo, I have nothing, or I haven't anything.

b. As a rule, negative pronouns and adverbs are used instead of affirmative ones if the sentence is in any way negative, or expects a negative answer, or if the pronoun or adverb follows a comparative.

Es inútil decir nada.

It is useless to say anything.

Sin olvidarte nunca.

Without ever forgetting you.

¿ Hay nada más sublime ?

Is there anything more sublime ?

El viejo parece más feliz que nunca.

The old man seems happier than ever.

c. In a negative sentence, alguno may be used instead of ninguno, in which case alguno follows its noun and is somewhat emphatic: no tiene enemigo alguno, he has no enemy whatever.

172. Irregular Verbs. — Hacer, (to) make, (to) do, and Decir, (to) say, (to) tell. Study §§ 268 and 279.

173. Idiomatic Expressions

EXERCISES

A. 1. — ¿ Qué calle es ésta ? No he visto nunca otra tan bonita. ¿ Cuántas residencias !

— Ésta es la calle Mayor. Por aquí se va al hotel. ¿ Ha visto Vd. ninguna más ancha ?

— Ninguna. ¿Cuál es más larga, ésta o la calle donde Vds. viven?

— Ésta es más larga y más importante.

— ¡Qué casa más hermosa! ¿De quién es?

— Del señor catedrático cuyas clases visitamos ayer.

— ¿Cuál? Yo conocí a dos de ellos.

— El señor Martínez. El que explica la literatura española.

— Pero ¿cómo es que vive en una casa tan opulenta?

— Su familia es rica. Aquélla es también muy hermosa. ¿Cuál prefiere Vd.?

— Prefiero la del señor Martínez. ¿Cuánto costará?

— ¡Quién sabe!

— Parece que va a llover. Y no tenemos ni paraguas ni impermeables. Démonos prisa. ¿Cómo quiere Vd. ir, en tranvía o en taxímetro?

2. — ¿Quién llama?

— Es el señor que vino ayer. ¡Qué pálido está! ¿Qué le digo?

— Hágame entrar en otro despacho y hágame el favor de cerrar esa puerta. Hoy no quiero recibir a nadie. Se dice que ese hombre ha perdido cuanto dinero tenía. Pero él no quiere decir nada a nadie. Pregúntele si le hace falta dinero. O si quiere volver, haré por verle mañana. Hace dos meses le dije que no comprase acciones en cierta compañía, pero no me hizo caso. ¿Qué hora es?

— Son las cuatro. Si Vd. piensa salir, abríguese bien. Hace mucho frío. ¿Cuánto dinero puedo ofrecerle a ese hombre?

— Lo que necesite, si no es mucho. Ya sabe Vd. que estoy haciendo construir dos casas. Y estoy más apurado que nunca. Pero no le diga a él nada de esto.

B. 1. ¿En qué calle está este edificio? 2. ¿Cuál es la calle más larga de esta ciudad (este pueblo)? 3. ¿De quién es la casa donde Vd. vive? 4. ¿ Por dónde se va al hotel? 5. ¿ A cuántos catedráticos conoce Vd.? 6. ¿ Conoce Vd. al que explica la literatura española? 7. ¿ Cómo se llama el catedrático de la literatura española? 8. ¿ Cree Vd. que llueva hoy? 9. ¿ Qué prefiere Vd., un paraguas o un impermeable? 10. ¿ Quién ha perdido dinero? 11. ¿ Cuánto dinero ha perdido? 12. ¿ Le gusta a Vd. viajar en tranvía? 13. ¿ Qué hora es? 14. ¿ Hace frío o calor hoy? 15. ¿ Quién hizo construir esta casa?

C. 1. Translate: What a pretty girl! But how pale she is! Whose daughter is she? Who is the other girl? Which is the prettier? What time is it? Do you know when (= at what hour) the train arrives? Which train do you wish to take? What is the date of the letter? What is the capital of Spain? What is the philosophy of Kant? How much money do you want? How many books do you wish to buy?

2. Translate: I should like to write a letter, but I have neither pen nor paper. I haven't [any] paper either. Mary is never happy. She seems sadder than ever. I have no friend in Paris. I do not know any one there. I never saw Mr. Herrera. Have you ever visited Rome? I have never seen Rome. Nor (= not either) have I seen London.

3. Substitute a personal pronoun for the noun object: ¿ Quieres prestarme el libro? Préstame el libro. — No te presto el libro. — Pues, si no me prestas el libro, puedo comprar uno. Pedimos la lista (de platos). Dijimos: tráiganos la lista. El mozo nos trajo la lista. ¿ Quieren los señores sopa? — Sí, tráiganos sopa. — ¿ Quieren los señores pescado? — Sí, tráiganos pescado. Le dimos la propina. Ella quería que yo leyera la carta. Me dijo: lea Vd. la carta. Pero no leí la carta.

D. 1. What did the man with (de) the eyeglasses wish? 2. Did you see how pale he was? 3. I thought he was ill. 4. He was asking what new guests we have. 5. I showed him the register.

6. He read the names, but didn't say anything. 7. Then I asked him whom he was looking for. 8. He said that he was looking for Mr. Martinez, who was to arrive today. 9. He had received a letter from him, asking him to come to see him here. 10. Then I asked him: What is the date of the letter? 11. He showed it to me. 12. It was dated the twentieth of last month. 13. Mr. Martinez came here that day, but went away two or three days later.

14. I know who Mr. Martinez is (say who is Mr. Martinez). 15. He used to live in this town. 16. Nobody knows why he left. 17. He is a fine man. 18. He made himself loved by everybody here. 19. He had no enemies (say He did not have enemies). 20. He had a great deal of money, and gave freely to the needy. 21. He had a magnificent house built for his family. 22. How beautiful his wife was! 23. But one day he left without saying anything to anybody. 24. Now no one remembers him.

25. What was the reason for his departure? 26. No one seems to know. 27. Some say that he lost all the money that he had. 28. He bought many shares in a certain company. 29. The worst is that he advised his friends to ¹ buy all the shares that they could buy. 30. They also lost much money. 31. There is nothing more unfortunate for an honorable man.

LESSON XXVI

INDEFINITE ADJECTIVE PRONOUNS

174. Alguien, some one, somebody, any one, anybody, algo, something, anything, are pronouns and invariable. Alguien refers only to persons; algo is neuter.

Alguien llama a la puerta.

¿ Hallaste algo?

Some one is knocking at the door.

Did you find something (anything)?

a. Not . . . any one, not . . . anybody, is no . . . nadie; not . . . anything is no . . . nada. See "Negation," § 171. Alguien and algo are never combined with negatives.

¹ Use que with the subjunctive.

175. Alguno (-a, -os, -as), some, any, a few, is used as adjective or pronoun.

Algún ¹ día.	Some day.
Algunos de los amigos de usted.	Some of your friends.
Tiene algunos libros muy raros.	He has a few very rare books.

a. Not . . . any is usually no . . . ninguno or no . . . alguno (after noun).

b. In partitive expressions, unemphatic some and any, used as adjectives, are generally not to be expressed in Spanish.

Tengo pan, pero no tengo mantequilla.	I have some bread, but I haven't any butter.
Quiero comprar manzanas y naranjas.	I wish to buy some apples and oranges.

In answer to a question, some or any is then expressed by a personal pronoun object, or the noun is repeated.

- ¿ No tiene Vd. peras? Haven't you any pears? Hoy no las tengo. I haven't any today.
- ¿ Tiene Vd. vino? Have you any wine? No tengo vino (or vino no tengo). I haven't any.
- ¿ Hay uvas? Are there any grapes? Sí, las hay. Yes, there are some.
- ¿ Hay pan? Is there any bread? No lo hay (or no hay pan). There isn't any.

c. In the plural, some is occasionally expressed by unos, -as, especially in numerical expressions.

Tengo unos quinientos pesos.	I have some five hundred dollars.
-------------------------------------	-----------------------------------

176. Nadie, no one, nobody, not any one, not anybody, nada, nothing, not anything, are pronouns and invariable. Nadie refers only to persons; nada is neuter. See "Negation," § 171.

Nadie ha venido hoy.	No one has come today.
Nada veo.	I do not see anything.

177. Ninguno (-a, -os, -as), none, no, not any, is used as adjective or pronoun.

Ninguna casa.	No (not any) house.
Ninguno de los niños.	None of the children.

a. English no, not any, is often expressed by no, not, before the verb.

No tengo tiempo.	I have no (not any) time.
No tiene enemigos.	He has no (not any) enemies.

178. Mucho (-a),¹ much, muchos (-as), many, are used as adjective or pronoun.

Mucho tiempo.	Much (a great deal of) time.
Muchos años.	Many years.
Muchos han partido.	Many have left.

a. Very much is muchísimo (rather than muy mucho).

179. Poco (-a),¹ little (meaning but little), pocos (-as), few, are used as adjective or pronoun.

Tengo poco dinero.	I have little money.
Pocos han venido.	Few have come.

a. Un poco de is a little: tengo un poco de vino, I have a little wine; cf. tengo poco vino y mucha leche, I have a little (i.e., only a little) wine and much milk.

180. Tanto (-a, -os, -as), as (so) much, as (so) many.

Hay tantos hombres como mujeres.	There are as many men as women.
---	---------------------------------

181. Todo (-a, -os, -as), all, every, is used as adjective or pronoun.

todo aquel día all that day	todos los hombres all the men ²
toda mujer every woman	todas las noches every night
todo el mundo everybody	todos lo dicen all say so

a. All, meaning the whole, is todo (-a) el (la): toda la semana, all week.

b. The neuter pronoun todo means all, everything: todo es vanidad en este mundo, all is vanity in this world. As the object of a verb, neuter todo is usually accompanied by lo: me lo dijo todo, he told me all.

² Todos los hombres is all men (generally speaking) if the noun denotes all of its kind.

182. Mismo (-a, -os, -as),¹ same, very, self, himself (herself, etc.), is used as an adjective.

El mismo día.	The same day.
El exceso mismo de mi felicidad me matará.	The very excess of my happiness will kill me.
Él mismo me lo dijo.	He told me so himself.
Creo que es usted la misma virtud.	I believe that you are virtue itself.

In the sense of self, it often follows the noun or pronoun.

a. El mismo (la misma, los mismos, las mismas, lo mismo), the same, is used as pronoun.

183. Ambos (-as), los dos (las dos), both (of), are used as adjectives or pronouns.

el niño puede caerse, the child may fall.	él puede más que yo, he is stronger than I.
no puedo más, I can't do any more, I am played out.	¿quiere usted venir conmigo? will you come with me?
no pudo menos de sonreírse, he couldn't help smiling.	la quiere mucho, he is very fond of her.
puede que, it is possible that.	¿qué quiere decir esto? what does this mean?

EXERCISES

A. No quiero que nadie entre en mi biblioteca por algunos días. Tengo algunos papeles sobre el escritorio que son muy importantes. Es un trabajo que debe producirme unos mil quinientos pesos. Ayer alguien me revolvió los papeles. No pude menos de enfadarme. No hay cosa que me disguste más. Yo mismo me ocuparé de limpiar. Dentro de pocos días acabaré ese trabajo.

Voy a explicar lo que estoy haciendo. Hace mucho tiempo que un señor muy rico hizo un viaje a Chile y el Perú. Compró unos libros y manuscritos muy raros. Los tenía en su biblioteca sin hacer nada de ellos. El año pasado un tal Morales, profesor de algún colegio, le indicó la importancia de los dos manuscritos. Entonces me llamó a su casa y me pidió que los tradujera. Ambos son largos y difíciles. Pero ya voy acabando. Ahora tengo poco dinero y me alegraré de cobrar.

Uno de los manuscritos describe viajes y exploraciones de los conquistadores españoles; el otro las costumbres de los indios. ¿Quiere usted venir conmigo a verlos? Le gustará leer algunas de las leyes y costumbres curiosas de los indios. Pase usted. ¿Qué tal le parece la biblioteca? Todavía no tengo muchos libros, pero poco a poco voy reuniéndolos. Siéntese en este sillón. Es más cómodo.

Vea estas frases que he sacado de este manuscrito: « Todos se hacían sus casas. Todos sabían labrar la tierra y beneficiarla, sin alquilar otros obreros. Labradas las tierras de los pobres, labraba cada uno las suyas, ayudándose unos a otros. De esta tierra de los indios ningún particular poseía cosa propia. De la cosecha de sus tierras particulares no pagaban los vasallos cosa alguna al Inca. No había vagamundos ni holgazanes, ni nadie hacía cosa que no debiese.»

B. 1. ¿En dónde no se puede entrar? 2. ¿Qué hay sobre el escritorio? 3. ¿Cuánto producirá el trabajo? 4. ¿Qué hizo alguien con los papeles? 5. ¿Quién hizo un viaje a Chile y el Perú? 6. ¿Qué compró el señor? 7. ¿Quién indicó la importancia de los manuscritos? 8. ¿Adónde le llamó el señor? 9. ¿Qué le pidió? 10. ¿Por qué se alegrará de cobrar? 11. ¿Qué describe uno de los manuscritos? 12. ¿Qué describe el otro? 13. ¿Quiénes eran los conquistadores? 14. ¿Tiene usted libros sobre los indios? 15. ¿Ha estado usted en Chile? 16. ¿Qué sabían labrar los indios? 17. ¿Qué no pagaban al Inca?

C. Supply the Spanish equivalent of the indefinite adjective or pronoun in parenthesis, if one is needed in Spanish:

(Any) ¿Tiene Vd. pan? Tengo pan, pero no tengo mantequilla (manteca). ¿Tiene amigos en Madrid? No, señor; no tengo amigo en Madrid. ¿Compró Vd. abanicos en Sevilla? No, señor; no compré abanico. No hables más; ya hablaste demasiado. Sin duda podré hacerlo mañana. ¿Cree Vd. que hombre sea bueno para eso? No, señor; creo que no hay hombre capaz de hacerlo bien.

(Some) ¿Quiere Vd. uvas? Sí, señor; vengo a comprar uvas y peras. ¿Puede Vd. prestarme dinero? Sí, señor; le prestaré dinero con mucho gusto. Muchas gracias; quisiera que me prestase quinientos pesos. ¿Han venido parientes de Vd.? Sí, señor; han venido parientes y amigos también.

(Nothing) No tengo. Tengo. No tengo mejor. No veo. Veo.

(Poco or mucho) Tiene amigos porque tiene dinero. Sabe porque estudia. Vivió en Madrid años y aprendió español.

(Todo) Juan trabaja los días excepto el domingo. Descansa los domingos. Estudia el español las noches. Lo aprendió. Los hombres deben trabajar para ganarse la vida. El mundo debe trabajar. Estaba enfermo aquel día. Mujer debe casarse.

(Mismo) Llegamos el día. Vivimos en la casa. Él me lo dijo. Ella se engaña a sí. Ellos se aman a sí. Ellas se burlan de sí.

(Otro) Quiero el caballo. Quiero caballo. No tengo.

(Tal) El Martínez era un pícaro. Me lo dijo un García. Nunca he visto hombre. Nunca he hecho cosa.

veinte y tres	23	dos mil	2,000
veinte y cuatro	24	cien ³ mil	100,000
veinte y cinco	25	doscientos, -as mil	200,000
veinte y seis	26	un millón	1,000,000
veinte y siete	27	dos millones	2,000,000
veinte y ocho	28

² These numbers are also written in one word, as, dieciséis, veintiuno, etc.

³ See § 117.

⁴ In colloquial language one sometimes hears sietecientos and nuevecientos.

a. The cardinals are invariable, except un(o), -a, -cientos, -as in the combinations from doscientos, -as to novecientos, -as inclusive, and quinientos, -as: doscientos hombres, two hundred men; doscientas mujeres, two hundred women; doscientas mil personas, two hundred thousand persons.

b. In compound numerals, uno drops the final vowel before a masculine noun: treinta y un soldados, thirty-one soldiers; but cincuenta y una casas, fifty-one houses.

c. Millón takes un, but ciento and mil do not: cien estudiantes, one hundred students; mil pesos, one thousand dollars; un millón de pesetas, one million pesetas.

But ciento un, doscientos un, etc., may occur before mil when they mean a hundred and one, etc.: ciento un mil trescientos veinte y cinco, 101,325.

d. The conjunction y is used to connect two numerals, provided the numeral that precedes is less than 100 and the numeral that follows is less than 10: cuarenta y cinco, 45, noventa y nueve, 99; but, ciento cinco, 105, veinte mil, 20,000.

e. Counting by hundreds is not carried above nine hundred in Spanish; beginning with ten hundred mil is used: mil ochocientos noventa y tres, 1893.

f. As substantives, ciento or centenar, mil or millar, are used; but only ciento and millar are regularly used to express rate: centenares de caballos, hundreds of horses; dos pesetas el ciento, two pesetas per hundred; miles de aves, thousands of birds; a peso el millar, at one dollar per thousand.¹

193.

Ordinal Numerals²

primer(o) , -a (primo , -a)	1st	undécimo , -a	11th
segundo , -a	2d	duodécimo , -a	12th
tercer(o) , -a (tercio , -a)	3d	décimotercio , -a	13th
cuarto , -a	4th	décimocuarto , -a	14th
quinto , -a	5th	décimoquinto , -a	15th
sexto , -a or sesto , -a	6th	décimosexto , -a	16th
séptimo , -a or sétimo , -a	7th	décimoséptimo , -a	17th
octavo , -a	8th	décimooctavo , -a	18th
noveno , -a (nono , -a)	9th	décimonono , -a	19th
décimo , -a	10th	vigésimo , -a	20th

¹ In mercantile language uno is usually omitted, as here, before the name of the coin.

² The use of the ordinals in Spanish is daily becoming less. It is hardly an exaggeration to say that only trained persons know them from twentieth on.

vigésimo primo, -a	21st	ducentésimo, -a	200th vigésimo segundo, -a	22d	trecentésimo, -a	300th
vigésimo tercio, -a	23d	cuadragésimo, -a	400th
trigésimo, -a	30th	quingentésimo, -a	500th
cuadragésimo, -a	40th	sescentésimo, -a	600th
quincuagésimo, -a	50th	septengésimo, -a	700th
sexagésimo, -a	60th	octogentésimo, -a	800th
septuagésimo, -a	70th	nonagentésimo, -a	900th
octogésimo, -a	80th	milésimo, -a	1,000th
nonagésimo, -a	90th	dosmilésimo, -a	2,000th
centésimo, -a	100th	diezmilésimo, -a	10,000th
centésimo primo, -a	101st	millonésimo, -a	1,000,000th
centésimo undécimo, -a	111th

a. The shorter forms, primo, tercio and nono are used in compound ordinal numerals. Sexto and séptimo are usually pronounced and often written sesto and sétimo. For the apocopation of primero and tercero see § 114.

b. The ordinals agree in gender and number with the noun they modify. A single ordinal may precede or follow its noun; a compound ordinal regularly follows: el primer día, the first day; el siglo décimo sexto (or el siglo diez y seis), the sixteenth century.

c. After décimo, the cardinals are generally used in Spanish instead of the ordinals, to specify the number of a volume, book, chapter, lesson, century, etc.: el tomo veinte, the twentieth volume (or volume twenty); el siglo diez y nueve, the nineteenth century.

d. The ordinals are used up to décimo (or undécimo) to indicate the order of succession of sovereigns; but from that number on the cardinals are regularly used: Carlos quinto, *Charles the Fifth*¹; León trece, Leo XIII.

e. In dates, the cardinals are used instead of the ordinals, with the exception of primero: el primero (el dos, el tres, etc.) de junio, the first (the second, the third, etc.) of June. Sometimes uno is used instead of primero, as in el uno y el dos de enero, the first and the second of January.

Fractional Numerals

un medio	$\frac{1}{2}$	tres cuartos	$\frac{3}{4}$
un tercio	$\frac{1}{3}$	un quinto	$\frac{1}{5}$
dos tercios	$\frac{2}{3}$	un sexto	$\frac{1}{6}$
un cuarto	$\frac{1}{4}$	un séptimo	$\frac{1}{7}$

un octavo	$\frac{1}{8}$	un diecisieteavo	$\frac{1}{17}$
un noveno	$\frac{1}{9}$	un dieciochoavo	$\frac{1}{18}$
un décimo	$\frac{1}{10}$	un diecinueveavo	$\frac{1}{19}$
un undécimo or onzavo ¹	$\frac{1}{11}$	un veintavo	$\frac{1}{20}$
un dozavo	$\frac{1}{12}$	un treintavo	$\frac{1}{30}$
un trezavo	$\frac{1}{13}$	un centésimo or centavo	$\frac{1}{100}$
un catorzavo	$\frac{1}{14}$	un milésimo	$\frac{1}{1000}$
un quinzavo	$\frac{1}{15}$	un millonésimo	$\frac{1}{1000000}$
un dieciseisavo	$\frac{1}{16}$

a. Fractional numerals may also be expressed by the ordinals with parte, especially when a partitive expression follows or is understood: la tercera parte de ellos, one-third of them.

b. Half (a half, one-half, half a), as a substantive, is expressed by la mitad; as an adjective, by medio (-a) without the indefinite article. In calculations, medio (-a) is used.

La mitad de mis bienes.

One-half of my goods.

Medio día.

Half a day.

Una hora y media.

An hour and a half.

195.

Collective Numerals

un par a pair	una veintena twenty, a score una decena ten	una sesentena sixty una docena a dozen	una centena or un centenar one hundred una quincena fifteen	un millar one thousand

a. The ending -ena may make the numeral indefinite: e.g., una veintena, some twenty, about twenty.

196.

Multiplicative Numerals

simple single	séptuplo septuple
doble or duplicado double ²	óctuplo octuple triple or triplicado treble	décuplo decuple
cuádruplo or cuadruplicado quadruple ²	céntuplo or centuplicado
quíntuplo or quintuplicado quintuple	centuple séxtuplo sextuple

¹ Note loss of final vowel before -avo, except the final -e of siete and nueve.

197. Numeral Phrases

una vez once	diez veces ten times
dos veces twice	cien veces a hundred times
tres veces three times (thrice)	mil veces a thousand times

198. Irregular Verbs. — Andar, (to) go (to go in a definite direction is ir); Caer, (to) fall.

199. Idiomatic Expressions

el reloj no anda , the watch doesn't go (run).	lo dejé caer , I dropped it.
voy a la ciudad , I am going to town.	la levita te cae (sienta) bien , the coat fits you well.
se cayó , he fell down.	este color cae bien con este otro , ya caigo en eso , now I understand that.	this color matches well with this other.

EXERCISES

A. ESCENA: Habitación en una residencia de estudiantes. Hay tres jóvenes en ella. Uno está en pie delante de un espejo, poniéndose el cuello y la corbata. Otro, sentado a la mesa, tiene un libro en la mano. El tercero, repantigado en una poltrona, lee un periódico.

1ER. ESTUDIANTE. — ¿Creen ustedes que el color de esta corbata cae bien con el de la camisa?

2DO. ESTUDIANTE. — ¿Te preocupa mucho eso?

1ER. ESTUDIANTE. — Bastante. Voy a visitar a una señorita algo critica. ¿Qué hora es? Mi reloj no anda. Lo dejé caer ayer y se ha parado. ¿Son las siete? Pues tengo que irme. Abur.

3ER. ESTUDIANTE. (leyendo el periódico): « Sigue firme el papel de los Ferrocarriles Unidos.

« En esta plaza se hicieron 100 acciones a $95\frac{1}{2}$ y 500 a 96; 800 a $96\frac{1}{2}$ para el mes y 200 a $95\frac{3}{4}$ a entregar.

« Al cerrar el mercado a las 12 prevalecían los siguientes tipos:

Ferrocarriles Unidos, $95\frac{3}{4}$ a 96

Banco Español, 101 a 102

Acciones Gas, $135\frac{3}{4}$ a 138

Petróleo, $130\frac{3}{4}$ a 133

Río Tinto, $97\frac{1}{2}$ a $99\frac{1}{4}$ »

2DO. ESTUDIANTE. — Mira, no me fastidies con eso. Oye este cuento (leyendo en el libro que tiene en la mano): « Un campesino tenía tres hijos. Al morir les dejó diez y siete hermosos caballos. De éstos el hijo mayor debía quedarse con la mitad, el segundo con un tercio, y el menor con la sexta parte. Pero no podían hacer una división exacta. El resultado fué una grave disputa entre ellos. Acudieron a un anciano, antiguo amigo de su padre, el cual les dijo:

— Para facilitar la repartición, tomen mi caballo. Así tendrán diez y ocho animales. El mayor, que tome la mitad, o sea nueve caballos; el segundo, un tercio, o sea seis caballos; y el último, la sexta parte, o sea tres caballos.

Luego montó en su caballo, disponiéndose a marchar.

— ¡Cómo! — gritaron a una voz los hermanos, — ¿nos quita usted el que nos ha dado?

— ¿Qué importa? ¿No he repartido a cada uno la justa parte que le corresponde? ¿No poseen los diez y siete caballos que les dejó su padre? Además, ¿cómo harían para repartirse el décimooctavo caballo? »

B. 1. ¿Cuántos jóvenes hay en la habitación? 2. ¿Qué hace el que está repantigado en la poltrona? 3. ¿Cuál tiene un libro en la mano? 4. ¿Cuál se pone el cuello y la corbata? 5. ¿A quién va a visitar? 6. ¿Qué hora era? 7. ¿Por qué se ha parado el reloj? 8. ¿Cuántos caballos dejó el campesino? 9-11. ¿Cuántos había de recibir el hijo mayor? el segundo? el menor? 12. ¿Por qué no podían hacer la división? 13. ¿A quién acudieron? 14. ¿Cómo resolvió el problema? 15. ¿Qué hizo luego el anciano? 16. ¿Por qué no les gustó a los jóvenes la solución?

C. 1. Answer: ¿Cuál es la suma de $35.50 y $21.75? ¹ Si de $65.25 quito $25.15, ¿cuánto queda? Si multiplico $25.00 por 5, ¿cuál es el producto? Si divido $66.40 por 4, ¿cuál es el resultado? Una persona ha hecho 3 compras, y ha gastado sucesivamente $25, $35 y $50. ¿Cuánto ha gastado por todo? Un niño nació el 5 de febrero de 1922. ¿Cuándo cumplió 5 años? Si Juan tenía $16 y gastó $ 4.40, ¿cuánto dinero le queda? Si Vd. pagó $17 por 8 metros y medio de un género de seda, ¿a cómo se vendía el metro? Si damos a una peseta española el valor de 20 centavos norteamericanos (estadounidenses), ¿cuánto vale en moneda norteamericana (estadounidense) ptas: 50.25; 23.10; 11.75; 6.15; 127.30; 143.60; 250.50; 275.25; 320.15; 525.50; 2,000? (Por ejemplo, 58 pesetas con 25 céntimos valen 11 pesos y 65 centavos norteamericanos [estadounidenses]).²

2. Read or write in Spanish: 15; 23; 37; 41; 56; 62; 78; 89; 94; 100; 110; 113; 124; 138; 155; 169; 172; 185; 199; 201; 310; 425; 530; 642; 768; 873; 987; 1,000; 1,025; 1,575; 2,000; 5,150; 1,000,000; 10,000,000; el año 1492; el año 1776; el año 1918; el año 1930; el 1° de agosto; el 5 de septiembre; el 2° tomo; el capítulo 22; la página 145; Carlos V; Alfonso XIII; $\frac{1}{2}$; $\frac{1}{3}$; $\frac{2}{3}$; $\frac{1}{4}$; $\frac{3}{4}$; $\frac{2}{5}$; $\frac{3}{8}$; $\frac{5}{9}$; $\frac{1}{40}$; $\frac{3}{100}$; $\frac{15}{1000}$.

D. (Write out all numerals:) 1. I met my friend Arthur White the other day. 2. I had not seen him for six or seven months. 3. He is only twenty-six years old. 4. But he looks forty.³ 5. When I met him he was going to his father's shop. 6. He works very hard, but his salary is only forty-five dollars a week. 7. I went with him as far as the shop. 8. We stopped at the door and chatted a while. 9. Then he invited me to go in. 10. He wanted me to help him translate a letter.

¹ In these problems read $ as peso or pesos. In some countries the $ is sometimes placed after the number: thus 15$ = 15 pesos.

² The abbreviation of peseta is pta. Note the use of con before the number of céntimos. The easiest method of reducing pesetas to dollars is to multiply the number of pesetas by two, and move the decimal point one digit to the left.

³ Say: he seems to have forty.

11. Arthur's father was in the shop. 12. He was talking to one of his clerks. 13. — I have told you three or four times, — I heard him say, — to be more careful. 14. You see, this shelf is not secure. 15. That clock has stopped. 16. Why don't you wind it? 17. Be careful, don't drop it. — 18. Another clerk asked him a question. 19. — These buttons, he said to him, cost fifteen dollars a thousand. 20. The chains cost four dollars a dozen. 21. — Now I understand, said the clerk.

22. This is the letter that Arthur wanted me to translate:

23. — March 25th, 1927

24. Dear Sir: We are in receipt of your favor of the 15th inst. 25. We are pleased to send you now a small order, which we beg you to send by (para) the sixth of next month at the latest. 26. If you can not fill the whole order, please¹ send us (the) half now, and the rest within thirty days.

27. 1st — 100 silver chains, at 9 pesetas wholesale.

28. 2nd — 50 gold necklaces, at 36 pesetas wholesale.

29. 3rd — 25 gold locket with small pearls, at 80 pesetas wholesale.

30. We are very truly yours,²

Henry White and Son.

LESSON XXVIII

200.

Adverbs

aquí, acá here ahí there (near the person addressed)

Estoy muy bien aquí.
A dos pasos de acá.
Allá iremos todos.

allí, allá there (distant from both the speaker and the person addressed)

I am very comfortable here.
Two paces (steps) from here.
We shall all go there.

a. With verbs of motion, here is usually acá, and there is allá; but aquí and allí are used to denote a definite, specific place: ven acá come here; ven aquí, come right here.

b. Here in is aquí en, and there in is ahí en or allá en: allá en Puerto Rico, over there in Porto Rico.

c. English expletive there is not to be expressed in Spanish: hay, there is, there are; han salido de este pueblo más de veinte familias, there have left this town more than twenty families.

201. Mucho,¹ much, a great deal; muy, very.

Trabaja mucho.

He works a great deal.

Estoy muy cansado.

I am very tired.

Before past participles, much, very much, is muy.

Es muy estimado.

He is much esteemed.

Te estoy muy agradecido.

I am very much obliged to you.

But with the past participle of a perfect tense, much is mucho: ha escrito mucho, he has written much (a great deal).

a. Very, when standing alone, is mucho: ¿es interesante el libro? is the book interesting? sí, mucho, yes, very.

202. Both si, if, and sí, yes, may be used as intensive adverbs.

¡ Si no lo creo !

Indeed I don't believe it!

¡ Si partió esta mañana !

Why, he left this morning!

Ahora sí lo creo.

Now I do believe it.

Eso sí que es bueno.

That is indeed good.

203. Ya, already, now; with a negative, no longer, no more.

Ya es tarde.

It is already late.

Ya acabé.

I have already finished.

Ya entiendo.

I understand now.

Ya no fuma.

He doesn't smoke any longer (any more).

Ya no tengo dinero.

I have no more money (I haven't any more money).

204. -mente. — In English many adverbs of manner are formed by adding the termination -ly to adjectives, as quickly (from quick), correctly (from correct), etc. In Spanish many adverbs are similarly formed by adding -mente to the feminine singular of descriptive adjectives, as severamente (from severo), severely, fácilmente (from fácil), easily, etc.

a. When several adverbs in -mente modify the same word, -mente is omitted from all but the last: habla docta, concisa y elegantemente, he speaks learnedly, concisely, and elegantly.

Prepositions

205. Por and Para. — For is expressed by por or para. If for means for the sake of, on account of, or in exchange for, it is expressed by por; if it denotes purpose or destination, it is expressed by para.

Daríala vida por él.	I would give my life for him.
Los sacrificios que hizo por ella.	The sacrifices that he made for her.
Peleaba por la vida.	He was fighting for his life.
Le castigué por haberme dicho una mentira.	I punished him for having told me a lie.
He pagado diez pesos por el perro.	I have paid ten dollars for the dog.
Este libro es para ti.	This book is for you.
Parto para Madrid.	I am leaving for Madrid.

a. Por also means through, by, ¹ per.

Por temor.	Through fear.
Entró por la ventana.	He entered through the window.
Este árbol ha sido plantado por mi abuelo.	This tree was planted by my grandfather.
Diez por ciento.	Ten per cent.
Mil pesos por año.	A thousand dollars per year (a year).

b. Before an infinitive, to, expressing unsuccessful endeavor, is por and, expressing purpose whether successful or not, is para.

Pugnando por entrar.	Fighting to enter.
Lo hizo para engañarme.	He did it to deceive me.

¹ By is usually de, after passive verbs and participles that express feeling or emotion: es amado de todos, he is beloved by all.

c. Note also the following ways of expressing for in Spanish:

Estuve allí un año.	I was there for a year.
Hace un año que estoy aquí.	I have been here for a year.
Voy a Madrid por un año.	I am going to Madrid for a year.
Tengo que escribir un ejercicio en castellano para mañana.	I must write a Spanish exercise for tomorrow.

206. A preposition is usually retained before a substantive clause in Spanish, but omitted in English.

Estoy convencido de mi error.	I am convinced of my error.
Estoy convencido de que no dijo la verdad.	I am convinced that he did not tell the truth.
Me alegro de eso.	I am glad of that.
Me alegro de que no pueda venir.	I am glad that he cannot come.

Me acuerdo de que se llama Pedro.	I remember that he is called Peter.
Estoy seguro del hecho.	I am certain of the fact.
Estoy seguro de que no dará nada.	I am certain that he will give nothing.

207. With verbs meaning to take (from), to ask (of), etc., of or from is expressed in Spanish by a.

El capitán quitó el puñal al soldado.	The captain took the dagger from the soldier.
Hemos pedido un favor a tu señor padre.	We asked a favor of your father.
¿A quién compraste el caballo?	Of whom did you buy the horse?

a. A personal pronoun object is put in the dative case (indirect object).

Me han robado mucho dinero.	They have stolen a great deal of money from me.
Se lo quitó.	I took it away from him.

208. In English nouns are often used adjectively, as in a wheel chair, a saw-mill, etc. A noun used adjectively in English is usually expressed in Spanish by a noun preceded by de or para.

Una estatua de mármol.	A marble statue.
Una vela de cera.	A wax candle.

Una máquina de coser.	A sewing-machine.
Un vaso para vino.	A wineglass.
Una cuchara para sopa.	A soup spoon.

209. Irregular Verbs

caber (to) be contained in	salir (to) go out poner (to) put	traer (to) bring asir (to) grasp	conducir (to) lead valer (to) be worth

EXERCISES

A. — ¿ Por qué no viene Luisa ?

— Está en su habitación. Se cayó esta mañana al bajarse del automóvil. — ¿ Se hizo mucho daño ? — Creo que sí, porque al principio se puso pálida y luego se puso a llorar.

— Ah, ahí viene al fin. Más vale tarde que nunca. A ver, Luisa, ¿ cómo está ?

— Muy bien, gracias. Me siento mucho mejor.

Clara ¿ quieres poner la mesa ? Quisiera que aprendieras a hacerlo. El mantel está puesto. Aquí tengo las servilletas. Trae los platos. Ten cuidado, no los dejes caer.

— ¿ Cuántos cubiertos hay que poner, seis o siete ?

— Seis. Para cada uno pon un cuchillo, una cuchara para sopa, dos cucharitas y dos tenedores. No te olvides de poner un plato sopero y un vaso. Pon también saleros, pimenteros, la aceitera, la vinagrera y el azucarero. Deja las tazas y los platillos en el aparador. Ya es hora de comer. Hace tiempo que se puso el sol y pronto irá obscureciendo. La comida se pondrá fría. Ah, ya están aquí Antonio y María.

Antonio Blasco cogió un ladrón anoche. A las once y cuarto estaba para entrar en su casa cuando vió un hombre en el patio. El ladrón entró por una ventana. Antonio tenía un revólver, pero por temor de herir a alguien y por no asustar al vecindario, no disparó. Cuidadosamente se acercó a la ventana. Se subió sobre un barril que había usado el ladrón, pero poco faltó para que se cayese. Cuando el ladrón iba a salir Antonio le agarró por detrás y le quitó el revólver que llevaba. Cerca de la ventana había una mesita de caoba y sobre ella una estatua de mármol. En la lucha con el ladrón la estatua se cayó de la mesita y se rompió. El ladrón no le había robado mucho y Antonio no le delató a la policía. El ladrón prometió marcharse del pueblo hoy mismo. Antonio dice que no se arrepiente de lo que hizo por él. Está seguro de que cualquiera haría lo mismo.

B. 1. ¿Dónde está Luisa? 2. ¿Qué tiene que hacer Clara? 3. ¿Qué está puesto ya? 4. ¿Cuántos cubiertos hay que poner? 5. ¿Qué debe ponerse en la mesa? 6. ¿Qué debe dejar Luisa en el aparador? 7. ¿A qué horas come usted? 8. ¿Cuándo se pone el sol? 9. ¿Quién cogió un ladrón? 10. ¿Por dónde entró el ladrón? 11. ¿Por qué no disparó Antonio? 12. ¿Sobre qué se subió Antonio? 13. ¿Qué le quitó Antonio al ladrón? 14. ¿Cuánto había robado el ladrón? 15. ¿Qué prometió el ladrón?

C. 1. Place a preposition in the blank space: acabamos comer; mañana la tarde parto Córdoba Granada; voy Granada un año; come vivir, pero no vivas comer; compré un reloj oro; busco una taza té y voy tomar una taza te; hágame Vd. el favor darme un vaso agua; entraron la ventana y salieron la puerta; pugnaron con él salir y poco faltó que le mataran; mi padre va darme una máquina coser; la casa donde nací; vamos entrar la casa; casi estoy seguro que Juan lo hizo; esta pluma no sirve nada; me acuerdo que se llama Felipe; estoy convencido que me dijo una mentira; no volveré mentir; compré el caballo don Carlos mi hijo; mi hijo se alegra que lo comprara; ¿cuánto pagó Vd. el caballo? quité el ladrón el revólver que tenía; estaba matarme; yo tenía miedo que me matase;

todos; don Pablo es temido todos; esta casa fué construída un buen arquitecto.

D. 1. Come here, and sit down here near me. 2. Do you know my nephew Charles? 3. — I believe so. Didn't I meet him two years ago in Philadelphia?

4. — Probably. Read what he says in this letter. 5. — "Dear Uncle: I wish to ask a favor of you. 6. I have been here six months, and I should like to return to America. 7. But I have no more money. 8. Will you send me what I need for (para) the trip?" 9. — That's all I wanted you to read. 10. What do you think of it? 11. — That is indeed good! Is he industrious?

12. — Oh, yes, very. I am glad that he went to Europe. 13. He had been working hard, and was very tired. 14. First he went to Paris. 15. Then, three months later, he left for Madrid. 16. There he has met very fine people. 17. — Are you sure that he will return immediately? 18. — I have no doubt that he will do as he promises. 19. He is very fond of me, and will not deceive me. 20. When he was small, he used to come to see me almost every day. 21. He would come in the afternoon, and would go home after dinner. 22. One day, while he was here, he became very ill. 23. I sent for a physician. 24. The doctor told me it was nothing. 25. The little boy had tried to smoke and had swallowed some tobacco, and that made him sick. 26. A few days before I had told him not to smoke. 27. He was very small for his age, and I told him that if he smoked he would not grow fast. 28. I asked him not to smoke. 29. He doesn't smoke any more. 30. He does for me anything I ask of him.

LESSON XXIX

Conjunctions

211. y, e (before initial i or hi), and.

Padre y madre.	Father and mother.
Padre e hijo.	Father and son.

a. y is used before y and the diphthong (h)ie.

Tú y yo.	You and I.
Corta y hiera.	It cuts and wounds.

212. o, u (before initial o or ho), or.

Cinco o seis.	Five or six.
Siete u ocho.	Seven or eight.
Flores u hojas.	Flowers or leaves.

a. o, like a, to, formerly had the accent (ó, á), but the accent is now usually omitted except when o is placed between numerals, as in 5 ó 6, 5 or 6.

213. Pero, mas, sino (after a negative statement which is offset by an affirmative statement), but.¹

Somos los servidores del rey, pero no sus esclavos.	We are the king's servants, but not his slaves.
Lo dice, mas no lo creo.	He says so, but I do not believe it.
No voy a París sino a Madrid.	I am not going to Paris, but to Madrid.

a. But, as adverb or preposition, is often expressed by no . . . sino, and no . . . but by no . . . más que.

No nos visita sino raramente.	He visits us but rarely.
No tengo más amigo que tú.	I have no friend but you.

214. Cuando (interrogatively, cuándo), when.

Se lo diré cuando venga.	I shall tell him when he comes.
¿Cuándo lo hará usted?	When will you do it?

a. Que is used instead of cuando to introduce a clause that limits the meaning of an adverb or adverb-phrase of time.

En el momento que venga, se lo daré.	The moment (that) he comes I shall give it to him.
Un día que estuve en Barcelona.	One day when I was in Barcelona.

215. Donde (interrogatively, dónde), where, is often made more specific by prefixing a, en, or de.

¿ Adónde va usted?	Where are you going?
La casa (en) donde vive.	The house in which he lives.
¿ De dónde viene?	Where does he come from?

Porque, because, por qué, why.

No lo hice porque no quería hacerlo.	I did not do it because I did not want to do it.
¿ Por qué no vino usted ayer?	Why did you not come yesterday?

216. Agreement of Subject and Verb. — A verb agrees with its subject in number and person.

yo soy I am; tú eres you are, etc.

(1) Two or more singular subjects take a verb in the plural: él y ella son, he and she are.

(2) When subjects are of different persons, the verb is in the first person plural if any of the subjects is of the first person; and it is in the second person if the subjects are of the second and third persons.

tú y yo somos you and I are él y yo somos he and I are tú y él sois you and he are

217. Word Order

(1) In an affirmative sentence, the subject may precede or it may follow the verb.

El hombre está enfermo.	The man is ill.
Ya llegó mi amigo.	My friend has already arrived.

(2) In an interrogative sentence, the subject usually follows the verb.

¿ Lo compró su hermano ? Did your brother buy it ?

But one may say: ¿ su hermano lo compró ?

218. When the subject follows the verb:

(1) A noun object usually precedes a noun subject.

¿ Compró la casa tu señor Did your father buy the house ?
padre ?

But if the object is the longer, it follows.

¿ Compró tu padre todas estas Did your father buy all these casas ? houses ?

(2) A predicate adjective usually precedes a noun subject

¿ Es interesante el libro ? Is the book interesting ?

(3) A pronoun subject immediately follows the verb and precedes a noun object or a predicate adjective.

No quiero yo el caballo. I do not want the horse.

¿ Está usted enfermo ? Are you ill ?

(4) In a subordinate clause, the subject often follows the verb if there be no noun object.

Esperaremos hasta que llegue We shall wait until the train el tren. comes.

(5) The parts of a perfect tense are not separable.

¿ Ha comprado Vd. (not ha Vd. Have you bought the house ?
c.) la casa ?

219. If an adverb does not come first in the sentence, it usually follows the verb immediately.

Mañana hablaremos el gober- Tomorrow the governor and I nador y yo. shall have a talk.

Aquí se habla inglés. English is spoken here.

Dice siempre la verdad. He always tells the truth.

Contestó muy tranquilamente The young man answered quite el joven. calmly.

EXERCISES

A. ¿Adónde vamos ahora? — No vamos a casa. Vamos a casa de José Herrera. Está esperando a Ramiro Vega y a su hijo Miguel. Ellos no vienen a esta ciudad sino rara vez. Hace ya unos siete u ocho años que no vienen. Padre e hijo viajan mucho por el extranjero. Han ido a España muchas veces. Han estado en Francia también, pero no han aprendido a hablar francés. Generalmente, cuando van allá, se hospedan donde se habla español. Pasado mañana vuelven a partir para Europa. Esta vez no irán a España ni a Francia, sino a Italia. Quisiera acompañarlos, pero me es imposible. Volverán a fines de agosto.

Miguel es un muchacho muy desgraciado. Es bastante rico y no tiene que trabajar. Pero es huérfano de madre y rara vez está bien de salud. No tiene más amigo íntimo que José. Le gusta escribir. Ha escrito dos libros, pero solamente uno ha sido impreso. Cuando viaja escribe sus impresiones de los lugares que visita. De esta manera pasa el tiempo. Una vez que José estaba en Cádiz, Miguel quiso ir a visitarle. Estaba entonces en un pueblecito cerca de Sevilla. Camino de Cádiz cayó enfermo. Se apeó del caballo y se hospedó en casa de unos campesinos. Un viejecito sevillano le servía de guía. Miguel le dió al sevillano dos billetes de cien pesetas y una carta para José. Naturalmente José en seguida fué a ver a su amigo.

B. 1. ¿A quién espera José? 2. ¿Por dónde viajan Miguel y su padre? 3. ¿Adónde han ido? 4. ¿Qué idioma no han aprendido? 5. ¿Cuándo vuelven a partir? 6. ¿Adónde irán? 7. ¿Cuándo volverán? 8. ¿Por qué es desgraciado Miguel? 9. ¿Qué le gusta hacer? 10. ¿Cuántos libros ha escrito? 11. ¿Qué escribe cuando viaja? 12. ¿Dónde estaba Miguel cuando José fué a Cádiz? 13. ¿Qué le sucedió camino de Cádiz? 14. ¿Dónde se hospedó? 15. ¿Quién le servía de guía? 16. ¿Qué le dió al sevillano?

C. 1. Place the word given in parenthesis in its proper place or places in the sentence: (Pablo) ¿lo vendió? 2. (don Felipe) ¿está enfermo? 3. (Juan) estaré aquí hasta que venga. 4. (ahora) ¿empieza la función? 5. (tu tío) ¿vendió todos los libros? 6. (ayer) mi tío vendió todos los libros. 7. (el señor Martínez) ¿ha comprado la casa? 8. (interesante) ¿es la carta? 9. (siempre) digo la verdad. 10. (usted) ¿está cansado? 11. (fácil) ¿es la lección de español? 12. (La lección) ¿es fácil o difícil? 13. (el tren) esperaremos hasta que llegue. 14. (ya) llegó el tren. 15. (aquí) se habla español. 16. (mañana) hablaremos el profesor y yo. 17. (María) ¿escribió una carta interesante? 18. (Pablo y Felipe) ¿escribieron el tema?

2. Substitute for the dash the proper adverb or conjunction: el país de — vengo; era un joven fino — inteligente; su nota era « sobresaliente » — « óptimo »; deseo mucho verle, — me es imposible; no voy a Madrid — a París; tenemos cuatro — cinco plumas y siete — ocho lápices; él lo dice, — yo no lo creo; ¿ a — va usted? ¿ de — viene usted? madre — hija, padre — hijo, todos estaban enfermos; el padre — su hijo murieron; hay nueve — diez tomos ¿ no es verdad? No, señor, hay diez — once; no es español, — francés.

3. Substitute for the dash the proper form of the present indicative of the verb in parenthesis: (ser) tú, él y yo — de la misma edad; tú y él — buenos amigos; (pensar) él y yo — partir mañana; (estudiar) usted y Juan no —: sí, señor, Juan y yo — mucho.

D. 1. What day of the month is it? 2. — It is the tenth of March, isn't it? 3. — Oh, I am glad. Joseph will be at home very soon. 4. He went away the last of December. 5. — Where is he now? 6. — I am not sure where he is. 7. He wrote that he was leaving New York. 8. But he didn't say where he was going then, or when he would arrive here. 9. He said only that he would be here after the ninth. 10. When he comes, he ought to rest a few days. 11. He is not in very good health, and has been traveling a great deal. 12. As you know, he is frequently away. 13. When he is at home he writes verses. 14. He has written four volumes, and they have all been published. 15. — Didn't he buy that house on the other side of the square? 16. — He didn't (buy it); at least I don't believe he did (buy it). 17. I believe his old friend John Mora was the one who bought it.

18. John Mora is the man who has opened the new shop. 19. He used to work as a tailor. 20. Before that he served as a guide in the mountains. 21. There he earned little money, but he spent less. 22. Thus he saved his dollars, little by little, one by one. 23. One day when Joseph took a trip to the country he saw Mora. 24. He employed him several times. 25. He asked him to come to the city. 26. When he arrived at the station, Mora was very hungry, and immediately he looked for a restaurant. 27. He ate a good meal, but he thought the charge was too high. 28. He refused to pay it, and was arrested by the police. 29. Now he himself sells things at high prices. 30. For instance, he sold me this velvet at three dollars a yard. 31. My friends tell me that one (uno) can buy it anywhere else for less.

LESSON XXX

222. Qualifying Suffixes

The Spanish diminutive and augmentative suffixes consist of endings all of which may be attached to nouns, while some diminutives may be attached to adjectives and adverbs. They occur commonly in colloquial language, but rarely in elevated diction. The foreigner should use them with the utmost caution. It is generally safe to use -ito, but one not to the manner born would best avoid the other suffixes until he has become familiar with their use.

a. The qualifying suffixes are attached to the stem of a word after it has dropped a final unstressed vowel or, often, an unstressed diphthong.

pájaro, pajarillo amigo, amiguito rosario, rosarito

223. Diminutives. — There are three forms of most diminutive suffixes, as follows: (1) -ito, -illo, -uelo, etc.; (2) -cito, -cillo, -zuelo, etc.; and (3) -ecito, -ecillo, -ezuelo, etc.

a. The third form (-ecito,¹ -ecillo, -ezuelo, etc.) is used:

(1) With monosyllables.

flor flower

pez fish

rey king

florecita little flower

pececito little fish

reyezuelo little king

(2) With words of more than one syllable, ending in -e.

viaje journey

aire air

viajecito little trip

airecillo light breeze

(3) With words ending in -a or -o, that have the radical diphthong -ie or -ue.²

viento wind

piedra stone pueblo village

vientecito slight breeze

piedrecita little stone

pueblocillo little village

(4) With some words ending in unstressed -ia, -io, -ua, -uo.

bestia beast

genio genius

lengua tongue

arduo arduous

bestiecita little beast

geniecillo little genius lengüecita little tongue

arduecito rather arduous

b. The second form (-cito, -cillo, -zuelo, etc.) is used with words of more than one syllable, ending in -n or -r, and especially if they have the stress on the final syllable.

ladrón thief

joven young man

autor author

ladroncillo petty thief

jovencito youth

autorcillo young author

But:

árbol tree

arbolito little tree

¹ Pie makes piececito, piececillo, etc.

² In old Spanish the radical diphthongs ie and ue usually reverted to e and o when a qualifying suffix was added: as in puerta, door, portezuela, carriage door; but in modern Spanish the diphthongs are usually retained: nieto, nietecillo; huevo, huevecillo, etc.

c. The first form (-ito, -illo, -uelo, etc.) is used in all other cases.

hermano brother
pollo fowl

hermanito little brother polluelo chick

d. There are some exceptions to the above rules; such as mano hand

abuelo grandfather agrio sour jardín garden

manecita (or manita) little hand abuelito dear little grandfather agrillo rather sour jardinito (or jardincito) little garden

224. The meaning of the various diminutive suffixes is as follows:

a. -ito (-a), -cito (-a), -ecito (-a), express smallness of size, quality, or degree, together with fondness, admiration, and respect. They may usually be translated little, dear little, etc.

pobre hijita mía my poor dear child gatito kitten una niña grandecita a rather large girl

madrecita dear little mother un poquito a very little toditos los días every single day cerquita quite near

b. -illo (-a), -cillo (-a), -ecillo (-a), express smallness of size, quality or degree, with indifference, or with depreciation, ridicule or pity.

ladroncillo little thief sonrisilla faint smile

pobre viejecillo poor old man pobrecillo poor little fellow

c. -uelo (-a), -zuelo (-a), -ezuelo (-a), express smallness, sometimes accompanied with ridicule, disdain, or mockery.

plazuela little square

sus ojuelos his little eyes

d. -ico (-a), -cico (-a), -ecico (-a),¹ have the force of -ito, except that they are generally used somewhat humorously or sarcastically.

un perrico a pretty little dog

e. -ete (-a), -cete (-a), are used in a diminutive and often depreciative sense.

un pobrete a poor fellow un caballerete a dandy

f. -ejo (-a) usually denotes contempt.

librejo worthless book amarillejo yellowish caminejo wretched road

g. The forms -ín (-ina) and -ino (-a) are sometimes used in Castilian to express smallness.

chiquitín wee little child cebollino young onion

225. Augmentative Suffixes. — a. -ón (-ona) denotes large size, with or without grotesqueness. Feminine nouns usually become masculine upon assuming this ending, unless sex is indicated.

hombrón big man sillón easy chair barbón thick beard picarón great rogue cucharón ladle

In a few words, -ón seems to have diminutive force. Compare rata, rat, and ratón, mouse.

b. -azo (-a) has a meaning similar to that of -ón, but it is used less often.

bocaza big mouth mujeraza large, coarse woman

c. -ote (-a) is augmentative or depreciative.

palabrota naughty word ricote rich and pretentious

d. -acho (-a), -ucho (-a), and -ajo (-a) express disdain and contempt.

vinacho poor wine casucha hut trapajo dirty rag

226. Combinations of diminutive and augmentative endings occur.

(chico,¹ chiquito) chiquitín wee little child (hombre, hombrón) hombronazo big, awkward man (pícaro, picarón) picaroncillo small man who is a great rogue (pícaro, picarillo) picarillón large man who is a little rogue

227. The endings -azo and -ada are often used to denote a blow, thrust, discharge, etc. These endings are neither diminutive nor augmentative, but denote the result of an action.

bastonazo blow with a walking stick puñalada stab with a dagger

fusilazo rifle shot

228. Defective Verbs. — Study §§ 284–292.

EXERCISES

A. Esto parece un tema escrito por una alumna de una escuela elemental. Lo digo por su índole y por los muchos aumentativos y diminutivos que contiene. Leámoslo:

El mes pasado hice un viajecito al pueblecillo donde vive mi tío. A los pocos días de estar allí quise regresar. Llegué allá a principios de julio y volví a casa a mediados del mismo mes. Mi tío es un hombrón muy feo. Su bocaza y su barbón me hacen temblar de miedo.

Cerquita de su casa vive un pobre viejecito que me gusta mucho. Sus ojuelos y su sonrisilla parecen de un niño. Trabaja como sastre. Yo iba a verle toditos los días. Me sentaba en un sillón juntito a él y le hacía muchas preguntas. Un día le pregunté:

— ¿A cómo se vende esta telita?

— A pesito la varita — me dijo sonriéndose.

Con él viven su hija y dos nietecitos. El chiquitín tiene unos ocho años. Su hermanita es ya una niña grandecita. Pero tiene unos piececitos más pequeñitos que los de su hermanito. El viejecito quiere mucho a sus nietecitos. Pero un día se puso ciego de cólera y castigó al niño.

Estábamos él, su hermanita y yo en el jardincito. Debajo de un arbolito el chiquitín jugaba con tres pollitos que le había comprado el abuelito. El gato de una casa vecina se acercó poco a poco y de un arañazo mató a uno de los pollitos. El niño se puso a llorar y luego dijo unas cuantas palabrotas. Por eso su abuelito le castigó.

B. 1. ¿Quién escribió el tema? 2. ¿Qué contiene el tema? 3. ¿Dónde vive el tío? 4. ¿Qué es el tío? 5. ¿Qué tiene? 6. ¿Quién vive cerca de la casa del tío? 7. ¿Con quién vive el viejecito? 8. ¿Cuántos años tiene el chiquitín? 9. ¿A quién quiere el viejecito? 10. ¿Quién se puso ciego de cólera? 11. ¿Qué había comprado el abuelito?

C. 1. Give the noun, adjective, adverb, or participle to which the suffix has been added, and in each case give the meaning of both words: la hijita (la hija), los hermanitos, la plazuela, el pillete, el hombrecillo, el hombrón, el caminejo, el reyezuelo, la jovencita, un talentazo, los gatitos, Carlitos, madrecita, el abogadillo, el picarillo, un sillón, una sillita, una cucharita, un cucharón, un picarillo, un picarón, un ladroncillo, un arbolito, los polluelos, la señorita, una viejecita, una florecita, mi abuelita, una sonrisilla, la manecita, un perrito, una piedrecita, la lengüecita, amarillejo, un fusilazo, el vinacho, un vientecito, los pobrecitos, mis amiguitos, seis amigos, la bestiecita, ricote, sus ojuelos, el pueblecillo, sus piececitos, el rosarito, mi nietecita.

2. Read the following sentences both with and without the suffixes and explain the difference in meaning: Ahorita estaré de vuelta; la ensalada está cargadita de mostaza; es lejitos; no fué más que un descuidillo; caballerito, una limosnita, un centavito, o cualquier cosita que quiera darme; es una niña grandecita; le dió una puñalada y no un bastonazo; no me gusta la casucha; viene a verme toditos los días; un chiquitín; me dijo unas palabrotas; no es más que un caballerete; perdió un poquito; el pobre viejecito murió ayer; me caí en la plazuela; es cerquita; el autorcillo escribió un librejo; salió de la sala callandito; mi nietecito llegó esta mañana; está cansadito.

3. It is suggested that the process now be reversed, the in- structor reading the words in 1 and 2 without the suffixes, while the students, with books closed, repeat them with suffixes.

D. 1. Last summer I spent two months in a village. 2. I had a small room in a cottage. 3. This cottage was quite near a little square. 4. Every single day I would sit on an easy chair on the veranda. 5. I could look at the little children playing in the little square. 6. Behind the house there was a little garden. 7. In it there were a few small trees and many tiny flowers. 8. There were also a few hens and many chicks. 9. The owner of the cottage was a large coarse woman. 10. She had two children, a wee little boy of three, and a rather large girl.

11. Quite near the village there was a small forest. 12. In the middle of the small forest there was a pond. 13. Sometimes I would go out with the little boy and the girl for a short walk.¹ 14. The girl was looking for some little flowers for her little brother. 15. I tried to catch some little fishes for him. 16. But he would throw little stones into the pond. 17. [At] other times I would make little boats for him. 18. When a light breeze came up, the boats would go. 19. Then the little boy would become rather excited.

20. There was a hut not far from the pond. 21. In it lived a poor old man. 22. Sometimes I would give him money or some little thing. 23. He had a pretty little dog. 24. This little dog used to follow us. 25. The little boy used to play with him. 26. One day I heard a rifle shot. 27. I ran to the hut, and found the poor old man very angry. 28. A big man had killed the little dog.

VERBS

229. Like its prototype, the Latin verb, the Spanish verb shows changes of mood, tense, and person, by the addition to a verb stem of certain inflectional endings:

habl-ar to speak

habl-aba I used to speak, or

I was speaking

habl-o I speak

habl-é I spoke

habl-ando speaking

It resembles the English verb in forming compound tenses by adding to an auxiliary verb the past participle, or the present participle, of a principal verb; e.g.:

he hablado I have spoken; estoy hablando I am speaking

230. For the sake of convenience we may consider the Spanish verb under five different headings: (1) the regular verb, (2) the verb with inceptive endings, (3) the radical-changing verb, (4) the -uir (-üir) verb, (5) the irregular verb.

231. There are six principal parts, a knowledge of which will aid in the formation of the other parts of many verbs: these are the present infinitive, the past participle, the present participle (or gerund), the first person singular of the present indicative, the first person singular of the preterite indicative, and the third person singular of the preterite indicative.

(1) The present infinitive is the basis of the future indicative and the conditional of all verbs. For the future, there are added to the infinitive of the verb in question the forms, or the ending (as in the case of the second plural), of the present indicative of the verb haber, to have. The initial h of the forms of haber disappears in the composition.

For the conditional, there are added to the infinitive of the verb in question the endings of the imperfect indicative of haber. Irregular verbs may show a certain alteration of the infinitive basis.

(2) The past participle enters into the composition of all perfect tenses.

(3) The present participle, or gerund, enters into the composition of the periphrastic progressive tenses.

(4) The first person singular present indicative has, in regular verbs, the same stem as the rest of the verb, except the future and the conditional of the indicative. In radical-changing, irregular, inceptive, and -uir verbs, it usually furnishes the stem for the first person singular of the present subjunctive.

(5) The first person singular preterite indicative has the same stem as all the rest of that tense in regular, inceptive, -uir, and irregular verbs; and as the second singular and the first and second plural of this same tense in radical-changing verbs. Its stem is also the same as that of the subjunctive imperfect tenses and the future (or hypothetical) subjunctive of all but radical-changing verbs.

(6) The third person singular preterite indicative has, in radical-changing verbs, the same stem as the third plural of that tense, and as the subjunctive imperfect tenses and the hypothetical subjunctive.

(Apart from regular verbs, the above rules are not complete guides, and practice must be relied on. Note also certain orthographic changes that occur in some verbs.)

232. Regular Verbs. — It is the custom to speak of three regular conjugations in Spanish, classified, according to their endings, as the -ar, or first; the -er, or second; and the -ir, or third conjugation. In actual practice, however, we find that there are but two entire conjugations, for in all but four forms (the present infinitive, the first and second persons plural of the present indicative, and the second person plural of the imperative) the -ir or third conjugation has the same endings as the -er, or second. In the four exceptional forms, the third conjugation has the distinctive vowel i (-ir, -imos, -ís, -id), whereas the second has e (-er, -emos, -éis, -ed). The following are the paradigms:

233. Compound Perfect Tenses. — The compound tenses of all verbs, regular or not, are formed by adding their past participle (invariable) to a part of the auxiliary haber, to have; e.g.:

234. Periphrastic Progressive Tenses. — These are formed by adding the present participle to a part of the auxiliary estar, to be (or ir, to go, venir, to come, etc.); e.g.:

estoy (voy, etc.) hablando I am speaking, etc.

235. Orthographic Variations. — It is an inviolable rule of Spanish conjugation that the consonantal sound occurring at the end of the infinitive stem (i.e., immediately before the endings -ar, -er, -ir) shall be preserved throughout the verb. When, therefore, there is a change of the vowel beginning the flectional ending, the written character denoting the consonantal sound at the end of the infinitive stem may have to be changed, for the original character may not denote the original sound before the new vowel; thus it is obvious that a first conjugation verb in -car cannot continue to have c before the preterite ending, first person singular in -é; the original k sound of the infinitive stem can now be indicated only by qu before the -é.

Many of the changes here indicated for regular verbs occur also in the case of irregular verbs.

236. The usual variations in spelling are the following:

(1) Verbs in -c-ar change c to qu before flectional e. The change can occur only in the present subjunctive and in the first person singular of the preterite indicative.

Sacar to take out

Pret. 1st Sing. saqué

Pres. Subj. saque saques saque saquemos saquéis saquen

(2) Verbs in -g-ar insert u between the g and flectional e. The cases of change are the same as for -car verbs.

Pagar to pay

Pret. 1st Sing. pagué

Pres. Subj. pague, etc.

(The u has no pronounceable value: it is a mere sign that the g is "hard" before the following e.)

(3) Verbs in -gu-ar write a diæresis over the u before flectional e. This is necessary in order to indicate that the u, which has a pronounceable value before the infinitive ending -ar, continues to have one before the -e. Without the diæresis u is silent in the combination gue.

Apaciguar to pacify

Pret. 1st Sing. apacigüé

Pres. Subj. apacigüe, etc.

(4) Verbs in -z-ar change z to c before flectional e. The cases concerned are the same as in the three preceding classes, but the variation in spelling is a purely conventional one (due to the fact that modern Spanish does not write z before e or i), and no possible change of sound is involved.

Rezar to pray

Pret. 1st Sing. recé

Pres. Subj. rece, etc.

237. The preceding cases concern only verbs of the first conjugation. In the ensuing ones we deal with second and third conjugation verbs.

(1) Verbs in -c-er or -c-ir preceded by a consonant change c to z before flectional o or a. The cases concerned here and in the three following classes are the first person singular of the present indicative and all of the present subjunctive.

Vencer to conquer

Pres. Indic., }
 1st Sing. } venzo

Pres. Subj. venza venzas venza venzamos venzáis venzan

Esparcir to scatter

Pres Indic., 1st Sing. esparzo

Pres. Subj. esparza, etc.

a. For verbs in -cer and -cir preceded by a vowel, see the Inceptive Conjugation, § 242.

(2) Verbs in -g-er or -g-ir, whether regular verbs or not, change g to j before flectional o or a.

Coger to gather, take, etc.

Pres. Indic., 1st Sing. cojo Pres. Subj. coja, etc.

Corregir to correct

Pres. Indic., 1st Sing. corrijo
Pres. Subj. corrija, etc. (A radical-changing verb.)

(3) Verbs in -qu-ir change qu to c before flectional o or a.

Delinquir to be delinquent

Pres. Indic., 1st Sing. delinco Pres. Subj. delinca, etc.

(4) Verbs in -gu-ir omit the u before flectional o or a. The u is a mere sign of "hard" g in the infinitive, and is not needed before a following o or a.

Distinguir to distinguish

Pres. Indic., 1st Sing. distingo Pres. Subj. distinga, etc.

238. In the second and third conjugations the diphthongs -ie- and -i6 occur in certain endings (present participle, third person singular, and third person plural of the preterite indicative, and throughout the two imperfects and the future or hypothetical of the subjunctive). If the verb stem end in a vowel (e.g., le-er, to read), the i of these diphthongal endings must be changed to y, for it is a general rule (and therefore applicable to all verbs, whether regular or not) that unaccented i can not stand between two vowels.

Le-er to read

Pres. Part.	le-yendo (for le-iendo)
Pret. Indic., 3d Sing.	le-y6 (for le-i6)
3d Pl.	le-yeron (for le-ieron)
Imperf. Subj., 1st Form	le-yese, etc. (for le-iese, etc.)
2d Form	le-yera, etc. (for le-iera, etc.)
Fut. Subj.	le-yere, etc. (for le-iere, etc.)

This change is particularly common in -uir verbs (huir, to flee, huyendo, etc.).

239. If the verb stem end in ll or ñ, the i of the diphthongal endings -ie- and -iô disappears. This is true of all verbs, regular or not. Certain irregular verbs (especially decir, to say, traer, to bring, and -ducir derivatives) likewise lose the i of their -ie- endings after the j of their preterite stem.

Bullir to boil

Pres. Part.	bull-endo (instead of bull-iendo)
Pret. Indic., 3d Sing.	bull-ô (instead of bull-iô)
3d Pl.	bull-eron (instead of bull-ieron)
Impf. Subj., 1st Form	bull-ese, etc.
2d Form	bull-era, etc.
Fut. Subj.	bull-ere, etc.

Plañir to lament

plañ-endo	plañ-ô	plañ-eron
plañ-ese, etc.	plañ-era, etc.	plañ-ere, etc.

Traer to bring

Pret. Indic., 3d Pl.,	traj-eron
Subj.	traj-ese, etc.	traj-era, etc.	traj-ere, etc.

240. In the three persons singular and in the third plural of the present tenses (indicative, subjunctive, and imperative), certain -iar and -uar verbs take an accent on the i or the u.

Variar to vary

Pres Indic.	varío	varías	varía	(variamos)	(variáis)	varían
Pres. Subj.	varíe	varíes	varíe	(variemos)	(variéis)	varíen
Imper. Sing.	varía

Acentuar to accentuate, accent

Pres. Indic.	acentúo	acentúas	acentúa	acentúan
Pres. Subj.	acentúe	acentúes	acentúe	acentúen
Imper. Sing.	acentúa

241. Not all the -iar and -uar verbs take this accent; cf. principiar, to begin; principio, I begin; presenciar, to witness; presencio, I witness; diferenciar, to differentiate;

diferencian, they differentiate. By practice only can it be determined whether the accent should fall on the i and the u or not. The verbs in the following lists are among the commonest taking the accent.

(1) -iar:

acuantiar	calofriar	cuantiar	enfriar	guiar	telegrafiar
aliar	cariar	desafiar	enviar	hastiar	triar
ampliar	ciar	descarriar	espiar	liar	vaciar
arriar	confiar	desconfiar	estriar	piar	vanagloriar
ataviar	contrariar	descriar	expiar	porfiar	variar
averiar	correntiar	desvariar	fiar	resfriar	vigiar
aviar	criar	desviar	gloriar	rociar	zurriar

(2) -uar:

acentuar	continuar	extenuar	habituar	perpetuar	situar
actuar	desvirtuar	fluctuar	indivduar	puntuar	tumultuar
arruar	efectuar	ganzuar	infatuar	redituar	usufructuar
atenuar	evaluar	graduuar	insinuar	ruar	valuar
conceptuar	exceptuar

242. Verbs with Inceptive Endings. — There are certain verbs of the second and third conjugations whose infinitives end in -cer or -cir preceded by a vowel and the great majority of which are derived from Latin inceptive (-scere) verbs. In the present stem (indicative and subjunctive) these insert a z before the c, wherever the verb ending begins with o or a. Only seven forms undergo this change; namely, the first person singular present indicative, and the six forms of the present subjunctive. All other forms of these verbs are regular.¹

Conocer to know, conociendo, conocido

Pres. Indic.

cono~~zc~~-o conoc-es conoc-e conoc-emos conoc-éis conoc-en

¹ The inceptive or "beginning" sense is not necessarily present in these verbs. It was already gone to a large degree in Latin.

Pres. Subj.

conozc-a conozc-as conozc-a conozc-amos conozc-áis conozc-an

Pres. Imperat. conoce, conoc-ed

Imperf. Indic. conocía, etc.

Pret. conocí, etc.

Fut. Indic. conoceré, etc.

Cond. conocería, etc.

Subj. Imperfs. conociese, etc., conociera, etc.

Fut. Subj. conociere, etc.

Lucir to shine, luciendo, lucido

Pres. Indic. luzc-o luzc-es luzc-e luzc-imos luzc-ís luzc-en Pres. Subj. luzc-a luzc-as luzc-a luzc-amos luzc-áis luzc-an

All other forms regular as in the third conjugation.

EXCEPTIONS. — a. mecer, to rock (and its derivative remecer), simply changes c to z before o or a (mezo, meza, etc.); it is a regular verb of the second conjugation. Cocer, to boil, recocer, to boil again, and escocer, to smart, likewise change c to z; they are radical-changing verbs of the first class, e.g., cuezo, cueza, etc.; cf. § 245 (4); but cocer is little used in forms taking z. Hacer, to do, make, decir, to say, and their derivatives, are irregular verbs and not of the inceptive class. Irregular, too, are yacer, to lie, and placer, to please. Pacer, to graze, and balbucir, to stammer, are hardly used in the forms that would have an inserted z.

b. Certain irregular verbs conjugate their present tenses after the fashion of the inceptive verb. Thus the -ducir derivatives (conducir, inducir, etc.) have in the pres. indic. -duzco, and in the pres. subj. -duzca, -duzcas, -duzca, -duzcamos, -duzcáis, -duzcan. The rest of their present forms are also like those of lucir; that is, are those of regular verbs of the third conjugation. Their preterite tenses are irregular. See § 278.

243. Radical-changing Verbs. — Quite a number of verbs are regular as to their flec-tional endings, but under certain conditions modify the vocalic nature of their radical or root syllable. In these verbs the infinitive shows the unmodified root vowel, which must be either e or o. As a result of accentual influences or of apparent umlaut (e.g., the influence of the i of one of the diphthongs ie, io, in the following syllable) the e may become ie or even i and the o may become ue or even u.

244. There are three main classes of these radical-changing verbs. Their variations may be represented by this scheme:

- I. Root vowel e becomes ie }
 Root vowel o becomes ue } under the accent.
- II. (1) Root vowel e becomes ie }
 Root vowel o becomes ue } under the accent.
- (2) Root vowel e becomes i } when not accented, if the follow-Root vowel o becomes u } ing¹ syllable have a or one of the diphthongs ie, io.
- III. Root vowel e becomes i, both (1) under the accent and (2) when not accented, if followed by a syllable with a or one of the diphthongs ie, io.¹

It is well for students to be on their guard against all verbs showing e or o in what seems to be the root vowel of the infinitive. A verb list should be consulted for the purpose of ascertaining whether they are radical-changing or not.

245. The First Class of radical-changing verbs embraces only -ar and -er verbs. In these, e becomes ie and o becomes ue when the root syllable has the accent. It can have the accent only in the three persons singular and the third person plural of the present indicative and present subjunctive, and in the second person singular of the imperative. These forms alone, then, show any change: all the other forms are perfectly regular. The variations may be illustrated by the verbs pensar to think

perder to lose

contar to count, tell mover to move

¹ This rule may also be stated as follows: in the radical-changing verbs of the second and third classes (both of the third conjugation), the root vowel e becomes i and the root vowel o becomes u, when not accented, if not followed by stressed i.

NOTE. — The change of the root vowels e and o to ie and ue under the accent started with verbs having as their root vowels in Latin ē or ae (vulgar Latin open e) and ō. In the development of Latin into Spanish these vowels, when stressed, broke into the corresponding diphthongs ie, ue. When not under the accent, they ordinarily preserved their integrity in Spanish: cf. Latin pētra, Spanish piedra, stone; Latin tērra, Spanish tierra, earth; Latin cērtus, Spanish cierto, certain; Latin caecus, Spanish ciego, blind; Latin fōrtis, Spanish fuerte, strong; but with unaccented and therefore retained root vowel, Latin * pētrārius, Spanish pedrero, stone-cutter; Latin tērrēnus, Spanish terreno, land, etc., etc.

246. Certain verbs in -olver are of this first radical-changing class, but have an irregular past participle in -uelto. These are chiefly volver to return, come back

Pres. Indic. vuelvo, vuelves, etc.

Past Part. vuelto

and its derivatives, devolver, to give back; envolver, to wrap up; revolver, to stir, etc., and solver, to loosen, and its derivatives, absolver, to absolve; disolver, to dissolve; resolver, to resolve, etc.

247. Orthographic changes already indicated for regular verbs are to be observed also in radical-changing verbs; cf. §§ 235–239, e.g.:

c to qu	revolcarse to wallow	{ Pret., 1st Sing. me revolqué Pres. Subj., 1st Sing. me revuelque, etc.
-----------------------	------------------------------------	---

g to gu	cegar to blind	{ Pret. 1st.Sing. cegué Pres. Subj. 1st Sing. ciegue, etc.
z to c	tropezar to stumble	{ Pret. 1st Sing. tropecé Pres. Subj. 1st Sing. tropiece
c to z	torcer to twist	{ Pres. Ind. tuerzo, but tuerces, tuerce, etc. Pres. Subj. tuerza, tuerzas, etc.
(g)o to (g)üe	degollar to behead	{ Pres. Ind. degüello, degüellas, etc. Pres. Subj. degüelle, etc.

248. The verbs errar, to err, and oler, to have an odor, smell, are of this first radical-changing class, but wherever they stress their root syllables, the resulting ie of errar is changed to ye, and the resulting ue of oler to hue,¹ because of the rule that no word should begin with the diphthongs ie or ue.

(1) Errar, errando, errado

Pres. Ind.	yerr-o	yerr-as	yerr-a	err-amos	err-áis	yerr-an
Pres. Subj.	yerr-e	yerr-es	yerr-e	err-emos	err-éis	yerr-en
Imperat.	—	yerr-a	—	—	err-ad	—
		etc.			etc.

(2) Oler, oliendo, olido

Pres. Ind.	huel-o	huel-es	huel-e	ol-emos	ol-éis	huel-en
Pres. Subj.	huel-a	huel-as	huel-a	ol-amos	ol-áis	huel-an
Imperat.	—	huel-e	—	—	ol-ed	—
		etc.			etc.

a. An h is also inserted before the ue of the stressed root syllables of desosar, to bone, unbone, and desovar, to spawn. Here the h is due to the analogy of the related nouns hueso, bone, and huevo, egg.

Desosar, desosando, desosado

deshueso deshuelas deshuesa desosamos desosáis deshuesan

¹ The h of hue-, as in huelo, is and always has been silent. In Old Spanish there was confusion in the use of v and u. By the use of h, such words as huelo (Old Spanish velo or uelo) and velo (Old Spanish velo or uelo) could be distinguished.

250. Three verbs in -ir seem to belong to this class, which regularly comprises only -ar and -er verbs. These are discernir, to discern, concernir, to concern (cf. § 286), adquirir, to acquire, and inquirir, to inquire. But they are derivatives and are related to simple verbs in -er, viz., cerner and querer.¹ Adquirir and inquirir show the further peculiarity of an i in the unstressed root forms, to correspond to the ie of the stressed root syllables; but it is to be observed that querer shows the original e.

251. The Second Radical-Changing Class embraces only verbs of the third conjugation with the root vowel e or o.

As in the first class, e becomes ie and o becomes ue under the accent. When not accented the e is changed to i and the o to u, if the vowel a¹ or one of the diphthongs ie, io occur in the next syllable. In all other cases the original e and o remain. This class may be illustrated by the conjugation of the verbs sentir, to feel, and dormir, to sleep.

It is a useful fact to remember that in this class the subjunctive imperfects and future always show the same stem as the preterite, third person singular and plural.

a. The number of o verbs in this second radical-changing class is small: dormir, to sleep, and morir, to die, are the only simple verbs in it. Morir is conjugated exactly like dormir except in its past participle, which has only the irregular form muerto. The past participle muerto is not only intransitive, meaning died, dead (el hombre ha muerto, the man has died, the man is dead); but with a personal object it may be transitive, meaning killed (hemos muerto al soldado, we have killed the soldier).

252. The Third Radical-Changing Class consists only of third-conjugation verbs with the root vowel e. A change occurs only in the same cases as in Class II, viz., under the accent, and where the root syllable is not accented if it be followed by a or one of the diphthongs ie, ió. In both these cases the e becomes i (so that there is no diphthong in the root syllable of these verbs). In all other forms the e remains and those forms are regular as of the third conjugation. The class may be illustrated by the conjugation of vestir, to clothe.

254. The verb erguir, to erect, may in the stressed root syllables of its present tenses have either the diphthong ie (written ye because it is at the beginning of the word) or the vowel i. It may be conjugated throughout as of either the second or the third radical-changing class. Of course its u disappears before o or a.

255. There are certain verbs in -eír that belong to this class. They change their e to i in the same cases as vestir, but whenever that i comes into conjunction with i of a following diphthong ie or ió, one of the two i's disappears, as in reír, to laugh.

Reír, riendo (for ri-iendo), re-ído

Pres. Indic.	rí-o	rí-es	rí-e	re-ímos	re-ís	rí-en
Pres. Subj.	rí-a	rí-as	rí-a	ri-amos	ri-áis	rí-an

Imperf. Subj., 2d Form	riera (for ri-iera)			rieras, etc.
Fut. Subj.	riere (for ri-iere)			rieres, etc.

a. This is now the customary conjugation of reír and other -eír verbs of this class. Formerly — at least in the case of reír itself — the i was not lost necessarily, and there resulted such forms as riyendo (unaccented i changed to y between vowels), riyó, riyeron, riyese, etc., riyera, etc., riyere, etc. Note the many forms of reír requiring a written accent.

256. The verb podrir, or podrir, to putrefy, was once included in this class as an example of a change of o to u in conjugation. But in practice it has become a regular verb of the third conjugation, with u everywhere in the root syllable. The o is retained only in by-forms of the infinitive and past participle, podrir and podrido. Pudrir is preferred to podrir, but as the passive participle podrido seems to be still the commoner form.

257. -Uir Verbs. — These include only verbs with a pronounced u (written with a diæresis when g precedes, as in argüir, to argue).

Their peculiarity consists in adding y to the u, except where the flecational ending begins with i (whether stressed i or i of the diphthongs -ie-, -ió). Of course, the future and conditional indicative do not take the y, being based on the infinitive. Besides this y added to the u, the conjugation of these verbs shows a y (in the present participle, the preterite, third singular and third plural, and the subjunctive imperfects and future) which represents the unaccented i of the diphthongal ending when it comes between vowels: cf. § 238.

The class may be illustrated by the conjugation of huir, to flee.

a. Note that the future and the conditional of the indicative are based on a contract form of the infinitive. As the impersonal verb to be, haber takes the suffix y (an old adverb meaning there) in the present indicative, whence hay, there is or there are. For the other moods and tenses it simply has the third person singular forms without the appended y: había, there was (were), habrá, there will be, etc.

It is characteristic of many irregular verbs that in the first and third singular of the preterite indicative they stress

initial (prosthetic) e, because in Spanish no word properly begins with s plus a consonant. All Latin words beginning with such a combination and surviving in Spanish take this e prefix (cf. also French état from Latin statum, etc.).

a. This verb is perfectly regular as of the first conjugation in all its forms except the preterite indicative and the three subjunctive tenses based on it. Note the resemblance of the preterite stems of estar, tener, and andar, i.e., estuv-, tuv-, and anduv-, to that of haber, i.e., hub- (spelled with v instead of b in earlier Spanish).

a. The stem of this verb is d-. Thereon are based the present tenses and the imperfect indicative with the regular endings of the first conjugation. The first person singular, present indicative, has also a y suffix (cf. ser, estar, and ir with soy, estoy, and voy). The preterite and the subjunctive imperfect and hypothetical tenses add to d- the regular endings of the second and third conjugations, and not those of the first conjugation.

a. The present indicative and subjunctive follow the model of a radical-changing verb of the first class, but the present participle has the same stem as the preterite. The future and conditional indicatives are based on a contract infinitive. The verb has no imperative.

266. Caber to be contained, find roomCaber, cabiendo, cabidoPres. Indic.*

a. The conjugation of saber is quite like that of caber. In the first person singular, present indicative, however, saber has a contract form sé instead of a form sepo, which might have been expected: but the irregular stem sep- has remained in the present subjunctive.

a. The past participle is irregular (from Latin factum). The imperative singular has no flecional ending, but consists only of the regular present stem as found in hac-es, etc., with, of course, z, and not c, in the final position. The future and conditional are based on a contract infinitive har. The preterite hice represents the Latin fēcī. Like hacer are conjugated its derivatives. Some of these, like satisfacer, to satisfy, have instead of h the original Latin f of facere. Besides an imperative singular satisfaz, there is found also a regular form satisface.

a. There are three different Latin verbs discernible in the make-up of this verb. The infinitive, present participle, past participle, imperative plural, future and conditional indicative, and imperfect indicative are associated with ire, to go. The present indicative and subjunctive and the imperative singular forms come from vadere, to go. The preterite and the subjunctive imperfects and future represent the Latin fuī, fuisset, etc.; that is, they are simply borrowed from the corresponding tenses of the Spanish ser, to be. Cf. in colloquial English 'I was to Boston yesterday' = 'I went (and returned).'

b. Ir is the only verb that has a special form of the first person plural of the present subjunctive, viz., vamos, let us go, which is used only as an imperative in modern Spanish. In Cervantes and other classic writers there is found also a second form of the second plural, present subjunctive, viz., vais. Vayamos is restricted in use to subordinate clauses. Vamos and vaya are frequently used as interjections (cf. French allons), meaning come now! etc.

a. Certain forms have characteristics of a radical-changing verb (cf. present participle, second and third singular and third plural of present indicative, etc.). The imperative singular is without a flectional ending. The future and conditional of the indicative are based on a contract infinitive with inserted d. The preterite vine represents Latin vēnī.

a. The present stem shows both a regular and an irregular (pong-) form. The imperative singular is without flectional ending. The future and conditional indicative are based on a contract infinitive with insented d. The preterite puse came from Latin posuī. The past participle puesto is irregular; cf. Latin pōsitum.

a. The present tenses have both a regular and an irregular (valg-) stem. The imperative singular may have a flecional vowel or not; it usually does nowadays. The future and conditional indicative are based on a contract stem with inserted d. All other forms are perfectly regular.

274. Salir to go out, come outSalir, saliendo, salido

Pres. Indic.	salg-o	sal-es	sal-e	sal-imos	sal-ís	sal-en
Pres. Subj.	salg-a	salg-as	salg-a	salg-amos	salg-áis	salg-an
Imperat.	—	sal	—	—	sal-id	—

a. All other forms follow the model of valer, from which, moreover, salir differs only in the four flectional forms characteristic of the third conjugation and in having only the imperative singular without a flectional vowel.

275. Caer to fallCaer, cayendo, caído

Pres. Indic.	{ caig-o ca-emos	ca-es ca-éis	ca-e ca-en
Pres. Subj.	{ caig-a caig-amos	caig-as caig-áis	caig-a caig-an

Fut. Subj.	{ ca-yere ca-yéremos	ca-yeres ca-yereis	ca-yere ca-yeren

a. The present tenses have a regular and an irregular (caig-) stem. The rest of the verb is perfectly regular. Note, however, that a written accent is required on the i of the past participle and of the second singular and the first and second plural of the preterite, and that unaccented i between vowels has been changed to y in the preterite third singular and third plural, in the subjunctive imperfects and future, and in the present participle.

276. Oír to hear

Oír, oyendo, oído

Pres. Indic.	oig-o	oy-es	oy-e	o-ímos	o-ís	oy-en
Pres. Subj.	oig-a	oig-as	oig-a	oig-amos	oig-áis	oig-an

Imperf. Subj., 2d Form
Fut. Subj.	o-yere	o-yeres	o-yere	o-yéremos	o-yereis	o-yeren

a. Three stems are visible in the present, viz., oig- (first singular, present indicative, and all of present subjunctive), oy- (second and third singular and third plural of present indicative and imperative singular), and the regular stem o- (first and second plural, present indicative, and imperative plural). The rest of the verb is regular, but unaccented i between vowels is changed to y (third singular and plural of preterite, and all of subjunctive imperfects and hypothetical, as well as present participle). Note that stressed i after o requires a written accent.

277. Traer to bring

Traer, trayendo, traído

Pres. Indic.	{ traig-o tra-emos	tra-es	tra-éis	tra-e	tra-en
Pres. Subj.		traig-as	traig-áis	traig-a	traig-an

a. The present tenses show a regular and an irregular (traig-) stem; the present participle exhibits the change of unaccented i between vowels to y (tra-iendo — tra-yendo). Note the written accent of the past participle. The preterite traje represents the Latin trāxī (a Latin x between vowels has usually become j in Spanish). The i of the diphthong ie has disappeared after the j (Old Spanish x = sh); cf. § 235.

278. -ducir to lead

This verb (from Latin ducere) is found in modern Spanish only in certain derivatives (conducir, deducir, inducir, reducir, etc.). Its conjugation may be illustrated by one of these.

Conducir to conduct

Conducir, conduciendo, conducido

Fut. Indic.	{	conducir-é conducir-emos	conducir-ás conducir-éis	conducir-á conducir-án
Cond. Indic.	{	conducir-ía conducir-íamos	conducir-ías conducir-íais	conducir-ía conducir-ían
Imperf. Indic.	{	conduc-ía conduc-íamos	conduc-ías conduc-íais	conduc-ía conduc-ían

Fut. Subj.	{	conduj-ere conduj-éremos	conduj-eres conduj-ereis	conduj-ere conduj-eren

a. The present tenses show the peculiarities of the inceptive verbs, to which, because there is a vowel before the -cir, this verb has been attracted. The preterite -duje represents the Latin dūxī, and as usual the i of a following diphthong -ie is lost after the j (Old Spanish x = sh).

279. Decir to say

Decir, diciendo, dicho

Pres. Indic.	dig-o	dic-es	dic-e	dec-imos	dec-ís	dic-en
Pres. Subj.	dig-a	dig-as	dig-a	dig-amos	dig-áis	dig-an

Cond. Indic.	dir-ía	dir-ías	dir-ía	dir-íamos	dir-íais	dir-ían
Imp. Indic.	dec-ía	dec-ías	dec-ía	dec-íamos	dec-íais	dec-ían
Pret. Indic.	dij-e	dij-iste	dij-o	dij-imos	dij-isteis	dij-eron
Imp. Subj., 1st Form	}	dij-ese	dij-eses	dij-ese	dij-ésemos	dij-eseis	dij-esen
Imp. Subj., 2d Form		dij-era	dij-eras	dij-era	dij-éramos	dij-erais	dij-eran
Fut. Subj.		dij-ere	dij-eres	dij-ere	dij-éremos	dij-ereis	dij-eren

a. The present tenses and the present participle show vocalic conditions like those of the third class of radical-changing verbs. The past participle is irregular (from Latin dictum); the imperative singular lacks a flecional ending (cf. Latin dic). The future and conditional indicative are based on a contract infinitive, dir. Dije represents the Latin dīxī, and after the j the i of the diphthong ie has disappeared (in preterite third plural and subjunctive imperfects and future). There is an indefinite form diz, it is said, people say, etc.

b. Derivatives of decir are bendecir, to bless, and maldecir, to curse. These imitate decir in their conjugation, except that they base their future and conditional indicative upon the uncontracted infinitive decir, whence the forms bendeciré, etc., maldeciré, etc., and have a flecional vowel in their imperative singular, bendice and maldice. Furthermore, they have regular past participles, bendecido and maldecido. The participles bendicho and maldicho are now antiquated, and the forms bendito and maldito occur only as adjectives. The derivatives contradecir, to contradict, desdecir, to gainsay, and predecir, to predict, differ from decir only in having the full form of the imperative singular, contradice, desdice, predice.

280. Ver to see

Ver, viendo, visto

Pres. Indic.	ve-o	v-es	v-e	v-emos	v-eis	v-en
Pres. Subj.	ve-a	ve-as	ve-a	ve-amos	ve-áis	ve-an

a. The true present stem of this verb is ve-, which is seen in the first singular, present indicative (ve-o), and throughout in the present subjunctive (ve-a, etc.) and the imperfect indicative (ve-ía, etc.). Before a flecional e the stem loses its e, as in the remaining forms of the present indicative, the infinitive, and the imperative. It also loses the e in the present participle. The past participle is irregular. The preterite vi represents the Latin vīdī.¹ In poetry an imperfect indicative vía, vías (with reduced stem v-), is sometimes found even now.

b. Compounds of ver which show the reduced present stem (v-), such as antever, to foresee, prever, to foresee, rever, to see again, review, are conjugated exactly like it. On the other hand, the derivative pro-veer, to provide, which shows the full present stem (ve-), is conjugated throughout as a perfectly regular verb. It has, however, both a regular past participle, proveído, and an irregular one, provisto; and in the present participle, the preterite, third singular and third plural, and the subjunctive imperfect and future, it changes the i of the diphthongs -ie-, -iō, to y.

Proveer, proveyendo, proveído or provisto

Pres. Indic.	prove-o	prove-es, etc.
Pres. Subj.	prove-a	prove-as, etc.
Imperat.		prove-e, etc.
Fut. Indic.	proveer-é, etc.
Cond. Indic.	proveer-ía, etc.
Imperf. Indic.	prove-ía, etc.
Pret. Indic.	{ prove-í prove-ímos	prove-íste prove-ísteis	prove-yó prove-yeron
Imperf. Subj., 1st Form	{ prove-yese, etc.
Imperf. Subj., 2d Form	{ prove-yera, etc.
Fut. Subj.	prove-yere, etc.

Note the accent required in the regular past participle, and in the second singular and the first and second plural of the preterite.

Anomalous Past Participles

281. Four regular verbs of the third conjugation have only irregular past participles.

abrir to open, abierto cubrir to cover, cubierto

escribir to write, escrito imprimir to print, impreso

This peculiarity is shared by their compounds.

¹ Vide, for vi, still survives in some dialects.

a. The participle escribido is found in what is perhaps punning use in such an expression as un hombre (bien) leído y escrito, a man who can read and write (cf. the influence of the participle leído; its attractive force may explain escribido).

282. Two regular verbs of the second conjugation have both a regular and an irregular past participle.

prender to catch, prendido and preso romper to break, rompido and roto

Prendido and roto are preferred for the compound tenses; rompido, however, occurs in intransitive use. Preso and roto are also used as adjectives.

283. Two regular verbs of the third conjugation have both a regular and an irregular past participle.

oprimir to oppress, oprimido and opreso suprimir to suppress, suprimido and supreso

The regular participle alone seems now to be used in the compound tenses; the other forms are practically adjectives.

Defective Verbs

284. Placer, to please. Used now chiefly as an impersonal verb, i.e., only in the third person singular forms of its tenses. Traces of other forms are occasionally found in the present tenses; e.g., placen. Its impersonal conjugation is this:

Pres. Ind.	place	Pres. Subj.	plega, plegue or plazca
Impf. Ind.	{ placía (rare)	Impf. Subj., 1st Form	{ pluguiese or placiese
Pret. Ind.	{ plugo or plació	Impf. Subj., 2d Form	{ pluguiera or placiera
Fut. Ind.	placerá	Fut. Subj.	pluguiere or placiere
Cond. Ind.	placería	Pres. Part.	placiendo

a. The commonest form is pluguiera, which is used in optative expressions: ¡ pluguiera a Dios ! would to God !

b. The derivative complacer is of the class of verbs with inceptive endings; another derivative, aplayer, is found in the third person singular and plural forms, such as aplace, apacen, apacía, and apacían.

285. Yacer, to lie. This verb has many peculiarities of the inceptive class. It is nearly obsolete, and is chiefly used in the third person forms.

Yacer, yaciendo, yacido

Pres. Indic.	$\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{yazco} \\ \text{yazgo} \\ \text{yago} \end{array} \right\}$	yaces	yace	yacemos	yacéis	yacen
Pres. Subj.	$\left\{ \begin{array}{ll} \text{yazca} & \text{yazcas, etc.} \\ \text{yazga} & \text{yazgas, etc.} \\ \text{yaga} & \text{yagas, etc.} \end{array} \right\}$
Imperat.		yace or yaz

The other forms are regular.

yací, etc.; yaciese, etc.; yaciera, etc.; yaciere, etc.; yaceré, etc.; yacería, etc.

286. Concernir, to concern, occurs only in the third person singular and plural forms.

Pres. Indic.	concierne	conciernen
Pres. Subj.	concierna	conciernan
Fut. Indic.	concernirá.	concernirán
Cond. Indic.	concerniría	concernirían
Imperf. Indic.	concernía	concernían
Pret. Indic.	concernió	concernieron
Imperf. Subj., 1st Form	concerniese	concerniesen
Imperf. Subj., 2d Form	concerniera	concernieran
Fut. Subj.	concerniere	concernieren

287. Soler, to be accustomed, is used now in hardly any forms except those of the present and imperfect indicative.

Pres. Indic.	suelo	sueles	suele	solemos	soléis	suelen
Imperf. Indic.	solía	solías	solía	solíamos	solíais	solían

The present participle soliendo, the past participle solido, and the preterite solí, etc., are exceedingly rare. All other forms do not occur.

288. Atañer, to appertain, is found only in the third person forms, especially of the present indicative.

atañe atañen

289. Raer, to erase, is but little used. Its conjugation is like that of caer, with the additional forms raya, rayas, etc., in the present subjunctive.

290. Roer, to gnaw. This may have any one of three present stems before its endings -o and -a; otherwise it is a regular verb of the second conjugation.

Pres. Indic.	$\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{ro-o} \\ \text{roig-o} \\ \text{roy-o} \end{array} \right\}$	roes	roe	roemos	roéis	roen
---------------------	--	------	-----	--------	-------	------

--------------------	---

But the first person singular, present indicative, and all the present subjunctive are rather shunned in actual use.

a. The derivative corroer, to corrode, avoids the stems ending in -ig and -y.

291. The preterite forms repuse, I replied, repusiste, thou didst reply, etc., if judged by their form, would seem to be from the verb reponer, but they may be forms of an older respuse, etc., (with the first s lost by dissimilation), from responder.

292. Some ten verbs of the third regular conjugation occur only in the forms whose flecional ending begins with i. These are abolir to abolish aguerrir to make warlike arrecirse to become numb aterirse to become rigid desmarrirse to become sad despavorir to become frightened embaír to impose upon empedernir to harden garantir to guarantee manir to become tender

For these there can occur in the present indicative and imperative only the forms in -imos, -ís, and -id (e.g., abolimos, abolís, abolid). They have no subjunctive present forms. They may have all the rest of the conjugation, since the endings begin with i.

The following list embraces radical-changing, -uir, irregular, and anomalous verbs. The verbs with inceptive endings (-cer or -cir preceded by a vowel) are not included: they simply follow the models given in § 242. In the case of derivatives reference is made to the conjugation of the simple verbs, which they follow. The numbers refer to paragraphs.

Taking a Direct Infinitive Object, or Requiring a Preposition Before a Subordinate Infinitive

If the principal verb is followed by a direct infinitive object, without the interposition of a preposition, this fact is indicated by a dash (—) placed after the principal verb, thus: querer —, wish to.

If a preposition is required before the subordinate infinitive, the preposition is given after the principal verb, thus: empezar a, begin to; tratar de, try to.

If the gerund may be used instead of a subordinate infinitive, this fact is indicated thus: recrearse en or ger. divert oneself by.

After many verbs in the list, the infinitive is used only when the principal and the subordinate verbs have the same subject. This is true of verbs of affirming, denying, believing, doubting, knowing, etc. (afirmar, asegurar, confesar, creer, dudar, negar, reconocer, saber, sostener, etc.), verbs of willing or wishing (anhelar, desear, querer, etc.), and verbs that express feeling or emotion (alegrarse de, sentir, temer, etc.).

The following list does not include verbs and expressions with which an infinitive is used only as subject of the sentence, such as importar (e.g., me importa hacerlo), ocurrir (e.g., se me ocurre hacerlo), ser fácil, necesario, etc. (e.g., es fácil hacerlo), tocar (e.g., me toca hacerlo), valer más (e.g., vale más hacerlo), etc. Nor is reference made to the use of an infinitive subject with such verbs as convenir (e.g., me conviene hacerlo), gustar (e.g., me gusta hacerlo), etc.
